the nature of the Cosmopolitan Club reputation. program, but hereafter the entertainment, of whatever nature it may be, will be given by each nationality in turn, and exclusively by them. For instance, the Koreans here in the Uni versity will be called upon to furnish the program for one of the "national nights," the Bohemians will take charge of the entertainment for another evening, presenting something or other distinctly native in character, and the Germans will also be expected to arrange for a meeting.

There is a national and international association of Cosmopolitan Clubs which have extended their influence to all corners of the globe for the purpose of promoting good fellowship among nations and, incidentally, to encourage international peace and commerce. Every noteworthy college has its Cosmopolitan Club, and from authentic reports each college has greatly profited thereby. Now that such an organization has been reestablished at the University of Nebraska all students who feel that their interest might be developed in this di rection are urged to attend this initial meeting-Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock in the European history room of the Temple.

Ganz, who won third place in the lightweight division of the Western Conference last year, is again working out. Ganz is quick and strong and has a fair knowledge of the game. His great fault last year was his desire to hurry things.

Gunther, the Nebraska middleweight of the last two years, is also working out. Gunther is looked upon as having excellent chances in the Western Conference this year. Last year he won third place. From now on every man who can wrestle wants to get out. Three new men will be needed this year to complete the team. No one has a cinch, so get busy.
