WAR SUMMARY

Austria is mobilizing troops on the Italian frontier and has been doing so for the past ten days. The detachments are chiefly artillery and their guns have been placed in such a manner as to dominate the passes of the Tyrol.

German submarines have sunk a French steamer and an English steam collier off the coast of France, but without any loss of life.

It is reported that Emperor Wilhelm will go at once to Helgoland, the German naval and aerial base, to personally direct the submarine attack against England. The German proclamation declaring such a campaign went into effect at midnight last night. The British foreign office has issued a statement, saying that if any of the belligerent nations should abandon the principles of international law by attacking a merchant ship without first verifying its nationality, England would not consider herself bound by the generally accepted rules of naval warfare.

Forty British and French aeroplanes made an attack on Ostend and other Belgian towns in the hands of the Germans, bombarding gun positions, barges, canal locks, transport wagons and the large German aerodrome at Ghistelles.

The French war office reports that they have made an important advance in the Champagne district, capturing German trenches three kilometers in extent (two miles). On the rest of the western front nothing of importance has occurred other than minor artillery and infantry attacks.

The Russians continue to retreat in east Prussia and western Poland, but the Russian war ministry describes the movement as simply strategical, since the Russians are retiring to fortified positions in Poland. The object of the campaign seems to be to keep as many German troops engaged in eastern Germany as possible and thus prevent any movement by the Teuton allies to break the deadlock on the western front.

In the interests of humanity, the Electro Steel Company of Pittsburgh has refused to bid on a contract for supplying the British government with $4,000,000 worth of shells.

Great Britain has replied to the American note protesting against detention of neutral ships in a ten thousand word dispatch denying that she is unduly detained ships or that such action is detrimental to American shipping and trade.

Diplomatic exchanges and neutral problems are occupying the major portion of the attention of the world at the present time. Holland and Italy, following the lead of the United States, have made diplomatic representations to Germany, protesting against the sea war zone declared by Germany, and the consequent attack on merchant ships found therein. Norway, Sweden and Denmark are expected to do likewise in a joint note. Great Britain has also been requested not to use the flags of neutral nations on her merchant ships.

Relations between Turkey and Greece are at the breaking point. Turkey offered reparation for the insult to the Greek attache in Constantinople, but he has left, leaving the affairs of the legation in the hands of an under secretary; the Turkish minister is also said to have left Athens.

The German naval board has issued a statement explaining the action of

FLOWERS ALL THE TIME

Interested in Skirts?

We are adding new models almost every day and selling them, too—for nearly every woman needs a new skirt at this season of the year. Quite a number of the new models are of novel design, while a goodly number are of the more conservative styles.

You will note that skirts are fuller this season and in most models, shorter. Tailored effects are good—buttons are liberally used as trimmings—and yoke effects are quite prominent in the showing. We offer you several hundred skirts to choose from and feel sure you will have no difficulty in finding what you want.

Materials include Satin Duchess, Silk Poplins, Wool Crepes, Gaberdines, Black and White Shepherd Checks, Mixtures, novelties, Wool Poplins, Vigereaux, Serges, Rampoor-Chuddah Cloth, etc. Colors are Black, Navy Blue, Gray, Sand, etc. Excellent values at
