where it would be natural to look but where the "con" for some reason does not investigate.

It is growing to be an institution not yet sanctioned by the interstate commerce commission. However, it is recognized on the campus, where the classes of the day preceding the game are suddenly depleted. Danger to life and limb is never considered, it would seem, and the participants delight in presenting an appearance of an enterprising chimney sweep on arriving at the other end of the line. There kind friends and frat brothers come to the rescue, and the Beau Brummels who throng the field during the game might pass as the most typical examples of luxury-loving high brows.

There are seven new fraternity houses being erected at the University of Missouri. One is completed and the others will be finished during the year.—Exchange.

twiler, if he is able to play at left half, Greenlees at right half, and Stuewe at full.

Martin and Sommers, the two substitute backs, may get a chance later in the game. Bishop will substitute for Stuewe at full, Parker and Russell for Wilson at quarter, Hammond, Malloy, and Kane in the line.

Interest here is at fever heat over the approach of the big game. Cheer rallies are being held constantly. From present indications the crowd that will be present at McCook field next Saturday will be considerably larger than the crowd present at the Missouri game last year.
