A la "Bix".

Life's greatest problem of today
Is how to live and make it pay;
And, howsoever it may seem,
The problem is no idle dream.
At present time this "vale of tears"
Stands most in need of engineers;
Of men who know the thing to do
And have the skill to put it through.
There's going to be a banquet spread
For him who has it in his head
To do the engineering turn—
Here is a chance to "live and learn";
To hear from engineers of fame
Important lessons in the game;
How men of gumption may turn in
With well-directed power and win.
The spread will be a dream—the cost
Will never count as money lost.
Besides the fragrant soup and fish,
The board will groan with many a dish
On which a king might well requite
His never-failing appetite.

BIX.

The committee in charge of the Engineer's Banquet, May 9, at the Lindell, assures every ticket purchaser that he will witness the largest Engineering reunion ever held at the University. Invitations and programs of the evening, with copies of the Daily Nebraskan, have been sent to all graduates of our Engineering College. It is expected that some one hundred Nebraska Engineering "grads" will be back to roam over the old campus.

The Nebraska Academy of Sciences meets Friday, May 8, in the Mechanical Engineering building. No doubt many of the men in the profession will take advantage of this splendid opportunity to hear scientific discussions of great engineering problems and so will be in Lincoln the day before the banquet. Mr. Bion J. Arnold, toastmaster for the banquet, is planning to arrive in our city in time to attend this meeting.

The banquet itself is to be par excellence. The best possible arrangements have been made in every line of entertainment. Special attention has been given to the musical features of the program. A double quartet has been organized from the "Boller Makers" and their selections will, from all indications, exceed the very high standards set by quartets of former years. All vocal numbers will be accompanied by an eight piece orchestra made up from local talent in the Engineering College. The orches-

SIGN UNIVERSITY WEEK PETITIONS TODAY SURE

Students Are Requested to Not Confuse This With the University Removal Question.

Petitions asking the Board of Regents to grant "University Extension" or "University Week" are being circulated among the students today and tomorrow. Tomorrow tables will be placed about the campus to give every one a chance to sign. So far there are about four hundred signers.

Several persons have confused this movement with the policy of "extension" as opposed to "removal" in regard to University location. It has nothing to do with this. "University Week" means the presentation in various towns of the state University attractions, such as the Glee Club, The Dramatic Club, the debating teams, The Band, and other similar organizations, run on the lines of a lecture bureau or chautauqua program.

FRESHMAN MEETING

MEM. HALL, 11:30

Representatives to Student Council Convention to Be Elected—Ivy Day Committee Announced.

The freshman class will meet today, after much unseemly delay. This class has been holding up the work on both the student council convention and the joint Ivy Day committee solely because its president has not seen fit, heretofore, to call the class together.

Action has finally been secured. The freshmen will choose their members in the student council convention, and it is hoped Mr. Allen will announce his Ivy Day committee at this morning's meeting.

The other university classes have chosen their representatives in both cases cited some time ago. Yet all action has been delayed by the freshmen. Many claim they should not have representation: But now that it has been given to them the university demands that they make proper use of it.

HALLIGAN CHOSEN CAPTAIN BY THE GRIDIRON SQUAD YESTERDAY

STAR TACKLE SELECTED FOR LEADER OF 1914 SEASON—FOUNDATION STARTED FOR A GREAT TEAM NEXT YEAR—STUDENT BODY SATISFIED WITH THE RESULT—NEW CAPTAIN IS A PHI DELTA THETA.

Victor Halligan, a Junior in the College of Arts and Sciences, was chosen last night to lead the 1914 Cornhusker football team. Mr. Halligan is a member of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity and comes from North Platte, Nebraska. The ballots were cast by the "N" men for the man who they thought would be the best leader and Nebraskans are satisfied with their choice. "Vic" Halligan is the type of fellow whom Cornhuskers are proud to claim. He fights hard and clean and above all is a man.

Last fall when the sport writers chose their mythical teams there was one man that every one of them placed at left tackle and that man was "Vic" Halligan. Walter Eckersall gave him the All Western position and Outing gave him the same place on the coveted All American team.

No matter whether on defense or offense "Vic" was always in the play. In the Minnesota game he recovered three fumbles when, if the Gophers had gotten them, it would have been "all off" with Nebraska. When the Haskell Indians came they tried to get the Nebraska stars one by one. They succeeded in "laying out" Purdy and then started in on Halligan. The punishment that the North Platte boy took at this time was terrific. He was withdrawn after the game was safe and saved for Ames. When the Ames Aggies had it on us 9 to 0 then is when Halligan stood forth as a real leader. In this game he was acting captain in place of Purdy who was too ill to take part. Halligan was everywhere. His tackle round plays were the class of the afternoon. Against the Jayhawkers it was Halligan who fought eighteen yards through a sea of mud for the only touchdown of the afternoon. His performance in the Iowa game was sufficient to land him a place on Eckersall's All Western. In 1912 "Vic" played fullback. His plunging in the Oklahoma game was among the greatest sights ever seen on Nebraska Field.

For 1914 captain, Nebraska has a great player, a good student and a thorough gentleman. The Nebraskan extends its heartiest good wishes to "Vic" and hopes that success will attend him in his efforts to bring glory to Dear Old Nebraska.

Football Captains at Nebraska from 1890 Up to the Present Year.

The various football men who have been honored by their teammates and exalted to the highest honor that old Nebraska can bestow are given below:

The first man to captain the Cornhuskers was Ebenezer E. Mockett, who served during the two seasons of 1890 and 1891. In 1892 Albert M. Troyer led the Huskers. The 1893 leader was George Henry Dern, whose team won the pennant. In 1894 Ike O. Place was captain. "Billy" Wilson, four year varsity man, captained the Cornhuskers in his senior year. Wilson was left guard, and one of the originators of the now famous Nebraska stone wall. Orley B. Thorp was captain in 1896. The 1897 leader was one of the most brilliant leaders ever seen in a Nebraska uniform. To all old timers the name of George C. Shedd brings back memories of many famous victories. The team in 1898 was led by a four year veteran in W. C. Melford. A three year veteran led the team in 1899. C. E. Williams was the man, a peppery fighter of known and everlasting fame. Fred Brew led the team in

MATINEE FOR "FORTUNE HUNTER" CONFLICTS WITH RULES OF UNI.

Will one dollar or one and a half be the price of the best seat at the senior play? If the management has its way and runs both a matinee and a night performance everybody can go for one bone. If the faculty student organizations committee, however, bars the matinee the price will probably have to be $1.50 in order for the play to pay out.

The matinee is in danger because the play is to be given on Tuesday, May 5, the day before Ivy Day and the faculty committee is not likely to favor a matinee because that is a school day, even though the following day is a holiday. If they kill the matinee the usual afternoon revenue can hardly be made up except by raising the price of seats in the evening to the old price of $1.50, the usual senior play rate.

Aside from this little worry the senior play is coming on in great shape. The seniors are paying their assessments fairly well, for they realize that it is the only way to pay the class debt.

The fact that they will get more than their moneys worth in seats to the show, is also some inducement to come across. The cast is enthusiastic and working hard. Miss Howell says the cast is one of the best she has ever had to work with in a class play.

Tickets for underclassmen and faculty are on sale at the Co-Op. Organizations desiring to reserve seats together may so arrange by application to Mr. Kiddoo, the manager.
