FORCED TO MOVE.

will give a experiment showing the effect of trying to mix profound college lecturing with rustic illiteracy. The Literary society will present a pathetic skit in two acts that will appeal to one emotion or another of every university student, one act representing the nebulous neophyte struggling to assert his rights in opposition to the desires of the commanding professors in the intricacies of registration and the other showing him navigating through the finance office beset on all sides by money-grabbers and subscription getters of indescribable ferocity. Memories of camp life will be revived by the Favershams of the Military department in a two-act sketch depicting the unformed culprit running the lines and receiving his medicine the next day in court martial. The Forestry club will picture the difficulties of an effete Harvard student in an attempt to return to the simple life in a forestry camp. A peek into the mysteries of the legal noise manufactory will be given by an herd of Blackstone turned unchained upon the boards. The Engineers will attempt to impersonate certain professors. The Glee and Mandolin clubs will come in for an appropriate share of the racket.
