BETTER LATE THAN EVER.

The universal peace discussion, as it has been carried on in the Forum column of this paper by Messrs. Sorenson and Cushing is the sort of thing we have hoped to fill a large part of our space with ever since we took a hold of the sheet. We believe in a student opinion that settles local as well as state and national questions by discussion. A full and free expression of public opinion is part of a democracy, so-called; an educated man has even less fear in expressing what he can back up than the average street-corner representative of pure American republicanism. Even though the merits of universal peace may seem immaterial to those who are so actively engaged in the thralls of University life that they wouldn't even go to war over a question involving "national honor" as those who want to keep fighting call those issues that arise between nations after they haven't fought for a generation. Still we must express our approval of the special disputations turn which student opinions has so recently taken.

Dean Bessey Back From Meeting of National Scientists

Dean Bessey returned Saturday from the fiftieth annual meeting of the national academy of science which was held at Washington, D. C. A reception by President Wilson to the scientists was one of the important social functions of the meeting. A large number of the foremost scientists in the United States were in attendance and the meeting was extremely successful.

This summer Dr. Leva Walker of the Botany department will carry out the work started in the sand hills of the state last vacation. Various studies of plant life will be made and it is believed that much valuable work can be accomplished. Dr. Walker will doubtless be assisted in the research work by several of the assistants of the botany department.

Professor Barbour of the Geology department gave a lecture on "Parks and Municipal Improvements" at Stromsburg last Friday evening. The town is becoming enthusiastic over plans to beautify their streets the coming summer by the setting out of trees in a uniform manner.
