

QUEEN NOMINATIONS

ELECTION OFFICIALS WILL NOT MAKE LUCKY NAMES PUBLIC.

ELECTION TO BE HELD TODAY

Eighteen Girls to Take Part in May Pole Dance—Complete List Given Below—Rumored May Queen Is One of the Dancers.

Absolute secrecy is what the election officials of the May Queen election observed last night and would not permit any of the nominations to be published. The election proper will be held today at the Library. The names of the candidates will be confided to the voters as they present themselves at the polls.

The officials give as their reason for silence that some of the senior girls refused to run if their names were made public. Although this prohibition and modesty deprives the public of very valuable information, still all will wait anxiously until the ballots are counted this evening.

The May Queen selection is decidedly a suffragette affair. Only girls of the senior class are allowed to vote for their preference.

The list of the senior girls who will take part in the May Pole Dance are given below. We have it from the inside that the May Queen will be one out of this number. Each reader is given one guess:

SHORT COURSE STUDENTS NOW AT THE STATE FARM

About Fifty in Attendance—Fewer Than in the Past—Seventh Annual Event.

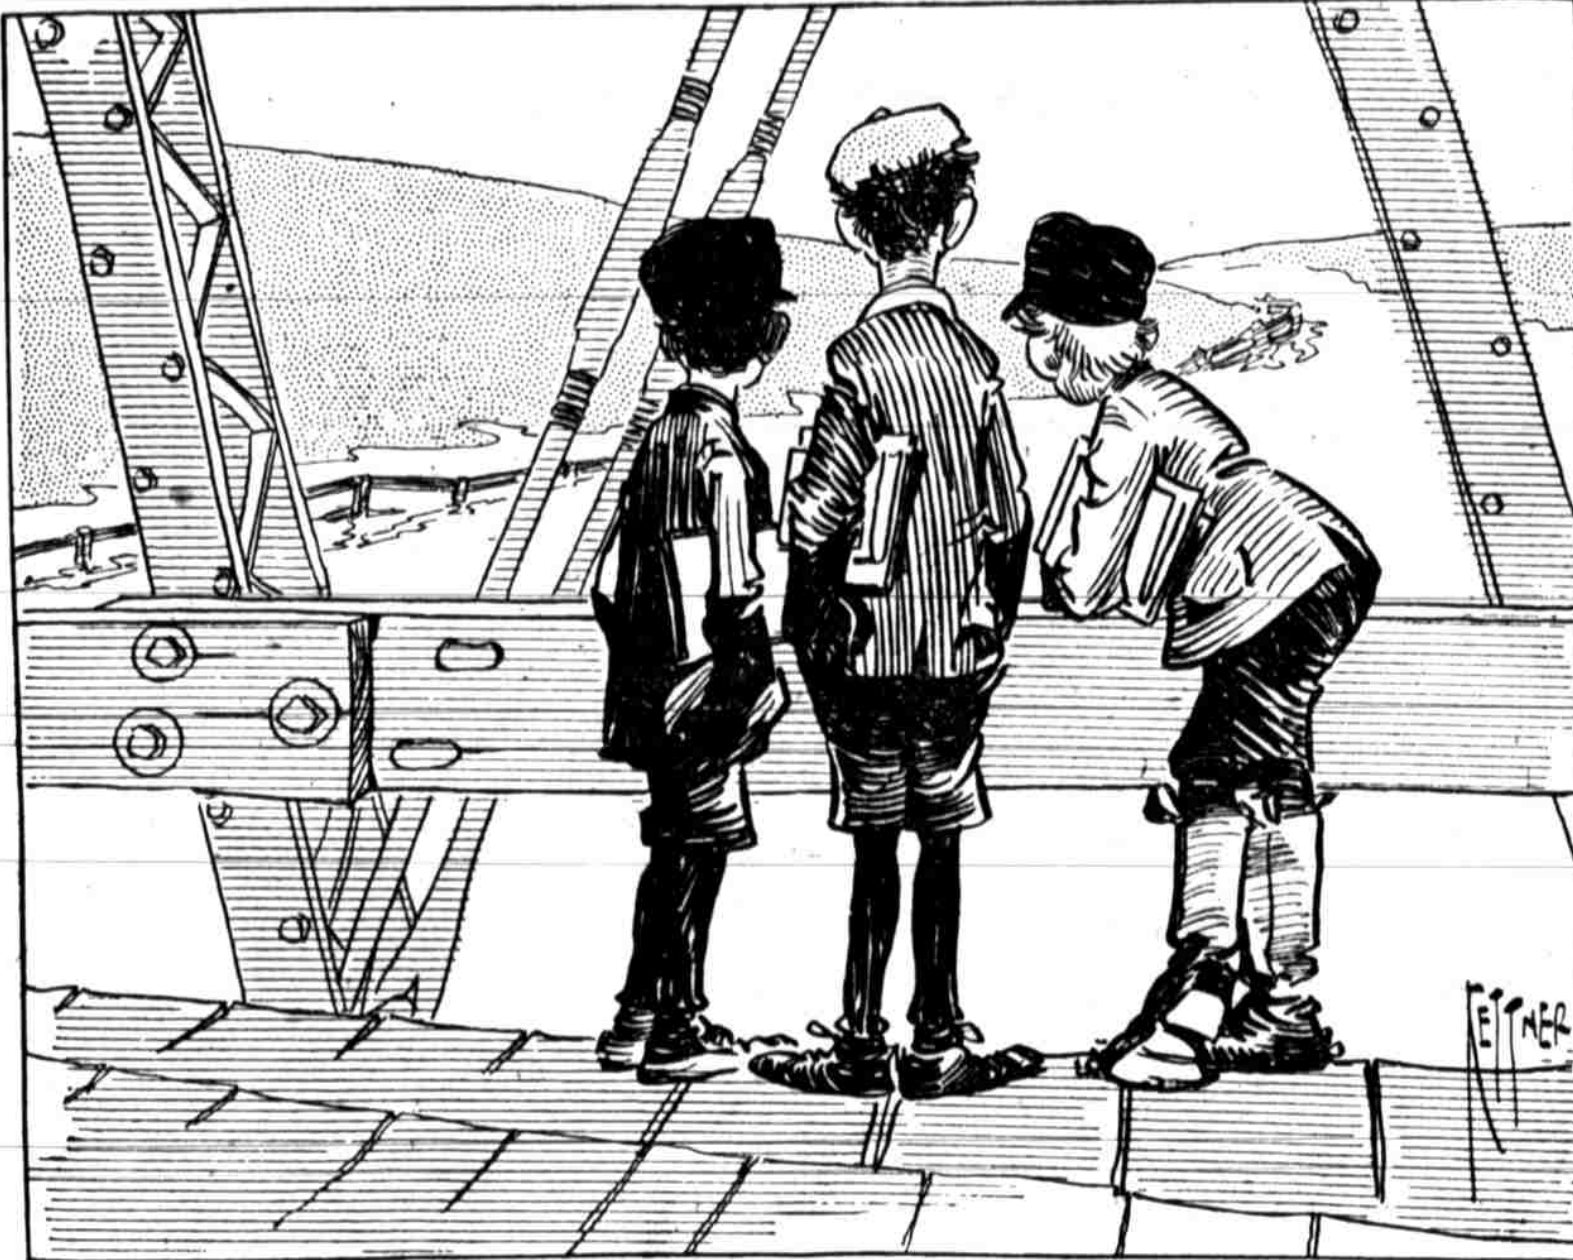

The seventh annual short course offered by the Agricultural Extension department of the University Farm is not as liberally attended as has been the case in the past. About fifty young people, ranging from twelve to eighteen years of age, selected by the county superintendents of public instruction throughout the state, are in attendance. Prof. C. W. Pugsley has the work in hand and Miss Hulda Petersen is assisting him.

The young men will receive instruction in stock judging, farm machinery, dairying and animal husbandry. The fairer sex will engage in sewing, cooking and serving, preparation of dairy products and home decoration.

COMMANDANT TALKS TO CADETS ABOUT INSPECTION

Both He and Inspecting Officer Highly Pleased—Delinquent Soldiers Are Warned.

Last night the cadets were relieved from the regular routine of drill to listen to a lecture delivered by the commandant. He commended them on the work which they did in the government inspection and said that the inspector was also very much pleased and really surprised at the showing made by the cadets. The inspection, which was the first number of the program for that afternoon, gave very good results. There was only one man in the entire regiment who had a dirty gun. As the inspection proceeded, one thing was very noticeable in the manner in which the cadets drilled. They showed the best kind of spirit possible. He gave as an example the little incident which occurred when one company was doing extended order drill. The company was halted in such a position that a part of the men were compelled to lie down in a puddle of mud. They did not falter, but threw themselves down in the mire. The commandant and the inspecting officer were very much pleased by this show of spirit. Lieutenant Bowman also said that the reason for the poorer showing last year was the fact that the regiment did not work during the year with the inspection in view. He followed out a plan for the year which had for its climax the competitive drill which came toward the last of the year. Under this plan the government inspection was left to take care of itself. This year, however, the work was planned in such a way that the best possible showing could be made at the inspection.

He next spoke for a short time in regard to delinquencies. All absences

STIEHM HAS ABOUT FIFTY HUSTLERS OUT FOR WORK

Corey, of Old-Time Fame, Makes Hit—Other Men Anxious to Make Good Showing.

The football practice last evening was attended by about fifty anxious candidates for the 1914 Stiehm roller. Corey, the two hundred and ten pound youngster, tackle of last year's freshmen, is performing in great fashion. Last night he was drop-kicking, sending the pigskin for forty-five, fifty, fifty-five, and even sixty yards. He was putting plenty of height in them and getting them off fast.

ENGINEERS INSPECT

UPPER CLASSMEN WILL MAKE ANNUAL INSPECTION TOUR.

INVESTIGATE HOME PLANTS

Trip Will Be Taken Tomorrow and Saturday—Omaha Tour Given Up This Year—Havelock Shops Included in the Itinerary.

The upper classmen of the Engineering College will make their annual inspection trip Friday and Saturday, May 1 and 2. The trip this year will be made through the various plants in and about Lincoln. The committee in charge, composed of Professors V. L. Hollister, chairman, J. N. Bridgeman, C. L. Dean and L. F. Seaton, decided that because many of the engineers were already familiar with the Omaha industries as a result of having taken trips in the past, the best policy would be to have the inspection at home and reserve Omaha for next year, when the event will be new again.

The Lincoln Commercial Club has worked in cooperation with the committee in their efforts to secure permission to make the inspections. The interest and loyalty of the enterprises through which the trips will be made has lightened the work of those in charge.

The itinerary of the trip is as follows:

ANNUAL CORNHUSKERS GO TO PRESS MONDAY

Complete Outline of the Campus Removal Question—Other Original Features.

"The 1914 Cornhusker will be on the press by Monday," declared Editor Trimble yesterday. A special man is here from Omaha and the final dummy is being made. The Cornhusker staff is working day and night rushing the work through to completion.

The annual will be out this year in the customary time after the date set for the initial appearance.

Several original and interesting innovations have been introduced in this year's Cornhusker. Instead of the customary campus scenes in the front pages, this portion of the book will be devoted to a complete outline of the "campus removal" question. Plans of the campus as it would be at the Farm and as it would be when extended in the city have been prepared by an expert architect. Valuable information will also be published which will give the citizens of the state, as well as the students, a comprehensive view of the whole situation.
