CORNHUSKER ELECTIONS

Why are the business manager and the junior managing editor of the Cornhusker elected at this time of the year? And why is the junior managing editor forced to undergo a second election to hold his position and become editor-in-chief? We are not commenting in any way on the fitness of the two men who ran yesterday. That is past history. What we do want to know is: Will this sort of thing continue?

As it now stands, the man who is to be editor in his senior year, in the natural run of things, is chosen when he is a sophomore. This is done so he may acquaint himself with the publication. Then, in his junior year he is forced to defend himself against opposing candidates. If you are going to have such a system, why elect him at all in the "trial heat" in the sophomore year? If it means no promise of the editorship, why elect?

What we advocate is this: Elect the junior managing editor at the regular first semester election of the junior class, and then have no second election no "trial" and "final" election. We believe that the class can better judge a junior than a sophomore. He is better known. Under this plan this prospective editor would be certain of his promotion. He would have one entire number of the Cornhusker to work on before he took over the reins.

And why not the business manager at the same time from the sophomore class? At present the next-year's manager has no chance to work along with the present business staff. His election comes after much of the work has been done. What we want is to see him put in at the beginning of the year as the assistant business manager, with promotion certain. What do you think of this? Are you satisfied with the present election system? Let's have your opinion.

Roswell Haskell, the new president of the Senior Class, is a Lincoln man. He is captain of the basketball team, a member of the athletic board, chair man of this year's Cornhusker banquet, an innocent and a Delta Upsilon.

Lee Basye, Ivy Day orator, is a senior law. He is a member of Phi Delta Phi and of Aecia fraternity.

Herbert Reese, elected president of the Junior Class, is well known in athletics and in Y. M. C. A. circles. He is one of Nebraska's star track men. He is in charge of the Y. M. C. A. work at the Farm. He is not a fraternity man.

Leon W. Samuelson will continue his work on the Cornhusker. Last year he was elected junior managing editor. He is a member of the Kosmet Klub, of "Ye Chroniclers" and of Sigma Nu.

Roy Cameron is president of the Sophomore Class. He is well known for his work on the football team last fall. He is a member of Alpha Sigma Phi.

Harold Schwab, to be editor of the Cornhusker in his senior year, is a Delta Tau. "Jake" is a debater. He was on the freshman team last year and an alternate on the Varsity this year.

Marcus L. Poteet will succeed Russell Swift next year. Poteet has been on the business staff of "Awgwan" this year.

"Shorty" Allen, an Alpha Tau, was unanimously elected. He is a football man, despite his diminutive title.

buttons. She made some telling hits at the common masculine arguments which are given so frequently. Perhaps at the time many wished that the convocation had been open to men.

The program consisted of talks of a representative member of each class. Miss Helen Carroll spoke to the freshmen, informing them that the class color was green and that all loyal freshmen should exhibit that symbol in one way or another at the tournament. Miss Virginia Leach spoke to the sophomores. She spoke of the enthusiasm which the girls at Missouri manifest over such events and urged that Nebraska exhibit as much spirit.

Miss Margaret Rustin gave a taking personation of Kentucky philosophy, which was thoroughly appreciated by the girls. Miss Bechtel spoke of the girls who had worked hard with the team, but for various minor reasons could not make it. She attributed much of the good work shown by the teams to these girls and took this way of thanking them.

Esther Bennett spoke enthusiastically to the juniors of the wonderful merits of their team and all they would do to the others.

Miss Graham made some announcements of particular interest to the girls. There are numerous events in the calendar of activities for girls this week. Tuesday night from five to seven there was a meeting of the Girls' Club council and board. At this meeting reports of the semester's activities were given and suggestions made for next semester.

Thursday will be another convocation for women. Miss Condee, senior secretary of the Y. W. C. A. in the United States, will talk to the girls of openings for college girls aside from teaching.

Friday at five o'clock there will be a University women's tea in the Art Hall in honor of Miss Condee. All girls are invited to meet Miss Condee.

Miss Graham also made the announcement that Art Hall is now open to University dances and parties may be scheduled there at any time. Next Tuesday at five o'clock Miss Graham wishes to meet all sophomore girls. She wishes to organize them into a strong body of women for next year juniors. She is very anxious that every sophomore be present.

Editing the Newspaper.

Editing a paper is a nice thing. If we publish jokes, they say we are rattle-headed; if we don't, we are fossils. If we don't go to church we are heathens; if we do, we are hypocrites; if we remain in our rooms, we ought to be looking for material for the paper; if we go out, we are not attending to our business. Now, what are we to do? Just as likely as not people will say we stole this from another paper, and we did.—Augusta Observer.
