'EASY MARK' NUMBER OF AWGWAN IS OUT

Clever Issue is Produced—Editorials and Local Humor Show Snap and Keen Wit

"The Easy Mark" number of the Awgwan is out in all its glory. The chief conspirators have done their worst and the result is an issue that is worth reading. The cover is illustrated by H. Greer and the design is a clever dedication to the Kosmet Klub. The usual number of jokes may be found, the editorials are snappy, and the cartoons are as appropriate as cartoons should be, but the part that will probably attract more attention than the other divisions is the "General Catalogue of the University of Nebraska." The next number of the Awgwan will be the "Prom" number, out March 1. Then the editors are going on a vacation and the law students will prove that they have as much ability as the scribes that have made our contemporary interesting by publishing on March 15 the "Law" number. (Law me!)

MANY STUDENTS SPEND HOLIDAY AT HOME

More Than Usual Number Leave City—Enough Charter Day Medals to Go Round

The students began flocking back to Lincoln at an early hour yesterday afternoon. More than the usual number went home for the extra day holiday. Some of them returned to be present during the Charter Day program, while others waited until late last night or early this morning for their return voyage. The campus presented a deserted appearance. There were not even enough students present to carry on the usual campus gossip. The situation was well sized up by Maurice Clark yesterday morning. He was examining the medals on display in front of Memorial Hall when he was heard to exclaim: "Well, from the looks of things there will be just about enough to go around to the students who have stayed over."

KOSMET SEAT SALE STARTS WITH RUSH

Line of Students Had Formed Before Box-Office Opened—Reservations Held Until Thursday Night

The seat sale for "The Easy Mark" starts off with a rush and everyone will have to hurry if they want good seats for this most popular of all student shows. The seats held in reserve will be kept until Tuesday night, when, if they are not called for, they will be placed on general sale. With the opening of the box office Monday morning there was a stream of students waiting to reserve seats, and the reservations have been going fast all day.

Rehearsals are scheduled for every day this week and every effort is being put forth to make the show the best ever. The music has arrived and will be placed on sale on the campus this week. This score comprises the song hits of the show and should have a good sale among the students. Every indication points to a very successful show.

MIDWINTER CLASS

THIRTY-THREE FROM SEVEN COLLEGES RECEIVE DEGREES

DEAN BURNETT GIVE ADDRESS

The Black Masques Entertain the Graduates at an Informal Reception After the Exercises

The nineteenth annual midwinter commencement exercises of the University of Nebraska were held last Monday evening at the Temple Theater. Degrees were conferred upon thirty-three who had finished their work at this time. The exercises were presided over by Chancellor Avery.

The address by Dean Burnett of the College of Agriculture was made interesting especially to those who have studied the question of the increased demand for food in the United States and the decrease of surplus lands to supply this demand. The speaker was optimistic as to the outcome of the situation. He pointed out the great strides that scientific agriculture had made in meeting the call for the increased amount of food and held out the hope that the introduction of the study of agriculture into our public schools as one of the common branches would undoubtedly go a long way toward solving this economic problem. Dean Burnett then im-

NINETY COUPLES ATTEND LAW HOP

One of the Best Dances of the Season—Professor and Mrs. Fossler Were Chaperones

The dance held by the Freshman Laws was one of the best of the season. Professor and Mrs. Foster chaperoned the dance held at the Rosewild dancing hall Saturday evening. Ninety couples were in attendance, and pronounced it the best University dance of the season. One of the crowning features was the distribution of roses to the girls with the programs. New dances and new steps were at their maximum, and this connected with the fact that there was no limit to the "pep" demonstrated, the good time can be explained.

Refreshments were served, consisting of punch, candy and wafers. Mr. Bryson, as chairman, says it was a financial success.

JUNIOR PROM NEXT SATURDAY EVENING

Committee Refuse to Tell Plans for Party—Promise a Feature Dance From Start to Finish

The Junior Prom will be held Saturday night, March 6, 1915, at the Rosewilde Party House. The Prom promises to be one of, if not the, classiest social events of the present season. The chairman of the committee is very secretive as to just what the party is to be like, and when asked for a statement concerning the Prom, simply said: "Tell them they are going to receive the most pleasant surprise of their college careers." He said definite announcements would be made within a few days, but that until then he had nothing more to say.

The various members of the committee are working hard making definite arrangements. Several of them when interviewed refused to talk, and a few simply said, "Wait and see."

The chairman of the financial division of the committee said, "Just say that the place is Rosewilde, the time is March 6, 1915, and the price is three dollars for a real class dance."

The average attendance at these lectures was about two hundred. They were very beneficial as well as interesting. They were much appreciated by all.

FORMER STUDENT NOW IN INSANE ASYLUM

Says He Forged Checks in Order to Get Jail Sentence and Study Penal Methods

Smith Widen, a graduate of Iowa University, was confined to the insane asylum at Chicago last week. He stated that he had forged checks in order to be sentenced to the asylum so that he could study penal methods. When taken to the asylum he took his confinement with pleasure, saying it would afford him an opportunity to study the insane. Widen created a sensation at Iowa University during the past three years, where he studied psychology. His pranks caused much comment. His parents reside in Austin, Texas.

CYCLONES GET BACK

HUSKERS DROP LAST GAME OF EASTERN INVASION

NEBRASKA IS IN POOR FORM

Unable to Stop Cyclone Offense—Score Stands 25 to 11 Against Them—Win Other Two Games Easily

Ames came back last Saturday afternoon and administered a 25-11 defeat to the Huskers in the last game of the eastern invasion. Nebraska had won the game of the previous evening 24-12, and at that time the chances for an all-victorious trip were especially bright. The secret of the Ames victory lay in the previously feared slump of the Cornhusker quintet and the fierce, irresistible work of the Cyclones. Nebraska's offense never got well started. The guarding of the Ames defense was so close and their offense so fierce that the Husker teamwork appeared only in flashes. Rutherford and Campbell played the most consistent game for Nebraska, although the Cyclone defense held them down to fewer goals than they registered in any previous game of the trip. Hugg was not up to form and had little success in converting the frequent Ames fouls into Nebraska points. Cramer, right guard, was the point of the Ames offense, and scored five of the Cyclone's goals.

Ames started the game with a rush, gaining the lead, which they held throughout the major portion of the contest. Swiney scored first, when he registered a free throw for the Cyclones. Cramer soon followed with a goal from the field. The game was
