Hunt; vice president, Victor Goulter; secretary, Paul Greusel; treasurer, James Marshall; censor, Harold Miller; guard, John Barry.

TOPICS OF THE DAY POSTED IN LIBRARY

Many New Books Received by General Library—Leading Topics of the Day Posted for Reference

The Library has received a list of new books of varied topic, and vary from romance to state constitution talks. Some are on magic, short plays, tragedy and health talks. The librarians have arranged a list of all the current topics of interest and the magazines in which they are to be found, and posted the list on the pillar by the loan desk and also at several other places of prominence in the library. This list is changed every week so one can find out the topics of the day posted with the magazine in which it is found by consulting these lists.

- The new books are as follows:
- Aulard, F. V. A.—Le societe des Jacobins.
- Bennett, E. A.—Your United States.
- Bynner, W.—The Little King.
- Charavay, E.—Assemblée electorale de Paris, 1790-1.

- Francis, J. O.—Change.

BANANAS RIPENING IN UNI GREENHOUSE

Tropical Tree in Full Bloom—Shows Remarkable Growth for Northern Climate

While the snow is swirling around the corners of the buildings and the thermometer registers 20 degrees below, a banana tree in the University greenhouse is in full bloom and a large bunch of bananas are fast ripening. The tree is about twelve feet tall. Its leaves are four to six feet long and about three feet wide, smooth and thick. The blossoms are too large to be pretty, but they are interesting because of their size, each petal of the blossom covers about ten to fifteen of the small green bananas.

This is the first bunch of bananas which the tree has yet produced; last year the tree was frosted, and the year before that only a few bananas were ripened. The tree starts from a root each year—all the rest dies—and for this climate the tree has made a truly remarkable growth.

"Oh, Clarence," she sighed, "you surely have a mortgage on me."
