Y. W. C. A. GIRLS INTERESTED IN ESTES PARK TRIP

Miss Finney Entertains About Forty Girls—Special Stunts Form Entertainment.

The Y. W. C. A. Estes Park picnic, which occurred Wednesday evening at the home of Janet Finney, was attended by about thirty girls, all especially interested in the Estes Park conference to be held in August.
The refreshments consisted of meat loaf, cream potatoes, sandwiches, pickles and radishes.

Valeria Bonnell was in charge of the stunts, which represented different phases of the conference in a very clever way. Much amusement was caused by the appearance of the wheelbarrow loaded with girls, intended to represent the automobile carrying the guests to the park. The stunt in which the girls finished a hasty toilette on the way to breakfast made a strong appeal. The University of Nebraska cottage brought enthusiastic cheers.

Ralph Curti and Robert Bowman of Omaha spent several days in the city.

PICK'S PICKINGS.

Practical jokes are all right in their place, but there is one senior in school who is not very crazy about them.
Several days ago a prominent senior girl was made the goat in a most sensational joke. She was in her gym clothes and the boys were waiting outside for the remainder of the picnic party. She went to her locker and no street clothes were to be found. She searched the whole building and enlisted the aid of half of the school force, but still no clothes. In desperation she looked forth from the gym window, but there were many people about, and besides this it was a long sprint to the Tri Delt abode. Finally she talked to the waiting gentlemen through a window. They picked up the lunch basket and beat it. This is indeed a cruel way to mar the festivities of a senior picnic.

Out at the Elliott grade school, at Twenty-seventh and O streets, is a shoot the chutes, put up for the purpose of entertaining the youths of the school. However, the Chi Omegas are not satisfied that this chute shall go unused on these fine summer evenings. They have acted accordingly.
When you drive by there after this, look and see for yourself. It is worth your while.

Cy Chase, one of the shining lights of the senior play, is reported to have conducted himself remarkably well at the picnic some days ago. He outran two "N" men, as the story goes, and did everything else but drop in the river, for which stunt he was to have received a dollar. We are sorry that such athletic material as this was not out for track many moons ago when it might have made a name for itself.

We think that Awgwan is much too live a paper to come out and croak in an obituary number. Here's hoping that it has nine lives like a cat.

The girls' track meet was without question the most attractive event which has taken place at Nebraska since she tied Michigan in football two years ago. The grandstand was fairly crowded with young men. Some of them even swarmed over into the field. The noise that floated up from the field on this occasion might well be compared to that of a steam callope and a cornsheller being hauled east on R street. Nevertheless, the boys should be commended for the noble way in which they support co-ed athletics.

Acacia freshmen have a delicate little job to perform in the near future.
It has been rules by the powers that be that they shall take possession of the trunk of a Captain Ganz. This trunk is to be carried around the corner and down the street to a sorority house at fourteen-ten Q street.
Just what the idea is is not yet out, but we will try to keep the Rag patrons informed so that they may be on hand to see the fun when it is pulled off.

Doctor Maxey's name will no doubt go down in the annals of history as a great baseball ump. If you do not believe it ask the inter-department baseball men. A short time ago the doctor made a decision which was evidently resented by one of the players. This player rushed out on to the field, brandishing his fists, and swore in the professor's ear. The doctor calmly thrust his hands back into his hip pockets and spoke thusly: "Sir, you must have met me before this." That was all there was to it; the warlike one drew in his hooks and Doctor Maxey adjusted his black hat.
