PLAY A WINNER

Graham, was delightful. Her work also showed great finish, but the most noticeable part of her interpretation was the pervading sweetness and girlish charm that she was able to infuse into the character. "Betty" is one of the best things Miss Preece has ever done in University dramatics.

Perhaps next after the two principles, Dwight Griswold as the irrepressible Tracey Tanner ought to be mentioned. He may have had a part that fitted him especially well, but the fact remains that he filled it especially well. The part of Tracey is a minor part, but it stands out almost as vividly as either of the leads because of the work of Mr. Griswold.

Guy Williams had a hard part to fill in the character of Sam Graham, the lovable old inventor, who had been a failure at pretty nearly everything. His work was always sincere and his voice was well suited to the part.

Hugh Agor was a very convincing Harry Kellogg. Practically the only "straight" part in the play, he had to make up in serious acting what his part lacked in comedy situations. He accomplished this in a most satisfactory manner.

Isabel Coons and Vivien Cleaver were very good in the role of small-town society belles. Miss Coons especially had some very hard work in the scene in which she proposes to Nat, which she handled with remarkable skill.

Nell Brown as Pete Willing, Charles Epperson as Mr. Lockwood, and Frank Kruse as George Burnham were all good in character parts. Wherever they were given a chance they displayed ability and finish.

Emmett Dunaway as Mr. Sperry and Orville Chatt as Roland Barnette were both excellent in their parts.

Julius Harpham, F. J. Chase, Harold Diegs and A. B. Coleman filled the minor parts in a way that left nothing to be desired.

MEN wanted for summer work. We have men now going to the University who have made from $300 to $900 clear for last summer. Call any time at the Stanley, 1302 Q St., room 4, second floor. Ask for C. Miller.

On Ivy Day and other spring outing occasions your enjoyment will be made more or less complete according as you are appropriately appareled.

For such events we suggest some of our lighter weight cassimere suits—full or quarter lined—in tasteful grays or more subdued blues. We have some that are revelations in smart style at $22.50 and $25. Other good ones at $17 to $20.00.

Palm Beach Suits and odd trousers are being called for---they'll be popular for golf, tennis, and general campus wear with the young fellows this spring; inexpensive too--$8 to $10.

Caps—Negligee Shirts—50c pure thread silk hose to go with your new Oxfords—Smart effects in spring neckwear, etc.,—always, the new things are here first.

ENGINEERS CAUGHT IN THEIR PRANK BY POLICE

Whistle Blew Long and Fierce at Convocation Time—Many Wondered What Was Up.

There was great anxiety and consternation at about eleven o'clock yesterday on the campus when some of our engineers blew their whistle. Through one of the windows of the Mechanical Engineering building the steam of the whistle was finding its way and many wondered if there was not a fire that caused the frightened men in that department to blow the piercing, ear drum blasting shriek. The joke was on the engineers though when the city police department patrol automobile stopped near the campus and the officers investigated the source of the noise.

The energetic engineers have been making quite a week of it and this is but one of their many pranks.

It's all said when we say
