"Soldiers of Fortune," With Dustin Farnum, at the Magnet.

Again the Magnet springs an unusual picture play to Lincoln. Richard Harding Davis' powerful story of revolution and adventure, which has been a big success wherever shown, will certainly meet the approval of the people of Lincoln. "Soldiers of Fortune" is a six-part production and possesses a wonderful realism in its picturesqueness. The Eastern press informs us that Dustin Farnum's work in this is little short of a revelation. Elsewhere the prices for this attraction have been 25 cents and more—here at the Magnet the prices will be 10 cents for adults and 5 cents for children.

Twice in the afternoon and three times each evening "Soldiers of Fortune" will be presented, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Another big feature, "The Message from Mars," comes Friday and Saturday.

PROFESSOR BARBOUR BACK FROM TRIP WEST

State Geologist Secures Many Specimens for the Museum—Fossil Bones Also Found.

Professor Barbour, the state geologist, has returned from Wyoming, where he has been examining the coal mines near Gillette, Wyo., for the state railway commission. He secured a large number of specimens for the Museum, including coal porcelamite, or the naturally burned clays. A number of fossil bones were also found and will be received in a few days.

Maxims from the Chem. Lab.

- 1—Your neighbor's eyes are not meant for targets, nor their noses for fume receptacles.
 - 2—Never scrub off tomorrow what you can dissolve today.
 - 3—Weights and hot crucibles are not able to stand sudden changes of temperature.
 - 4—Note-books are good for memories; jottings are useful if you can find them.
 - 5—An unrecorded experiment was never begun.
 - 6—Balance cases are not meant for sloop jars.
 - 7—One is not supposed to spend all one's time in the professor's office. Important conversations can be held elsewhere.
 - 8—Towels are used for drying and not for wiping off dirt.

LOVING COUPLE CAUGHT SPOOFING ON CAMPUS

Lovesick Man Sees Sights at High Noon Which Make the Blood Curdle.

He had his arm around her. It was high noon (a decidedly awkward time for a man to waist with a woman). They leaned toward each other with magnetic tenderness and I thought for sure he was going to kiss her, but, alas, he missed her. It was a bold thing to do on a campus bench, so I then meditated, but, then, I explained it was the weather.

A cool zephyr blew the curls into her eyes. With an affectionate sweep of his hand he brushed them back and they nestled again. The birds twittered love songs in the trees; the flowers nodded tenderly toward each other; on a bush beside me two bugs were fussing each other—and I felt alone.

With a new change in the wind I detected a clicking sound, which disturbed the romantiveness of the situation. On a little closer investigation, I discovered that it was Dr. Condra's moving picture machine. Just then the operator said, "All right folks; that's enough for this place."

PROFESSOR MAKES PLAIN THE SUFFRAGE QUESTION

Quoted Statistics to Convince—No State Has Ever Regretted Allowing Suffrage.

"Woman Suffrage and Politics," the first of a series of lectures on equal suffrage by Prof. G. E. Howard, was given Thursday night in the Temple Theatre. The audience was composed largely of women, with a few University students.

"Woman suffrage is humanly right and socially just," said the professor, "but there are still a few people to be convinced that there is a great question at stake." The progress of the movement in foreign countries and in the United States during the past few years was reviewed briefly. He said that no state that had once allowed women the ballot ever rescinded the action. Professor Howard also discussed the subject of women of the underworld voting. He showed that nothing better could be done in the way of bringing light to these women and giving them a chance to better their conditions. He said, "Give them the ballot and in a short time the redlight district will become the whitelight district."

The professor also read a mass of statistics which all went to show that equal suffrage had been in every way successful. He said in conclusion that woman suffrage would increase the educated vote and would lend stability to the ballot.
