DRAMATIC TRYOUTS

EIGHT OF THE FORTY-FIVE CANDIDATES WON PLACES.

COMPETITION WAS VERY KEEN

Five Judges Handled This Very Trying Case—Final Tryouts Will be Held Next Thursday Night.

Forty-five candidates for admission to the Dramatic Club appeared in the tryouts Wednesday evening at the Temple Theatre. Unusual interest was shown in the tryouts and on the whole the ability displayed was exceptional, necessitating very careful consideration by the judges in the elimination. The membership of the club is not limited but in order that the members may get a reasonable amount of practice and training the number is usually small.

Two tryouts are held each year. The second tryout this year will be held on next Thursday night and those who failed this time will have an opportunity to try again then. Three girls and five boys were successful in the Wednesday evening tryout. They were: Ruby Anderson, Eva McNamara, Adele Kellenbarger, J. C. Beard, DeWitt Foster, Victor Kerney, Carlisle Jones, Spray Gardner. The judges were: Miss Alice Howell, Mr. S. S. Davis, Miss Bashie Tully, Mr. Ralph Northrup, and Mr. Clarence Clark.

Announcement.

An informal study of the second Beethoven Symphony will be held in Art Hall at 5 p. m. Saturday. This study hour is intended for all who enjoy music but are not professional musicians or have little opportunity for becoming intimately acquainted with such masterpieces of musical art. It is open to both students and faculty.

BIG CONVOCATION HELD YESTERDAY

First Beethoven Symphony Rendered Audience Shows Great Appreciation.

Memorial Hall was filled yesterday with students and faculty who came to hear the first Beethoven Symphony rendered by Mrs. Raymond together with the string quartet. Especially significant was the large number of men present. The players expressed themselves as delighted with the appreciation of the audience as evidenced by their close attention. Nebraska students are certainly showing a strong interest in good music.

The Symphony was light and joyful throughout and simple enough to be grasped readily. The lucid and entertaining description of it on the programs written by Prof. Vance helped not a little toward understanding the various movements.

The Andante was especially melodious and graceful. It would certainly be educative as well as delightful if each Symphony could be repeated. One hearing is not enough for those who really care for music.

CHILDS GAVE FINE ADDRESS AT TEMPLE

Spoke on "Making Life Count"—Expects to Leave for Argentina in Near Future.

Mr. Elmer W. Childs, an old Nebraskan, spoke in the Music Hall of the Temple the other evening on the subject "Making Life Count." Mr. Childs expects to leave in the near future for Buenos Ayres, Argentina, where he will do Y. M. C. A. mission work.

He gave a very interesting talk and impressed upon his listeners the great opportunities which are to be found in the foreign fields. He compared life to a phonograph and our records to phonograph records which are left behind for others to hear. He presented a very strong argument for the entering of mission work by young men.

After his talk Mr. Ewing, secretary of the College Y. M. C. A., told of the different mission classes that are being organized. Each one was asked to give his support to the work and a number of new students enrolled in the mission work.

Mr. Childs is now taking graduate work in the University and will probably be here until he starts south.

CADET OFFICERS TO HOLD BIG BANQUET

A JUBILATION PARTY

SECOND BIG EVENT HELD IN THE ARMORY BY GIRLS.

WILL WEAR MANY COSTUMES

Miss Mayhew Will Appear in Typical Chinese Attire—Refreshments to be Served Free in Armory.

This is the last day of the missionary campaign, which is being carried on by the Y. W. C. A. and the close of the campaign will be celebrated tonight with a "Jubilation Costume Party" in the armory.

Every university girl is invited and requested to appear in costume. The party is not a Chinese party and costumes of all descriptions will be in evidence. Miss Mayhew has promised to appear in the typical Chinese costume such as she wore when at work in China. She will give a short talk telling of some of her experiences while in China. Miss Dodge and Miss Blanchard are planning to be present and have agreed to "dress for the occasion."

A band composed of faculty and graduate students is now being trained and will tonight make their first appearance in the musical world. Refreshments will be served and a program of unique and original stunts will be given. The physical education department will be represented by a number of girls in special costume.

The last of the pledges for the support of the missionary in China will be taken this afternoon. The amount raised during the campaign will be announced tonight. No admission will be charged.

UNI BAND PLEAS OMAHA AUDIENCES

Plays at Aksarben Wednesday Night—Return Last Night Except the Lucky Ones.

The University of Nebraska was nobly represented at the big Aksarben carnival held in Omaha this week. It is estimated that at least three hundred students attended the show on different days of the week. All classes were represented from the unsuspecting frosh to the dignified senior. Wednesday was the really big day on account of the electrical parade. However, it rained Wednesday night and sort of dampened the ardor of many. Those who were lucky enough to draw a bid to the ball or have ten dollars to buy a bid will stay over until Saturday. Everyone reports a fine time.

AWGWAN WILL BE OUT MONDAY MORNING

Many New Features and Generally Good—Watch for the Fraternities Want Ads.

The second issue of the Awgwan will be out on Monday. This issue will contain many new features that have heretofore been omitted. The name given to this number, HOME-SICK, is very appropriate for this time of the year. Another special feature is the page of want ads concerning fraternities. All in all this is the biggest and best number that has been printed in recent years.

Announcement.
Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Sawyer will entertain the students who attend All Souls church and their friends at their home on Saturday at No. 5 Floral Park, on Seventeenth and F streets. No formal invitations have been issued.

Captured Last Night at the Oliver—Released This Morning After Severe Lecture.

Jimmy Gardiner, Phi Psi freshman who fell into the hands of the Lincoln police force the other night, fell out again the next morning when he was dismissed without being brought to trial. The arrest was made by a special officer stationed in the gallery of the theater to watch the behavior of the university students. The officer declared that Gardiner was dangling a cord over the railing to the annoyance of the theatregoers seated below. He was given a severe talking to by Chief of Police Malone and released.

REVIEW OF THE EUROPEAN WAR

Teacher of the Lincoln Schools Gives Account of Her Experiences in War Territory.

At the Graduate Seminar of the department of political science and sociology meeting, Tuesday evening, Miss Mary Tremain of the Lincoln High School gave a very interesting and detailed talk of her experiences in crossing France and England on her way home this summer. Miss Tremain was in Europe at the declaration of war. She had a very good opportunity to study the conditions in Europe, especially in France and England. She related that while in Paris, the usual gathering place of the festive minds of the world, the streets were deserted, and the usually pictured gay Frenchman went around very seriously and calmly. She said: "The French are not showing any of the excitability credited to them. In fact, France is at present the most serious country in Europe, as her whole being and welfare depend upon the outcome of this gigantic struggle now going on in Europe.

"In aristocratic England the conditions are also very changed," said Miss Tremain. "The well-to-do people in England, especially the noble class, are doing everything in their power to lighten the awful burden of war. The nobles as well as the wealthy class are putting advertisements in the daily papers to the effect that they have a house or palace that may be used as a hospital. As a whole, France and England are preparing to make the stand of their history in this present conflict.

RAIN ENDS PRACTICE

FEAR OF DROWNING CAUSES TEAM TO CUT SCRIMMAGE SHORT.

COYOTES HIT TOWN TODAY

Every Indication Points Toward a Mighty Struggle When the Cornhuskers Clash With the Coyotes.

By H. I. Kyle.

"We are going into a game, Saturday," said Coach Stiehm this morning. "In which we have everything to lose and nothing to gain." We are going against a team of veterans that will match our team in weight, that has been practicing since the middle of August, and that has been pointed toward this game since the season began. We will have to oppose them with a line-up that has been shot to pieces by injuries and shifts. But if the men will get that dogged, determined fighting spirit, that enabled them to compass the seeming impossible so many times last year, then there will still be ample ground for hope.

A short scrimmage was indulged in, to the tune "a life on the ocean wave," yesterday, but a fear that someone would be drowned soon induced a halt in the marine maneuvers. We hesitate to chronicle the fact that whenever a man was tackled yesterday, nothing but the buoyancy of the ball kept him from going completely under. After a very little of this hydro-fighting, during which neither side was able to rock the boat to any great extent, the squad adjourned to the gym where the ball-passing phase of the game was joyfully taken up.

The rangy old pack from the northland will probably hit town sometime today. If you see one, scratch his back and make him feel at home. He is our guest till Saturday night and though he may shatter our fair record before he goes, we must bear in mind that such is his way and that we invited him to try that very stunt or he wouldn't be here.

REGENTS EXPRESS THEIR SENTIMENTS

Endorses President's Neutrality Position—Action Due to Maher's Letter.

With no desire to curtail academic freedom, the university board of regents asked Chancellor Avery to make a public statement giving their opinion of President Wilson's neutrality proclamation, at their meeting Tuesday evening. They were personally very much in sympathy with the president's proclamation, and expressed their desire that internal peace and good will, not only at the university but throughout the state, might be maintained.

The statement was made after consideration of a letter written them by Colonel John G. Maher, published in the public press October 5, in which he protested very strongly against a speech made by Prof. Fred M. Fling of the European History Department at chapel September 29. He enclosed a synopsis of the speech and said that Prof. Fling had not only violated the neutrality proclamation, but had strongly urged the students to take sides.
