that debated the University of Nebraska Sophomores on the woman-suffrage question.

Aaron S. Speier of Lincoln is the representative of the East-Central district. He attended grade school at Crete two years and then the McKinley and Everett schools. He is a member of the Ciceroian Society and the Senior-play cast and is Senior editor of "The Advocate," the school paper. He was a member of Lincoln's League debating team last year also and was on the team that this year won the Amherst cup by defeating Omaha.

Frank Harrington of O'Neill will represent the Northern district. He spent his first and second high-school years at St. Mary's, Kansas, and the with honors this year. She is also a leader in student activities. She was a member of the Alliance team which won the district championship last year.

Leonard Wilson Klein will be the representative from the Southern district, of which Blue Springs is the leader. He has taken all his school work at Blue Springs, making an exceptionally high record as scholar. He will be graduated this year. This is his first year on the debating team.

Rutgers George Van Brunt is the representative of the Beatrice High School and the Southeastern district. Although this is his first year in interscholastic debate, he has had good preparation in the I. F. Debating Club and the regular class work in argumentation. He is president of the Senior class and will graduate this year with scholarship honors.
