Joe Hughs of Omaha spent last week-end at the Alpha Phi house.

Martha Ladd, a grand officer of Chi Omega, will spend Thanksgiving week in Lincoln, the guest of the local chapter.

Catherine Atwood, Lucile Foster, Helen Hall, Gertrude Welsh, were among those who attended the game at Iowa City.

Dorothy Ellsworth, society reporter of the Daily Nebraskan, attended the Iowa-Nebraska game and will visit friends at Iowa City until after Thanksgiving.

Union Literary Society.

Many members, as well as strangers, came to Union Hall, last Friday night. About an hour was spent in getting acquainted with one another in an informal way. Later on Miss Hunxley and Miss Nelson played an instrumental duet. Miss Kimball gave a long interesting reading. The latest issue of the "Union Newspaper" was read by Miss Hazel Allen.

Y. W. C. A. COLLECTS MONEY FOR CHARITY

Requests That Supplies be Left at Y. W. C. A. Before 5 O'Clock Tuesday—Will Aid Poor of City.

Miss Drake of the Y. W. C. A. is collecting supplies and money to be given to organized charity. These will be used in giving dinners to the poor of the city. Everyone who feels at all inclined to give anything to the cause should leave their money or provisions at the Y. W. C. A. rooms before 5 o' clock Tuesday.

UNIVERSITY JOURNAL ISSUED SECOND TIME

Chancellor's Opening Address—Contains Many Articles Interesting to Students and Alumni.

The second number of this year's University Journal is now out. Chancellor S. Avery's opening address is the main article. Dr. Luckey follows with an article on "Harmonizing Vocational and Cultural Education." "Governing Forests" is contributed by Prof. Merrill.

Chancellor Avery's speech on "Lessons of the Hour" is a comprehensive address on the war and the relations of the United States to it. He analyzes the lessons to be gained from the war as, first, the priceless value of goodwill; second, the lesson of organized efficiency; third, the lesson of magnanimity that should come from strength, citing the attitude of the United States toward Mexico as an example, and last, as a special message to students, the fact that upon us as American students rests the responsibility of carrying forward civilization. In this he shows how our devotion to study will influence the culture of the world and the possibil-

After this program, games of all kinds were participated in.

Sophomore Hop.

The Sophomore Hop held at Rose-wilde Hall Friday night proved to be a grand success in spite of the fact that many of the "regulars" who attend class parties went to Iowa City to take in the Iowa-Nebraska game. The hall was cool, the music was "class" and an unusual amount of "pep" was in evidence. About one hundred and twenty couples indulged in the "tango," "half and half," and "hesitation" with an occasional "fox trot." The grand march was led by Phebe Folsom, John Stoddard, Katherine Dirks, and Ralph Lahr. A flash-light of the crowd was taken just after the grand march. Many comments of approval were heard concerning this innovation. Another flashlight of the parlor was taken later in the evening, much to the surprise of several couples. Dean and Mrs. C. C. Engberg, Lieutenant and Mrs. S. M. Parker, chaperoned the dance. Punch, wafers, ices and candies were served during the evening.

ties of our developing a truly original American culture. In concluding he points out the noble beginning made by Nebraska in years past and places before us the great future that the doors of Nebraska open up to the students in their forty-fourth annual welcome.

Dr. Luckey in his article on the "Harmonizing of Cultural and Vocational Education" shows how the school system now in existence, and patterned after the European system is breaking down and new elements entering. He pleads for more vocational training, on the basis that the best of such training will give a deeper meaning to the cultural.

Prof. Morrill's article on "Governing Forests," is timely and full of sage advice to all American citizens. He points out how America is constantly using up three times as much wood as she is legitimately entitled to. He shows also that the fact that 80 per cent of our timber is owned by private interests increases this destruction. Because of this private ownership he says that fires are not suppressed and wastes are not curtailed. He goes on and shows that we must look to our government as the protector of forests and predicts that "the joint rule of Nature and Science promises to give a successful administration of our National Forests."

The review of Debating in the state by T. A. Williams is comprehensive and complete. A survey of Ohio school laws, an article by Prof. Eaves on "The Training of Rural Leaders," Dean Engberg's report on the University scholarship, and various miscellaneous articles complete this very interesting number.

DAKOTA COLLEGE CELEBRATE HOBO DAY

Over One Thousand Students Join in the Celebration—Begged For Food in Streets of City.

The South Dakota College held a "hobo day" recently and over one thousand students and a large number of the faculty took part in the celebrations. The parade itself was over one mile long without the band, a hobo band and some bunch of music producers too. The faculty granted the students a half day holiday and then the real fun began. The girls of the school were dressed as squaws and the men as hoboes. The real fun started at an early hour in the morning and lasted till late at night. There was a mammoth parade and a grand march to the city from the campus, all the

There Is a Difference In Knitted Underwear

As there is a difference in the quality-points of all merchandise, so is there a difference in LEWIS Union Suit quality. Knit in the good old LEWIS Way—knit to fit your shape and hold them and with the LEWIS Perfect Seat—the seat that does not gape, bunch or pull and that is so constructed that it takes only one button to close it and keep it closed.

squaws and hoboes took part in this stunt and it is useless to say that it attracted no little attention from the natives who are just beginning to get used to "such carryings on" from the students.

After the parade the squaws and hoboes roamed the streets of the city and begged for their sustenance and were heartily received by the towns people who contributed to the worthy cause in a very commendable fashion. The event is to be remembered by all the fellows who took part in the stunt will put it down in their scrap books as one of "the times" of their life.

PRE-MEDIC SOCIETY OFFERS GOLD MEDAL

Medal to be Given on Scholarship Basis—Must Win Twice in Order to Become Permanent Owner.

The Pre-Medic Society of this school is going to offer a medal after the mid-semester examinations to the medical student having the highest averages. The same medal will again be rewarded to the student who makes the best standing after the semester examinations and so on after the same exams during the next semester. This is a very good scheme to promote the high averages in this society and it is merely paving the way for some future members of the honorary chapter in Omaha when some of these doctors in the embryo reach the metropolises of the state. The student who wins the medal will have to make very good efforts to retain the medal as the competition will be very keen and it will indeed be a surprise if the same man retains the coveted prize the second time in succession. This contest will awaken a great deal of interest among the medical students and it may be well to say that there are some very high standings among the followers of this course here. The fact that they are required to make ten per cent more than the other students does not seem to make any difference to the students in this branch of college work. They have higher grades accordingly than the students in any other college on the campus.

Extinct Bird in Iowa Museum.

Professor Dill, of the department of taxidermy, of the Zoological department has secured a specimen of the passenger pigeon from Mr. John Williams, father of Dr. Mabel Claire Williams. Mr. Williams secured this specimen a number of years ago and mounted it himself. While the bird is in perfect condition, the old methods of taxidermy were not as thorough as the modern methods, so Professor Dill will remount the bird, and through the kindness of Mr. Williams, the university will have, at least one of the extinct passenger pigeons in the bird museum. One of the most interesting facts in connection with this bird is that the last known living specimen died on the first of last September.—Daily Iowan.

University dancing class starts Saturday, Nov. 21. Lincoln Dancing Academy.
