SENIOR CAST CHOSEN

He has doubts, and at last in a paroxism of remorse, he sees the wraiths of his two children appear, tolling up the mountain with an urn, containing their mother's tears.

Just then the sunken bell, rung by the dead hand of the mother, breaks in with a knell of his hopes.

Heinrich son learns that he cannot hold the elfin for whom he has forsaken all, and the final scene shows her taken to the water, the bride of the spirit there. By the intervention of a witch she comes back long enough to hold to the lips of the infatuated artist a cup, on draining which he passes away.

Such is the story in outline, of a lesson, sinister, yet stropger than sermon or mighty music, telling of the futility of aspirations that run counter to duty.

"The Sunken Bell" will be given at the Oliver Theatre Friday evening, June 4th, and tickets will be placed on sale at the theatre not later than May 31. In the meantime the members of the Senior class may pay their assessments of two dollars to Mr. Williams, student auditor of activities, and in return secure a card which will entitle them to two of the choice seats. Sufficient reservations will be made to seat those who wish to secure seats in advance, announcement of which will be made within a few days.
