

BIG 9 WILL NOT EXPAND

DECISION REACHED AT CHICAGO MEETING—FOUR SCHOOLS OPPOSE PROPOSITION.

STIEHM TO COME HOME TODAY

Basketball Schedule in Process of Making With Many Good Games in Sight.

Coach Stiehm will return from Chicago today, bringing with him word that Nebraska has been refused admittance into the big nine conference.

Mr. Stiehm went to the Windy City last Thursday for the purpose of arranging the annual meeting of the conference. In the former matter he was successful, but in the latter he was disappointed. The members of the conference decided that their body is already large enough, and refused to entertain the idea of admitting Marquette, Notre Dame or Nebraska. According to the dispatches, the Cornhusker coach was unwilling to state last Saturday whether or not Nebraska would make any further effort to get within the coveted walls. His attitude on that score will not be known here until he returns today.

For several years Nebraska has been receiving prominent mention as a possible new member of the conference. After going undefeated in the Missouri valley for four years, the Cornhuskers feel that they are entitled to higher recognition. Since the withdrawal of Michigan two years ago, leaving only eight members instead of nine, the story has been given even more prominence, but the definite refusal of last week will probably set the rumors to rest for some time to come.

As soon as Mr. Stiehm arrives he will confer with Guy Reed in regard to the basketball schedule, so that it may be ready to be announced this week. Mr. Reed and Prof. G. E. Barber returned Saturday from Ames, where they represented Nebraska at the Missouri valley conference. Mr. Reed said yesterday that he had no comment to make on the conference, but added that the Clint Ross affair had evidently blown over, leaving Kansas perfectly willing to play the Cornhuskers again next year. The date for the game, which will be played in Lincoln, has been set tentatively for November 13.

PRE-MEDICS FORM SOCIETY

Elect Officers and Organize for Better Understanding Among First Year Students.

A number of students taking a pre-medical course at Lincoln before going to Omaha have organized into a society called the Pre-Medical Association. The need of such an organization has been felt for some time, especially since the removal of the major part of the course to the metropolis. The meeting of the Pre-Medics was addressed by Dean Wolcott, who recommended that the students control their own society. The following officers were elected:

William Delzell—President.
Kenneth Davis—Secretary.
E. Johnson—Treasurer.
