

Expect Bleachers to be Crowded at Girls' Track Meet May 14

If you were in the band last year or had a friend in the band, or if you happened to be in the law library, or in the engineering lab on the afternoon of May 9, you were privileged. Indeed for while the girls were allowed to skip classes all afternoon for the price of 10 cents admission to the athletic field, the sterner sex were prohibited excepting the band, which for once, turned out en masse.

Although the girls held the meet "just for fun," real medals were given to the winners of the various events—only three of which, any one contestant could enter. There was the exciting baseball game between the freshmen and the sophs, in which the former ran off with the score 20-14. The 50 and 25 yard dashes gave the fair Atalantas ample opportunity to show their prowess. The basketball throw, the running high jump, and the relay races gave variety to the afternoon's program.

This year, on the 14th of May, mere man will not have to endanger his life by hanging out of high windows or by clinging affectionately to handy telephone poles, for admission will be granted to all those who can produce the necessary dime. (Season tickets not honored. This includes the band.

The girls have been working hard all spring and the meet promises to be unusually exciting. In addition to last year's events, there will be a 40 yard hurdle, shot put, and pole vault. Medals won in this meet will count toward "N's."

Dear Venus: Please, please, keep this strictly confidential, as I should simply die if the other girls should find out that I have allowed such a simple problem to master me. These are the facts in the case. A simply swell frat man has been rushing me for the last week. When I rave about him—he is really too perfectly grand—the other girls all look too knowing and superior.

Now, dear Venus, do advise me. Why do the girls act thus? Despairingly. GLADYS.

Gladys: Upon consulting the calendar, the reason for all the facts as given above is plain, but freshmen should not expect to know all the chapter jokes.

GIRLS BASKET BALL

Some Strong Teams Developed by Miss Begthol—Freshman Team Winners This Year.

As long as the physical education department exists in the University, basketball is certain to be included as a part of the athletic training. From the time that it was introduced in 1896 by Miss Anne Barr, now Mrs. R. G. Clapp, into the gymnasium classes, it has continued to be a favorite team game among the girls. Perhaps no other game favors team work to such an extent as does basketball and as for training in endurance, agility and headwork, it is unsurpassed. It is essentially a girl's game, and the fact that boys play the game with greater agility than girls do, does not alter the truth of this statement. The game was planned for girls and the rules merely been changed to suit the boys.

Nebraska held a great record among other colleges while she had a first team. From 1896-1906, the period during which a first team was maintained, only one game was lost, and Nebraska held the reputation of standing for all that is best in athletics.

Since the maintenance of a first team has been discontinued, the interest has been centered in the various class team, and class spirit has been aroused. It has become customary to arrange an interclass tournament and in this way any girl who is particularly interested in the game and cares to try for a place on the team, has a chance to make a class team. Miss Giltings and Miss Begthol act as coaches for the practices and tryouts and they select the girls who make up the teams.

Each year every freshman is given a chance to learn the game and many of them become very proficient by the end of the season. Since there is no skating pond in connection with the University, and no equipment for other winter sports, basket ball forms an important indoor sport during the winter months. Regular practices are arranged, which look forward to the final tournament in the spring.

This year each class was represented by a strong team and a lively contest was the result. The freshman team, however, consisted of the pick of the high school teams, and Miss Begthol has developed them into an exceptionally strong team. They easily defeated the sophomores and the juniors won from the seniors. In the final contest the freshmen defeated the juniors and thereby won the championship.
