THE CORNHUSKER BANQUET.

All out, fellows, to celebrate the 1913 football successes and to banquet the trans-Mississippi champions. Within the next few days you will be asked to buy your ticket for the annual Cornhusker banquet. Remember that it is not every year in which you will have the chance to celebrate the victories of this season—that old timers would give a good deal to have the same chance that is offered you now. And that those victories have not been appropriately recognized by the students of the university. While the team fought against great odds all the season, winning in the end by a magnificent total against the hardest schedule which Cornhuskers have met in years, the attitude of the students themselves has appeared to be one of complacent approbation rather than one of joy and pride. Alumni have asked again and again what was dampening the spirit of the fans, saying that something must be radically wrong with a student body which did not recognize the work and merit of the team.

The spirit is here, all right, and the student body is alive to the fact that the team has fulfilled the highest expectations of its supporters. Now it remains to crystallize that spirit, to express that recognition, while the memory of the year is still at hand. There is no excuse other than outright indifference which will suffice to prevent a man's attendance. And so, on the banquet tag day, be prepared to get that ticket, and join the gang.

N. B.—The gang will all be there.

Mandolin club practice, Tuesday eve, 7 p. m. at Temple. All members out.

Midwest Quarterly
New University Paper
Receives Much Comment

The first issue of the Mid-West Quarterly, a magazine established by the University of Nebraska, has appeared and is attracting a great deal of attention.

The magazine is entirely under supervision of university people, the staff being P. H. Frye, editor; Hartley Burr Alexander and Philo M. Buck, Jr., associate editors; Samuel Avery and Chas. Sumner Allen, advisory committee.

Its purpose is for the encouragement and publication of the better class of literature and the articles included in the first issue are splendid examples of that type of work.

The articles in this the first number of the magazine are:

The Term—“Classic” and “Romantic.” P. H. Frye.

The Problem of Controversies, Chas. Sumner Allen.

The Sviratic Birgson, Hartley Burr Alexander.

The Oregon Recruit Expedition, Albert Watkins.

The Intrusions of Science, S. B. Gass.

The Literary Interregnum, Louise Pound.

Magnacum Confusione, Philo M. Buck, Jr.

The present issue is all the work of Lincoln people, but it is stated that contributions are welcome, the field of the magazine not being restricted to the west.

The Quarterly is to be issued during the months of October, January, April and July.

Deba'e-Squad Working Hard in Preparation For Coming Contest

The varsity debating squads showed their loyalty to U. of N. and their interest in forensic art by spending the greater part of the Thanksgiving recess in the preparation of their final speeches.

The negative team leaves Wednesday, December 10, for Iowa City and will be fully prepared to annex another Nebraska victory to the list. The affirmative team will meet the Minnesota squad in the Temple theater, Friday evening, December 12. It is hoped that intellectual honors as well as physical honors may be achieved over the Gopher state.
