concerned. We are optimistic of victory, nevertheless. LARGE ENROLLMENT IN LEGISLATION

Fifty Students Registered in Course—
 Meetings Held at State Capitol
 Thursday Evenings

The class in practical legislation, under the direction of Prof. A. E. Sheldon, is now meeting in the state capitol. About fifty students are registered in this course and meet in relays from six to eight to take up assignments investigating the data on which bills are drafted. The legislature convenes at 12 o'clock, noon, today.

One of the few courses in "climatology" offered in the United States will be established soon at the Colorado State Teachers College by Prof. Geo. A. Barker, head of the department of geography.
