AMES HERE TONIGHT

AGGIES COME TO TAKE NEBRASKA'S SCALP IN HOME LAIR IN SPITE OF TRIMMING.

TRIMMED BY HAWKEYES TUESDAY

Rough Game Is Promised Although No Unfair Work Is Expected.—Prospects Indicate Close Contest.

The Ames Aggies are evidently saving up all their surplus energy for the games which they are going to play with Nebraska for on Tuesday they allowed the Hawkeyes to walk all over them.

According to newspaper reports the game resembled a wrestling match under basketball rules more than it did a basketball game. However this was only a fair sample of the kind of a game which the Cyclones have been putting up this year. As soon as they see that the other side has the best of them they think that it is up to them to kill off a few of their opponents.

If the Cornhusker quintets prediction comes true the Ames Aggies will have good and sufficient reasons for pursuing their usual tactics. Stiehm's men, however, seem to be pretty sure that they can give as well as take, so all those in favor of bloodshed had better secure their tickets early and pass into the big show.

The team is in perfect physical condition and promises to show the Ames aggregation a little real basketball.

Legislature Votes Will Levy for Campus Extension

The bill for University campus extension with one mill tax was passed by a vote of 80 to 17 yesterday in the house after much deliberation and debate.

At 2:30 the discussion began. An amendment to reduce the one mill tax to one-half mill was introduced, and several lively debates followed. During the discussion Representative Kronan introduced an amendment to reduce the one-half mill tax to one-quarter mill. He met with much ridicule and his proposal was defeated. It was argued in favor of the half-mill tax that the money thus brought in would amount to $250,000 a year and that this amount would be all that the University regents could judiciously handle.

It was further argued that the question was one of money and not of removal. This was granted by a good many on both sides.

In favor of the one mill tax it was claimed that it would take fully one mill to either move the University or extend the present campus. It was argued that Nebraska used to have a better reputation than it has now, which was because not enough money has been given the University in recent years, and that Nebraska ought to have one of the best Universities in the country. It was said that no matter whether the University campus was extended or removed, enough money should be given to do it properly.

As to the offer of the city of Lincoln to contract with the state to give $100,000 if the present campus was extended, it was argued that the state was no charitable institution and that the "University was not for sale." It seems that the opinion of many was that the $100,000 was a bribe for extension. Under the one-half mill tax it would take at least fifteen years to complete the removal, while with one mill tax it could be done in seven or eight years.

It was finally passed in the form of an amendment, that the state would not contract with the city but would accept the $100,000 if given without a contract.

The bill for removal was then voted on and defeated, 68 to 29.

Some members were broad enough to vote for extension after they found that the removal bill was defeated, so the bill for extension passed by a vote of 80 to 17. The bill now goes to the senate.

During the afternoon the lobby and gallery were crowded with professors and students interested in the removal question.

BIG DEFICIT NOW FACES COTILLION MANAGEMENT

Unfortunate Circumstances Unite To Send Big Dance Far Into the Hole.

As a result of the first Annual Cotillion, the finest and most elaborate ball in the history of the University dances, the two upper classes face a deficit not to be laughed at. It is especially serious to the Juniors whose treasury has been sadly depleted by the class play. No expense was spared to make this dance one to be remembered in University circles, and there is not the slightest doubt but what the committee succeeded in their aim.

Several unfortunate circumstances occurred to lessen the number of couples, the alumni did not flock to the dance as had been predicted and the management found it very difficult to overcome the popular impression that a good formal could not be given at the Auditorium on account of the floor, accommodations and difficulty of decorating. Though this was not so, as was proved to the satisfaction of all who attended the dance, and it is thought that future classes will not ex-

SENIORS PUT ON COMEDY

UPPERCLASSMEN HOLD MEETING YESTERDAY WITH VERY FEW IN ATTENDANCE.

REMAINING OFFICERS ELECTED

Report of Prom Committee Is Presented With Plans for the Making Up of the Deficit Incurred. Last Saturday.

The Senior class meeting as scheduled by President Wenstrand met yesterday in Memorial Hall. Some dozen loyal Seniors made up the masculine constituency and prevented the gathering being an absolute non-entity, while the trio that made up the feminine attendance entered just before the motion for adjournment was made. The snow storm was apparently a source of great trepidation to the Seniors.

The business of the meeting consisted of a score of jokes, together with the election of officers, an inaudible announcement of the official appointments and the submission of a plan for the removal of the deficit incurred by the Cotillion.

Miss Verna Coryell was elected vice-president, Louis Curtis was made secretary, while George Wilson was unanimously re-elected class treasurer.
