

LEGISLATURE STANDS FAST FRESH BASEBALL SHOWS UP

Conference of Both Houses Promises to Recommend Disagreement

The long pending battle between the Senate and House will come to a climax today, or within the next few days, in view of the immediate adjournment of the legislature. The refusal of either side to acknowledge the advisability of the plans of the other continued to maintain the customary deadlock up to a late hour last night.

A conference of a committee from each house was held last night at the Lindell hotel, and it was said by good authority that that body would make an extended report to both houses signifying its inability to agree upon a suitable settlement, and showing the necessary resulting disagreement. In other words the two houses will be in the same position in deadlock as they have been for some time past.

At a caucus of removalists held Thursday noon in the senate the members of the joint committee were instructed to offer one of the three plans advanced by the University regents as a counter proposition to the plan of the extension advocates. The plan as published in the report of the regents contemplated the removal of all the colleges except the technical college of law and a plan is offered in opposition to the house plan advocating extension of city campus and the institution at the farm of all studies necessary to make the course at the farm a complete agricultural course.

If the deadlock, as contemplated, occurs, the situation resulting will mean that the University will remain in practically the same situation as it is at present. Not even the condition of the school, as it now stands, deplorable as it is in comparison with its neighboring state educational institutions is sufficient to dissolve the stubborn stand on either side to recognize the pressing necessity for immediate action.

It is expected, in addition, that in the session of today the legislature will take under advisement the bill appropriating $25,000 for the equipment of the law and plant industry buildings. A failure to pass such bill will deprive these two new buildings of the apparatus required for occupancy and will necessitate the use of impromptu and inadequate furniture until the next biennial session.

Hitting of New Men Especially Good —Numerous Men Try for All Positions.

The freshman baseball team turned out early yesterday afternoon and had the athletic field all afternoon. The first year men have a fine bunch of material out and should be able to give the varsity a good stiff game when they get together. For every position on the field there is an abundance of material and some of it is extra classy.

In the catching line three or four good men have reported but since practice has only begun nothing definite has been discovered. About seven or eight of the fresh have signified their intentions of becoming heroes in the box.

The infield positions have about half a dozen men for each place. McMullen, Patterson, Monneke, Huston, Schwabe, Hosek, Hugg, Spier and Gardner seem to have the early edge on the rest of the bunch but next week may bring quite a lot of new material.

The outfield too, has a great many men for each garden and some very fast men. If the hitting of the freshmen team is as good as the field work they will have a bunch that will make the varsity sit up and take notice.
