FOOTBALL STARS KICKING

CLAIM THEIR "N" SWEATERS ARE OF THE WORTHLESS VARIETY.

THEY GROW BIGGER AND BIGGER

Every Time They're Put on or Taken Off, They Stretch Out Farther and Farther.

The thirteen men who were awarded "N" sweaters for work on the gridiron this year are beginning to wonder if the prize was worth the effort. For, if their statements are to be taken at par value, the aforesaid sweaters are about as valuable, useful and comfortable as a fur overcoat on a midsummer day or a pair of flannel trousers at a skating party. This is their tale of woe.

The sweaters have little or no elasticity. You can stretch 'em a foot or so, when you've released your hold, they'll fall back as limp as a dish rag just out of the sink. The material is supposed to be all-wool, it more nearly resembles burlap, that choice cloth out of which gunny-sacks are made. Furthermore, the sleeves are not without flaws, such as poor imitations of good knitting and shapes that closely resemble that of the old apple tree. And, to cap the climax, the "N's" are tied on the breast in such a manner that one instantly sees a picture of the kindergarten class taking its first lesson in sewing. In some of these "N's" the difference in the width of the right and left sides is half an inch or so, and in others the lines shoot and twist in an apparent effort to give a correct reproduction of the leaning tower of Pisa.

"When I first got mine it fit fairly well," said one of the "N" men yesterday. "But now every time I put it on or take it off it grows bigger and bigger. I'll have to donate it to Clint Ross or Zack Hornberger pretty soon."

"Some time ago we hear considerable talk about sweaters and jerseys being stolen out of the locker rooms and worn indiscriminately about the campus. There won't be any danger any more. No one would consider it worth while to take one of these."

Coach Stiehm said yesterday that he was becoming rather tired of this eternal dissatisfaction over the football sweaters. Last year, he said, he ordered them of a standard company, and, when they came, a howl was raised that they were faulty in several respects. This year, says the coach, he decided to let the players take the matter in their own hands. The sweaters were ordered of the same firm, and at the same price. Now the recipients are kicking again. "Oh well," yawns Mr. Stiehm, "what's the use?"

A. S. M. E. MEETING.

What do you know about the Westinghouse air brake? Come to M. E. 206 at 7:30 tonight and find out. It is a subject that is of importance to all engineers, and you should not fail to hear Prof. C. L. Dean's lecture on this subject tonight.—A. A. Luebs, Chairman.

REGISTRAR SENDS OUT HIS NEW SEMESTER BULLETIN

No Stated Time is Given for Examinations Although Allowance is Made for Grading.

The bulletin giving the official statement as to the coming examinations was sent from the office of the Registrar January 9th. to the officers of instruction of the campus. The bulletin states the facts concerning the examinations and registration for the next semester.

No stated period of time is designated for the giving of the final examinations for the semester, the examination if held will be given at the discretion of the instructor and during the regular class period. The Chancellor announced that the instructors who find need of more time in preparing and handing in their reports before the beginning may dismiss their classes the last two days of the semester, Jan. 29 and 30th.

Registration for the second semester will begin on Wednesday Jan. 28th. and hold until Saturday 31st. inclusive. All classes will meet regularly during the registration except on the last two days, this being left with the instructor. The class work for the second semester will begin Monday Feb. 2nd.

This new will no doubt be received with great joy by the exam loving student, who has anticipated this announcement ever since the return to the grind after the holidays. With the time of the exams made a certainty the one seeking learning may devote all his time to the pursuit of the desired knowledge and waste none of the valuable moments in worry as to the time of the supreme tests. The campus is bare of the usual fussier except for a few who belong in the "confirmed" class, and even those are expected to cast aside all social duties in the near future and battle with the problem of becoming competent to remain in college. The campus will present dreary sight for the weeks between now and the beginning of the new semester.

STUDENTS DRAW GOOD CROWD

Talks by Smith and Prince of Political Economy Department Attract Interest.

The announcement that two students would speak, drew a fair sized crowd to convocation yesterday morning. H. A. Prince and R. A. Smith, of the political economy department, spoke on the tariff law. They gave a concise account of the workings of the tariff law, and placed emphasis on the manner in which it will affect Nebraska. Also they pointed out its advantages over the Payne-Aldrich tariff which it supersedes.

The attention and interest evinced by the students seems to warrant the further trial of the experiment. In following this up discussions of the currency bill and the press question will be up for a student airing.

SENIOR HOP TO BE HELD IN SPITE OF FINANCIAL STRAITS

Dr. Maxey at Last Backs Up the Senior Class Bonds Which Are Not All Paid For.

When the senior hop committee started out to make the necessary arrangements for the dance they were met by Auditor Tuckerman who informed them that no dance could be given by the class until the receipts for the old debts of the class were in his office. The bonds that were authorized by the class and issued at the direction of the finance committee were all subscribed for before the holidays, but the money that they were to bring was not all collected.

Had this money been in, the old obligations could have been met and the committee would have had easy sailing, but sadly, such was not the case and the committee was staggered by the problem of how to get ready to give a big dance without any financial recourse. In order to overcome this handicap they were informed by Professor Tuckerman that it would be necessary for them to get some person to go on the security of the outstanding bond money to make certain that the money would be used to defray the old debts.

The person who came to the rescue of the committee in their trouble was none other than Dr. Maxey. The senior hop will therefore be the work of the committee ably aided by the doctor.

The hop will be given in the new ball room of the Lindell and the promise is that the dance will be one of the best of the year. The plans are complete and the arrangements are finished, with the committee promising the dancers the best treat of the year under the "new rules."

SUFFRAGETTES RALLY AT BIG MEETING IN TEMPLE

University Girls Present to Hear Address of Gertrude O'Reilley of Dublin—Rumors of Campus Society.

Gertrude O'Reilley of Dublin, Ireland, spoke in the Temple theatre last night, by invitation of the Lincoln Equal Franchise league. A number of university girls who have been interesting themselves in the question of women's rights and an equal suffrage league on the campus, made it a point to be present. The address was advertised on the campus by the younger suffragettes, and quite a number of girls responded?

Miss O'Reilley, wearing the dress of Ireland's women from the sixth to the fifteenth century—typifying the years of women's freedom in that country—spoke briefly on all the principal points which are advanced for and against women's suffrage.

Rumors of a campus branch of the Lincoln league have met with no definite response as yet. However, the girls who attended the meeting were prone to the belief that a society would blossom very soon.

University Men All Over Country Criticise "I Should Worry" Phrase

The "I should worry" phrase, when first introduced, was used in a more or less jesting manner as a reply to something rather indifferently regarded, but recently this idea has become so manifest in some of the educational institutions throught the country that it was made the subject of a serious address, by a principle of a secondary school, to the parents of the parents of the children in his care.

When the speculator loses a small fortune he says, "I should worry," and when the student gets a low grade in his studies he also uses this phrase much too frequently, when there really is necessity for worrying. Such was the gist of his address.

The need of the semester is rapidly drawing nigh and the student body of Nebraska could well profit by this warning of the contagion to which even they are no immune and avoid the "I don't worry worry" sentiment growing so universally characteristic of the American people."

HAYDN SYMPHONY TO BE GIVEN AT THURSDAY'S CONVOCATION

Mrs. Raymond and Professor Cornell to Present Treat for Music Lovers Tomorrow Morning.

In preparation for the May Festival which will be given by the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra this year, it is planned to give a series of symphony programs at the Thursday convocation period. The first number will be a symphony by Hydn, Thursday of this week at 11 o'clock, in Memorial hall.

The greatest works of the masters will be given by the string quartet and organ. To students who are at all musically inclined these programs will prove invaluable, especially in appreciating the performance of a large orchestra.

HARE AND HOUNDS CHASE STAGED THIS AFTERNOON

Students Will Be Allowed to Witness Long Distance Men for First Time.

This afternoon at 4 o'clock university students will be given the opportunity of seeing a real, live, human hare and hound chase. The hare will be Goetze, McMasters, or some other well known distance runner, and the hounds will be the rest of the squad.

The run will be the first of a series which Guy Reed is planning for the entire squad out for this work three times a week, probably every Monday, Wednesday and Friday. Then, by the time the track work opens up in earnest in the spring, the men will be in good condition, and will not have to waste the first half of the season working up their wind.
