"KID" WEDGE PUBLISHES BOOK

His Pugilistic Work at Nebraska and Elsewhere

"Kid" Wedge, expugilist and for merly a student at the University of Nebraska, has recently published an autobiography under the caption of "The Fighting Parson of Barbary Coast" The book contains an interesting description of the experiences of a man whose life has been the most unique in its hazards and ex

Wedge first became famous in the pugilistic world, being a prize-fighter of championship caliber and leading the life of the typical professional boxer Several years ago he became converted, entered the University of Wisconsin and shortly after came to the University of Nebraska. After preparing himself for work in the ministry at these two schools. Wedge next became famous for his work in conducting revivals over the United States, particularly on the Pacific Coast. Wedge's work, which may be compared to that of the famous "Billy" Sunday of Illinois, won him the name of the "Fighting Parson."

"Adopting His Nick-Name" is the title of another book Wedge has recently written. In it a resume of the work of his life describing his adventures in all phases of life from that of the city slums to the University. The contents of the publication may be inferred from the chapter headings, "The Fighter's Secret," "Behind Prison Bars" and "From the Ring to the University." Mr. Wedge is at present connected with one of the leading churches of Lincoln. Cut

SUCCESS OF NEBRASKA

Gained Name of Fighting Parson from Orthopedic Children Give Sale of Their Handiwork on December 6th.

> A great deal of interest has been aroused through the medical world and particularly among the Nebraska medics over the recent success of a Nebraska graduate. Dr. Winnett H. Orr, who graduated from the University of Nebraska, took his medical course in the University of Michigan and specialized in orthopedics, or the treatment of little crippled children. The doctor's special success along this line of work came when he began the treatment of curved spines, and he now has to his record the straightening of the first curved spine in the state of Nebraska. The Nebraska Orthopedic Hospital, a state institution, has been under his supervision for a number of years. After these children are cured they are taught a trade of some kind, one best fitted to their condition. There will be a sale of their work beginning 1:30 o'clock on December 6. All medics and others interested in this work should make an effort to be there at that time and see that institution while patronizing these workers. -Stew.
