AMES HERE TONIGHT

THE CYCLONES ARE REPORTED STRONG FOR BATTLE.

CAPT. HASKELL'S LAST GAMES

Will Close Season Tonight and Tomorrow Night Unless Post Season Series is Arranged With Kansas for the Championship.

The basketball game tonight with Ames will be the first of a two-game series. The other game will be played tomorrow night. These are the last scheduled games of the season. It will be the last chance to see the Huskers in action unless a post season series is arranged with Kansas.

Coach Stiehm is going to enliven the game tonight with some men who may, by their performing, clinch their letters. With such an outlook, a lively tussle is in store for the fans. There is no reason why every loyal Cornhusker should not be present and help cheer the team to victory. Remember, your season tickets will admit you to either of these championship games.

CAPTAIN HASKELL

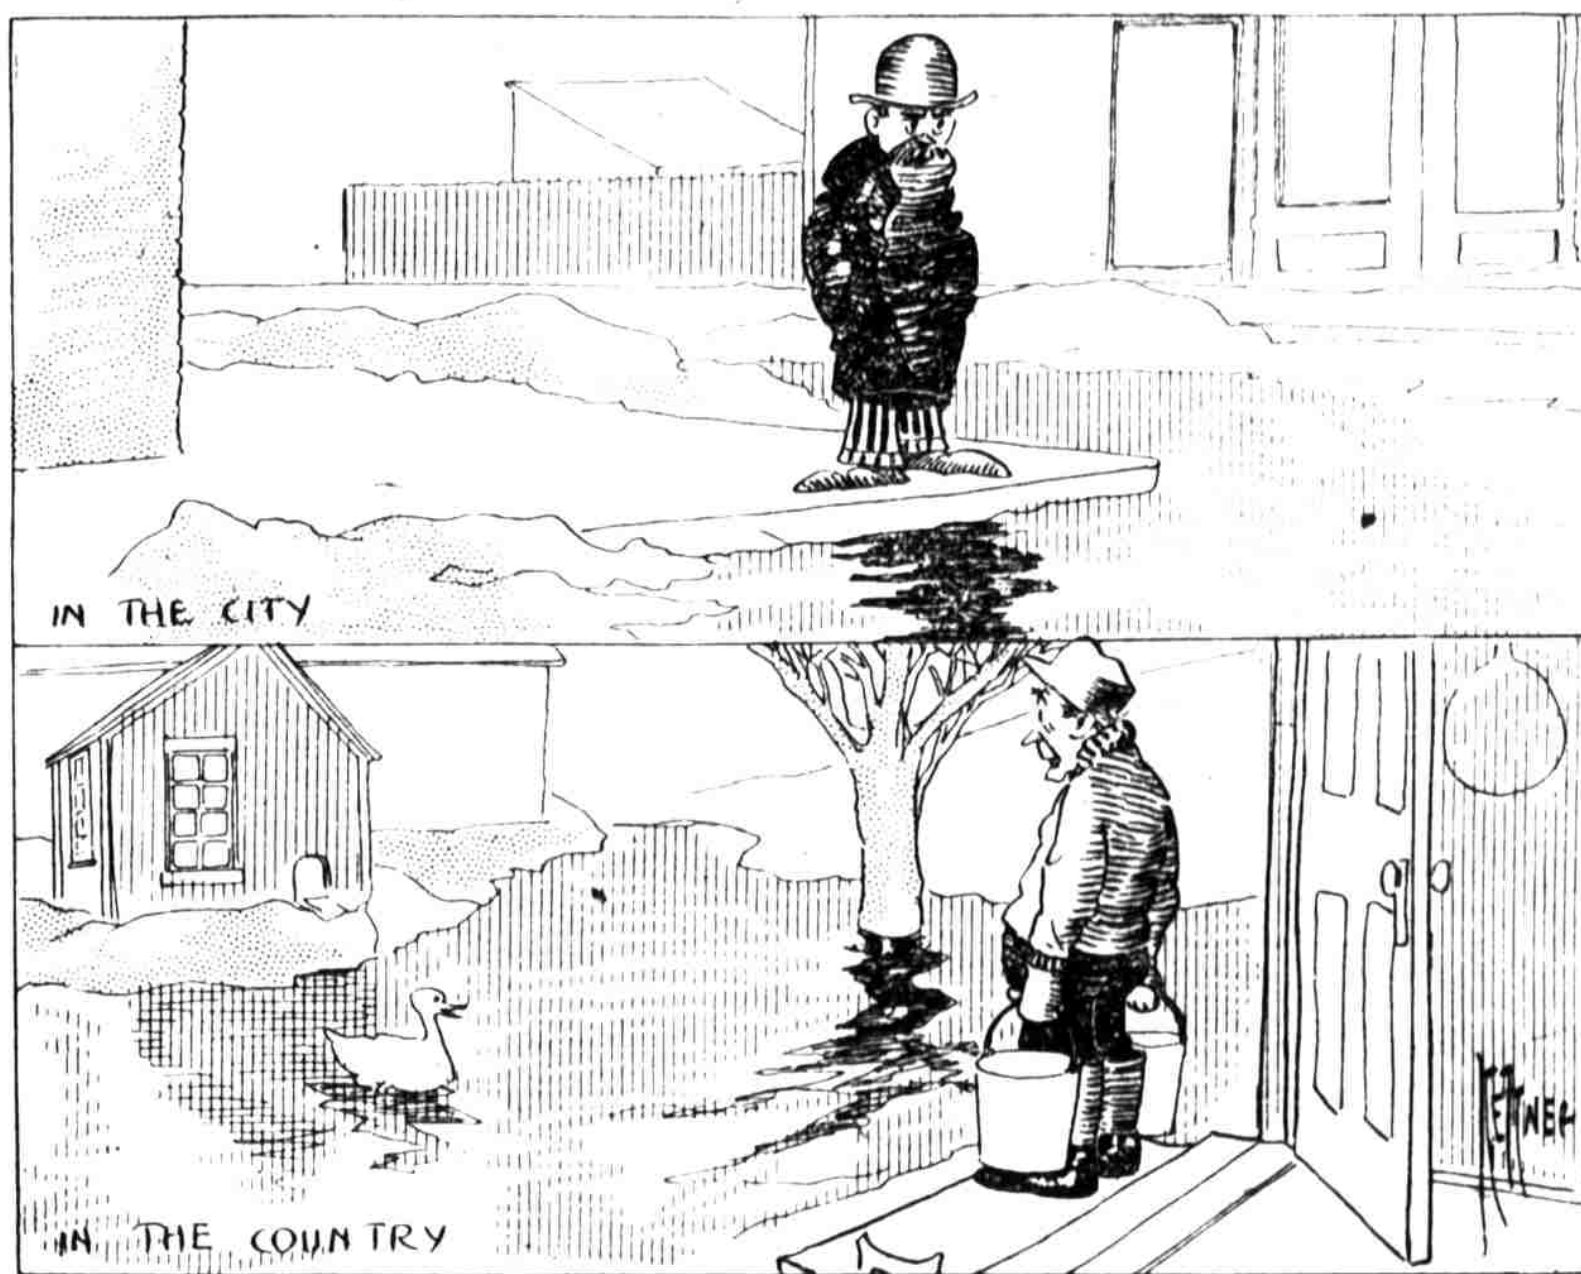

Who will lead the team tonight and tomorrow night in his last games for Nebraska in the Missouri Valley Conference. "Ross" has practically cinched his third term on the All-Missouri Valley team and has won three "Ns" at Nebraska—also has won his letter on the baseball diamond. One of the fastest forwards ever seen in the Missouri Valley.

If Nebraska wins she will have a chance at the Kansas team for the championship of the Missouri Valley; if she loses, that chance is lost. Come out and do your part! Come out and give a winning team the support that YOU OWE it! Come out and cheer the Huskers into their third consecutive championship of the Northern division and give them an opportunity to fight for their third consecutive championship of the Missouri Valley!

The authorities have made all arrangements for a hop after the game tonight and a number of the dancing basketball enthusiasts are planning on a big time.

UNIVERSITY NIGHT SKITS WANTED BY COMMITTEE

Advance Outlines of Acts Due Today—Joy Night to Be March 27, Definitely.

Plans for University Night are due to become crystallized today, when the advance outlines of the several acts are submitted to the committee. Committees from classes, colleges, and organizations have been taking the matter in hand for their stunts and they have been notified to get in touch with the committee today. Once in the hands of the committee, the plans will be chosen on a competitive basis. The number of acts is to be limited to six, which will mean that possibly some of the acts will have to be dispensed with.

The date for the production has been definitely set for March 27, and the Oliver theater has been engaged. What at first seemed to be an obstacle in the way of holding the Night at the Oliver later cleared up, so that the all-University audience that turns out for this annual show can easily be accommodated.

The program will be made up of possible acts from the Engineers, Agriculturalists, Cadets, Pharmacists, Band, co-eds in fancy dances, literary societies, fraternities and sororities. One or two of the advance sketches have been already turned in to the committee, but as yet no organization has been definitely assigned a place on the program.

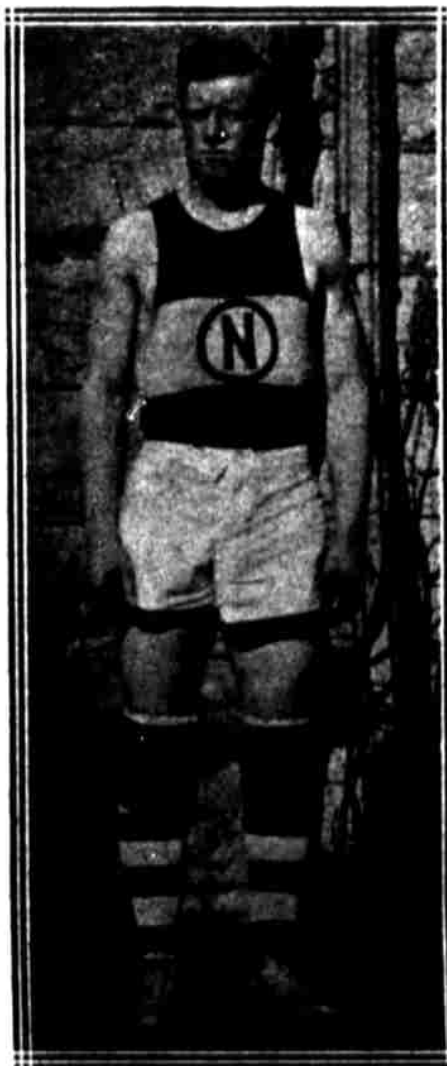

VESPER SERVICE

Miss Vaughn, Missionary to China, Makes Interesting Talk About That Country.

Marguerite Farley read the scripture lesson at the Thursday evening vesper service. Following the lesson, sentence prayers were given by the girls present. A very beautiful sacred hymn was sung by Clara Hill.

Miss Vaughn, who has recently returned from China, spoke on the subject, "Things Chinese." She stressed especially the great awakening which has manifested itself in educational, religious, social and political changes. The personal treatment she gave the subject brought the present condition of China home to her hearers with striking force.

"DICK" RUTHERFORD

All-Missouri Valley and All-Western halfback, who is one of the main cogs in the Stiehm basketball roller. Rutherford is playing a great game at guard.

THE THIRD SYMPHONY PROGRAM YESTERDAY

Largest Attendance This Season—Next Number to Be Given in Two Weeks.

The Third Symphony program given by the String Quartette was the best attended convocation of the year. The rapidly growing appreciation for these numbers is not only a tribute to the quartette, but is very good evidence of the sort of taste the students are acquiring. It is impossible to get so large and so appreciative an audience to go to a convocation which presents music of less merit.

The music this morning was of the most exquisite and intricate nature. It probably pleased the students more than any other quality of music could have. This student appreciation was favorably remarked on by the musicians and managers of the program.

The program was Beethoven's Symphony No. 6. The Pastoral in F, in which appear three movements: Allegro ma non troppo—The cheerful impressions excited on arriving in the country; Andante molto moto—By the brook; Allegro—Peasant's merrymaking; Allegro—Storm; Allegretto—The Shepherd's Hymn, gratitude and thanksgiving after the storm. These titles indicate the images which were before the composer's mind and the theme of each was brought out by notes which presented the murmuring of the brook, the songs of the quail and cuckoo, the terror of the storm, the merrymaking of the peasants, and the thanksgiving of the shepherds. No other music has been written to equal this symphony in its wonderful representations of nature.

The next number on the Symphony program will be given two weeks from yesterday, March 12. This number will be Schubert's Unfinished Symphony.

ANNUAL CONTESTS

HIGH SCHOOLS DEBATING ON TRUST PROBLEMS.

SIX DEBATES HELD TONIGHT

University Professors Called Out Into State to Judge Contests—Keen Competition Exists Between Schools.

Seven debates are on the program this week in the seventh annual contests of the Nebraska High School Debating League—one last night and six tonight. Seven or eight judges from the University of Nebraska are to weigh the evidence in these discussions on the proposition "That the policy of regulating trusts is preferable to the policy of dissolving them."

The first series debates in the Central district opened last evening at York with the York-Osborne contest. Prof. L. E. Aylsworth, Prof. Guernsey

EARL HAWKINS

The playing of Hawkins has been sensational. Being handicapped by a broken leg during the football season, it looked as if the position which he won on the basketball team last year would be vacant. Contrary to the fear, he has had his greatest season.

Jones, and Prof. Edwin Maxey composed the jury.

Prof. C. W. Taylor of the Teachers College High School leaves early this morning for Atkinson to act as judge of the Atkinson-O'Neill debate.

Prof. Edwin Maxey, Prof. G. A. Stephens, and Harold A. Prince, '13, law '15, of Grand Island, member of the Nebraska teams that defeated Wisconsin last year and Minnesota this, leave this afternoon for Nebraska City, whose team debates with Plattsmouth.

Weeping Water and Stella have asked Professor Fogg to send a judge to Stella.

Auburn and Tecumseh meet at Auburn this evening.

Two debates will be held this evening in the Southwestern district. McCook entertains the Trenton team, and Cambridge and Oxford meet at Oxford.

Frats in Split.

The fraternities at the University of Michigan have broken into factions and are in serious trouble with the faculty. The dispute still remains at a standstill.—The Reveille.
