WE WANT TO KNOW.

What is the University going to do?
Is it going to move to the State Farm now?
Is it going to move out in the future?
If so, when?
Is it going to stay where it is?
If so, is it going to expand?
If so, is it going to stand still?
While we stand still for two more years, shall Iowa, Illinois and Wisconsin universities grow?
These are the issues which the deadlock in the legislature presents to all who want to see the University safely tided over its present crisis. The House of Representatives declares it will stand pat against removal. The Senate will stand pat in favor of removal. The regents are as a body now committed to the extension policy. Individually, many of them are as strong for removal as they ever were. What is the University going to do to break this deadlock? What is it going to do in its own behalf?

WE WANT TO KNOW?

Livingstone Centennial Celebration.
Mr. W. S. Naylor from Wisconsin will deliver an address on Livingstone, Sunday, April 13, 6:15 o'clock at the First Congregational church Twelfth and L streets. Mr. Naylor has been over Livingstone's trail in Africa. He has recently been speaking to college and young people's audiences on the life and work of Livingstone throughout the State of Wisconsin.
This is to be a union meeting of all young people's societies in the city and suburbs. University students are especially invited to come and hear a live talk on one of the greatest men of modern times: David Livingstone, missionary, philanthropist, scientist, and explorer. There will be special music.

E. L. Currier of the State Farm managing department leaves for Boseman, Mont., to take up a government position.

BY THE WAY.

There is a baseball game and a track meet next Saturday afternoon on Nebraska field.

Did you know that an optimist is a man who doesn't care what happens just so it doesn't happen to him.

It still rains and the national past time followers have a game with Doane Saturday.

One reason young people think they have so many friends is that they never need them.

The annual elections to Phi Beta Kappa at the University of Minnesota resulted in the naming of six men and eighteen women to coveted membership. The girls of the school, it is said, are very jubilant over the triumph of their sex, a feature that has not occurred for some time.
