

Dr. Maxey Issues His Annual Christmas Proclamation Early

The Daily Nebraskan takes great pleasure in announcing to the expectant student body that, per official proclamation from Doc Maxey, Iron Sphinx, and other well known authorities, Christmas comes this year on the 25th. This means that you have only three weeks more in which to do your shopping, clear up some of those conditions and incomplete, and get home in time to hang up your socks.

Dr. Maxey yesterday gave out his proclamation to this paper, thereby allowing us to score a terrific scoop on the other dailies which infest this locality. It follows:

"Whereas, The almighty Mrs. Maxey has, in her benign wisdom, seen fit to celebrate Christmas this winter, even as the students celebrated the victory over Minnesota and

"Whereas, School is to close December 19 and not open up again until January 2, making it necessary and wise for us to observe the day some time in between those two dates, and

"Whereas, Mrs. Maxey has, in her infinite grace, chosen to hang up her stocking, therefore be it

"Resolved, That we hereby ordain and set apart December 25 as the day on which the hanging shall take place, and proclaim that no student shall fail to observe the suspension, upon penalty of death and the eternal enmity of Santa Klaws."

Students are warned that the notice is official, and that they must begin at once to secure their presents by trade or purchase. Only three weeks till Christmas—do your swapping now.

TUESDAY VESPER SERVICES.

Miss Taylor, industrial secretary for this section, spoke at vesper Tuesday evening. Her headquarters are in Minneapolis. Her talk was full of interest given by her wide experience in dealing with factory and working girls.

The personal touch in her talk brought home to university girls the reality of the need of help in industrial fields.

Frances Caldwell sang several selections.

Rain, Rain, Rain--- Not a Sign of a Thing But Rain

The student body generally complains that the weather is just the thing that it should not be at this season of the year. No one seems to know just what they are basing their complaints on, but it is suspected that they are overloaded with the coin of the realm, with no place to spend the same. The first of the month is here but there are hardly any dances, no three dollar shows to spend money for two tickets, and the weather does not permit walking around and then stopping in and having a "little something to eat."

Then the vacation was cloudy and the student did not get to enjoy the full benefit of either his machine or someone else's, more likely the latter. The joy rides were limited to one day and not three or four as was expected. Old "Jup Pluv" had to be contrary and the result is that the student instead of being filled to overflowing with true Christmas spirit as he should at this time of the year, is cursing his luck, and striding through the mud with a head full of ideas that would not stand an x-ray photo.

Nothing will throw a diligent student into a grouch as quick as to have the weather go back on him, abruptly and without cause, not contenting itself with a solitary day but taking a whole week. The plans of a semester end's fussing and three weeks of Christmas shopping are shattered by the simple fact that our old friend Jupiter had to loose his temper.

PAY YOUR DOLLAR NOW FOR "RAG" SUBSCRIPTION

When The Daily Nebraskan made its annual appeal for subscriptions this fall the students responded more or less nobly. Most of them later followed it up by dropping into the office and paying up for the semester. A few, however, have so far forgotten themselves that they still have a black mark chalked up against their names.

Business Manager Perkins announced yesterday that 200 students are still in arrears. And they have only a few weeks left to escape hearing from Dean Engberg. Better let go of that dollar now, says Perkins, as you may be broke after buying Maybelle or Alfred that Christmas present.
