COLLEGE LIFE TO BE SEEN IN BURLESQUE

UNIVERSITY NIGHT PROGRAM TO CONSIST OF EIGHT EVENTS.

PLAYLET BY THE DRAMATIC CLUB

Various Organizations Will Each Contribute Feature—No Admission to Be Charged.

The celebration of University Night will be held next Saturday night in the Temple and an interesting program is being prepared that will make this one of the most attractive events of the year. University night was instituted last year for the first time and the initial event proved such a success that much greater interest is being taken in the affair, not only by the participants, but by the whole student body as well.

The program this year will be similar to last year's, but much more elaborate and novel. It will consist of seven events in the form of take-offs on University personalities and activities, each event about fifteen minutes or twenty minutes in length. Competition among the various organizations, by whom the events are presented, was exceedingly keen in the tryouts and the efforts of several contestants were discarded entirely. In most of the acts three and four rehearsals a week are being held.

Chancellor Will Preside.

Charge of the affair was originally in the hands of Randall Curtis, but on his graduation Vern Bates was placed in charge. Chancellor Avery will preside and offer the introductory remarks.

The following is the program of events, each of which, with the exception of the musical numbers, will be a burlesque of some phase of University life:

1. Mandolin Club. 2. Dramatic Club play. 3. Farmers' Institute. 4. Glee Club. 5. Engineers. 6. Palladian. 7. Medics. 8. Picture of fraternity rush week.

Van Dusen Writes Playlet.

The Dramatic Club presentation appeals particularly to the student body from the fact that it was written by Dana Van Dusen, and will be a novel and interesting playlet of a serious nature. It will introduce some of the best talent in the Dramatic Club and show some extraordinary scenic effects.

The picture of fraternity rush week will be a more or less realistic representation of the trials and tribulations of that period and will involve all the comedy the name implies by logical inference. The Medics' contribution will show "Doc" Lyman attempting to run a drug store and practice the medical profession simultaneously with disastrous results. The other events, it is expected, will all be more than worth coming to see.

There will be no admission charge to the event. A large number were turned away last year and no advertising is considered necessary for securing a full house this year.

RAPS OUR LEGAL SYSTEM

PROF. LUCILE EVANS DISCUSSES THE NEED OF ACCIDENT INSURANCE TO WORKMEN.

"The American laborer is prosperous because of our abundant natural resources and no thanks is due to our system of law," said Prof. Lucile Eaves at convocation yesterday. In her talk she dealt with the subject, "Accident Insurance to Workmen," which was so carefully considered by the last Nebraska legislature.

She showed that this country lags far behind the European nations in the field of reform laws for social justice. The need of such legislation is very apparent, she declared, when one considers that over 500,000 workmen are injured or killed every year and that in the case of the latter, the family or dependents rarely get more than funeral expenses in the way of damages.

As a remedy for these evils the various plans used in Europe were discussed. These were the simple compensation, the guarantee, and the compulsory insurance systems. The speaker showed that our main difficulties in obtaining this legislation lay in the courts.

For Nebraska, which has had a commission appointed to improve insurance conditions, the compulsory insurance of all wage earners against accidents was considered best. This law, she said, should provide not only for remuneration in case of death, but also an annuity.

LAW NOT SLUFFER'S COURSE

LARGE NUMBER OF FLUNKS AND CONDITIONS RESULT FROM MID-YEAR EXAMS.

Who says law is a sluffer's course? It has often been alleged by many unsuspecting students who have never been very well acquainted with the legal department of the University that the law is only taken by those who wish to have a good time while in college. It is claimed that the reason this branch is chosen is because the study is not really hard and that everyone always manages to get through.

While this might all be true, at the same time there are a surprising number of failures and conditions marked up even for the best students in the law classes, to say nothing of the sluffers.

In the Freshman law class in common law pleading, fifty-six per cent of the class failed to come up to the requirement for passing; in the Freshman law contracts class there are twenty-five failures, some ten conditions and a few who will have to hand in a notebook in order to clear up their records.

This all merely goes to show that the student who wishes to sluff while in college had better register in some other department than in the law, despite the general suspicion to the contrary.

Sophomore Election.

The Sophomore election will be held at 11:30, Thursday. All Sophomores take notice.

POLITICS INVADE LIBRARY

ELECTIONEERING REPLACES USUAL FUSSING AND OCCASIONAL STUDYING THERE.

The library, yesterday morning, presented a crowded appearance that easily exceeded the highest "limit" ever put upon a University dance.

"The reason—? Why do you ask? The Junior election, of course," was the comment of one fair co-ed, who found her favorite chair occupied by a stalwart engineer, attempting to convince a "law" to support "the fellow that has done more for the class than anyone else in school."

Despite the angry looks from the librarian's desk, excited conversations became more audible.

"I've promised five votes from our sorority and every junior is in class." "No, I don't think I can vote for him, he isn't good-looking enough." "Well, if I do change my mind, I'll let you know." "Oh, I can't vote, I'm a senior." "I don't care if others are going to . . . well, I guess I will, though. Who did you say to vote for?" and other remarks were frequent from the co-ed side of the library.

Just as the hum was getting unbearable and the guardian of the desk was walking up and down in futile wrath, the bell rang and with a rush the electioneering crowd departed for Memorial Hall.

ENGINEERS MAKING PLANS

COMMITTEES NAMED TO TAKE CHARGES OF VARIOUS EVENTS SCHEDULED FOR NEXT WEEK.

All committees for the Engineers' Week, which will begin March 1, have been appointed and are busily engaged in making arrangements for the various events planned. Thus far preparations have been made for a special convocation, an issue of the Daily Nebraskan, edited by the engineers and devoted to their interests, and a banquet at the Lincoln Hotel. One other event yet remains to be planned. The future of this feature is being kept secret by the engineers.

The small white badge which will be worn by members of the engineering classes during the week, may be obtained Monday morning on the first floor of Mechanics Arts building or in the hall of the Mechanical Engineering laboratories.

Posters bearing particulars of every event will be liberally distributed about the campus.

STIEHM'S MOTHER DEAD

NEBRASKA COACH CALLED ON SAD MISSION TO HOME IN WISCONSIN.

Coach Edward Stiehm was the recipient of a telegram Sunday night telling of the death of his mother at her home in Wisconsin. Mrs. Stiehm has been ill for some time, though she was reported to be in no danger. Her death was due to a recent operation. The coach left on the north-bound Burlington Sunday night for his home at Johnson Creek, Wis. It is supposed that the funeral will take place today. No word has been received from Mr. Stiehm since his departure.

RECOUNT NECESSARY IN JUNIOR ELECTION

JEROME FORBES WINS BY MAJORITY OF THREE VOTES.

BALLOT FIRST ANNOUNCED A TIE

Error Due to Confusion Resulting From Too Rapid Reading by the Tellers.

The Junior class election developed into one of the prettiest races ever seen in University politics, Jerome Forbes winning after a recount of the second ballot.

Three candidates were originally in the field. They were Will Randall, Sigma Nu; Harry Cotton, Sigma Phi Epsilon, and Jerome Forbes, Delta Chi. The first ballot resulted in the automatic withdrawal of Randall, the vote standing: Cotton 95, Forbes 90, Randall 34.

Run Neck and Neck.

The instant the second ballot began it was seen that the contest would be remarkably close. The two candidates ran neck and neck throughout, the counters announcing the vote as 104 each. A recount was called for by President Radcliffe and this resulted in the addition of two votes to Forbes' total and the loss to Cotton of one. This gave Forbes the election. The error was due to the rapidity with which the tellers called off the votes, the counters becoming slightly confused.

Despite the closeness of the election there was no intensity of feeling in evidence. The nomination speeches were of the usual sort and the balloting was free from any wrangle. An unusually large number of Juniors were out for the event, the co-ed vote being especially numerous.

Forbes is a member of the college of arts and sciences, Randall of the law school, and Cotton of the engineering school.

ALL WANTED THE NEGATIVE

INTER-CLASS DEBATING BOARD FORCED TO RESORT TO THE CASTING OF LOTS.

When the four class debating teams met Tuesday morning to make the final arrangements for the inter-class contests a serious difficulty presented itself. Each team wanted to debate on the negative side of the question. The constitution provides that in such a case the sides shall be determined by lot. The Debating Board, finding it convenient for the first time this year to follow out the constitution, cast the lots with the result that the Seniors and Sophomores will take the affirmative. The Senior-Junior contest will take place Monday, March 4, and the Sophomore-Freshman debate Thursday, March 7. The winners of these contests will debate on Phi Beta Kappa day.

This is an annual contest, instituted about four years ago. The Juniors have won twice and the Freshmen once. The teams selected Monday night are considered especially strong, and the contests this year are likely to be second to none in point of efficiency of debaters.
