A committee has been appointed by the regents to arrange the May Festival and the series of symphonies are to be given at regular convocations in order to arouse interest in such music.

The committee composed of Chancellor Avery, Professor Grummann, and Regent Allen, have already engaged the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra, for the May Festival which will be given in the Oliver, May 25, both afternoon and evening.

The orchestra from Minneapolis will bring sixty men beside the four soloists, and will be assisted by the entire University chorus of three hundred voices.

This musical treat is being arranged primarily for university students. The price of admission will be fixed to barely cover expenses, and the students will be given first choice of seats.

KOSMETS ANNOUNCE PLAY TO BE GIVEN IN THE SPRING

"His Excellency the Governor," by Graves and Northrup—Choice of the Three Plays Submitted for Prize.

The club met in deliberation Sunday, but official announcement of the award was not made until last night. The book or manuscript is by Graves, while Northrup submit the lyrics. Both men are members of the club. Music for the play has not yet been submitted. Several have announced intention of writing the music, and the club wishes to announce that all who are considering such action should communicate with the club without delay.

Prof. Scott, who has twice coached Kosmet plays, and who was the author of "The Diplomat" and "The Matchmakers," has been appointed by the club to manage the production of the third play "His Excellency the Governor."

"His Excellency the Governor," the combined work of Ernest H. Graves and Ralph Northrup, is the play which will be presented by the Kosmet club at its annual performance. This play was the choice of the three which were submitted for the consideration of the club in competition for the prize offered. It is a musical comedy, said by members of the club to be highly satisfactory as a play for student production.

STIEHM GIVES OUT DOPE ON WESLEYAN AND COTNER GAMES

Has Score Made in Games Played so Far This Season Which Promise Lively Fights.

An inkling as to what will be the results of the forthcoming basketball games with Cotner and Wesleyan was obtained by Coach Stiehm Tuesday night. On that evening the fives representing the two denominational schools met in mortal combat, with the result that the Methodists came out ahead, 34 to 25.

Last year Nebraska beat Cotner, 29 to 18. This year the Christians have a stronger rating, and are expected to put up a harder fight. Judging from Tuesday night's result, however, Coach Stiehm is not anticipating as much trouble from that quarter as from Wesleyan. The Methodists have been cleaning up everything this season, and have all but one of last year's players back in uniform.

Cotner is to appear here Saturday evening, while Wesleyan comes on Friday and Saturday of next week.

According to present indications, at least four, and possibly six, members of this year's Omaha high school football team will attend the University of Nebraska next year. Such was the word which Coach Mills of the Omaha eleven sent to Coach Stiehm yesterday.

The quartet consists of James Gardiner, Ellsworth Moser, Charles Gardipee and Harold Kelley. The other two who may come are Leo Klein and Ray Platz. All of the six have made good in high school athletics, and two or three of them will undoubtedly prove a valuable additions to the Cornhuskers in year to come.

THIEVES AGAIN INVADE UNI.

Students Miss Many Valuable Articles From Lockers and Cloak Room.

Garrett Lolken, a student living at 517 South Eleventh street, reported to the police that an overcoat had been stolen from a cloak room in University hall yesterday. Mr. Folken said that the value of the coat was $35.

A number of thefts from the girls' locker rooms in the armory have been reported to university and city authorities recently. Last week a $5 bill was extracted from a co-ed's pocket-book which had been left in the locker room during a gymnasium hour. A few days before a $10 bill was taken. Efforts to locate the thieves have so far been unavailing.

Summer Employment for Ten Men.

Prof. L. W. Chase of the department of agricultural engineering is anxious to secure the names of ten students in the college of agriculture who are well versed in principles of feeding and in the use of silage. He would be able to place ten men in the field next summer as salesmen for silo companies if the men were available.

ALUMNUS URGES GRADS TO ATTEND JAN. EXERCISES

First Edition in 1914 Makes Point to Feature Mid-Winter Commencement.

The January edition of the University Alumnus will be off the press the last of the week and they will be distributed the first of next week. The new edition will feature the Charter Day exercises and will urge the return of old grads to witness the ceremonies.

The plan for the observation of the day is a novel one and the alumni at the head of the idea are very enthusiastic over the outlook for a big celebration on that day. Those who are unable to attend the function at the university are requested to observe the day in their home cities, the old students of the university in the community aiding in the event. The idea in this is to have the day observed by former Nebraskans all over the state. Those who attend the exercises in Lincoln will be entertained by their former classmates residing in the city, extensive plans for the entertainment of the visitors are already complete, and the number is expected to be large.

The services themselves are the novel features and will be very attractive. The usual Charter Day address will be abolished and in its place Charles Hodgdon and other university architects will give an address in which the plans will be shown for the two possible solutions of the university problem, the removal to the farm and the new downtown campus. These plans will prove very interesting to all those who are interested in the affairs of the university. Charter Day will be observed in a new and novel manner and the alumni of the school are expected to attend in force.

Editor Reed of the University Alumnus states that the subscription list of the publication is not yet complete but that the number on the list at the present aggregates about six hundred. The magazine as published, once a month, will keep the alumni in constant touch with the university affairs and keep up the interest in the school that the average alumnus is likely to neglect in the busy life outside the confines of the campus.

DON MILLER AND ANOTHER UNI. STUDENT PREVENT ROBBERY

Stop a Snatch Thief When He Plays in Miller and Paine's Store Yesterday.

Two university men, one an alumnus and the other a student, figured in a daring daylight robbery yesterday afternoon. The alumnus was Don Miller of Lincoln, a D. U. and a member of the class of 1913. The name of the student was not learned by the police.

The trouble started when a man walked into the Miller & Paine store and proceeded to grab a purse from

DRESS REHEARSALS IN PROGRESS

First Held Last Night at Oliver—Last to Come Friday Night—Wm. T. Quick Likes the Show.

Yesterday evening saw the first dress rehearsal of the Spharo Styx Fun Festival on at the Oliver Saturday night. The cast as slightly doubtful as to the arrival of the costumes from Chicago, but the last train in the afternoon brought them to the joy of the directors.

Wm. T. Quick, who is in charge of the enlarged Oliver orchestra which will work Saturday night, went through the music last night with the several musical acts. He stated afterward that there was some of the best popular music he had ever heard in the repertoire which his orchestra will play.

The managers of the show are thinking of charging the Commercial club booking rates as the majority of the Fun Festival cast are placed in important parts in the local Shakespearean production to be given next April. Almost the entire personnel of the cast are prominent in local dramatics and the libretto of the show has been produced by many as a scream from start to finish.

Tickets held for the organizations go on general sale this evening so they are urged to get down to the Oliver box office early today. The sales are reported as large for this early in the week and the house will be well reserved by Friday night, according to present indications.

His theme will have to do with "Helping the Other Fellow?" Besides being a successful business man, Mr. Jones is president of the Epworth League Assembly, an honor he has held for a number of years.

Talks by men who have gone through life's earlier period are the ones that are profitable to the young man especially when these talks are made by men who have succeeded. You cannot afford to miss the opportunity to be with this man.

Suffer From Epidemic of Mumps.

Four prominent senior girls are the latest victims to the epidemic of mumps which seems to be present on the campus. At first all claimed they had a bad toothache, but later developments dispelled this idea.
