Season Athletic Tickets
 Make Considerable Saving
 Possible—Sale Not Brisk

To date the small number of 228 represents the 33rd degree boosters in the school who have paid out their good money for season athletic tickets. Considering the saving that is possible by buying these tickets, this is, needless to say, a poor representation.

The Minnesota and Iowa games, two of the biggest athletic attractions that Nebraska has offered its students on the home field since the Michigan game, will cost $2 for admission to the grounds. Reserved seats will cost extra in proportion as they are centrally located. Sum total for each of these games, about $3. For both games, $6. For admission to the other games, which will draw big crowds of fans, $1. Grand total for the football season alone, $10. Basketball fans will reap the extra benefit which befalls the purchaser of a season ticket, in that they will be admitted to all basketball games. And all for the sum of $3 a season athletic ticket.

The tickets are on sale in the old Nebraskan office, southeast basement corner of Administration Hall, after 1 p. m. every day, and prospective purchasers are warned that this offer, made by the department of athletic, will be withdrawn with the opening of the season.

Location of Missouri-
 Kansas Game to be Finally Settled Soon

Lawrence, Kan. —The question of the location of the Kansas-Missouri football game for this fall may be settled at a meeting in Kansas City this week. It is the plan of President Ed T. Hackney of the Kansas Board of Administration to have the Kansas board and the Board of Curators of the University of Missouri meet in Kansas City next week and definitely settle the question which has been up ever since the present ruling was passed.

The Kansas board has been wrestling with the question ever since it came into existence last spring. It is understood that the board has very well defined ideas of its own, but the members are very reserved in their statements. However, it is generally understood that the Kansas board will favor the return of the game to Kansas City when the matter comes up for final settlement.

Sentiment at the University of Kansas both among the students and the faculty members seems to be in favor of the game of the "good old days."
