

Engineers Give Big Snake-Dance, Smoker and Rally

The biggest engineers' rally for several years was held Wednesday night in the German hall at Tenth and N streets. The shop men gathered in front of the Armory and marched to the hall behind Capt. Sullivan and his Dutch band, giving a snake dance on the way.

"Kid" Wells and "Knockout" Morrison fought three rounds to a draw as a starter for the evening. The bout had all the ear-marks of a frame-up. Phares and Gunther put on a good wrestling match. Hugh Smith and Joel McLafferty, also, gave an exhibition of high class pugilism. Prof. Mickey refereed.

At this point most of the faculty entered the hall and were sent to the stage. Here it was discovered that "Doc" Maxey had disguised himself as an engineer to spy out the enemy's camp. He was punished by being forced in silence to hear the engineering professors expose his character, after which he was given ten minutes rebuttal.

Dean Stout presided. Professors Bridgman, Hoffman, Chase, Ferguson and Chaburn talked to the shop men, and amused themselves by telling anecdotes on each other. The engineering quartet proved to be very popular.

University Secures Exhibit of Works of Bohemian Artists

The University has secured the loan of the Bohemian art exhibit belonging to Rudoff Rusicka of Bohemia and it is now on exhibition in the art gallery. The collection consists entirely of the works of the best modern artists. Among the numerous etchings are several large portraits of modern poets, authors and statesmen, and many landscapes treating subjects in various parts of Europe.

Besides the etchings which constitute the greater part of the collection, there are several good examples of the lithographic art. Especially good are the three portraits by M. Svabinsky, which show the wonderful flesh effects obtained by drawing on stone.

The exhibit was sent to America at the request of the universities of Iowa, Minnesota and Nebraska. It will remain in the art gallery for two weeks and will probably be placed on exhibition in the public library for a few days before it is sent back to the owner.

General meeting of medics and pre-medics Friday, April 18 5 P. M. N-210. Important meeting. Everybody come.

Mrs. E. W. Ellis, a missionary from China will lead the college-girls' meeting Friday noon at 12 o'clock.
