REGISTRATION FIGURES

Four Days of Rush Past—Slight Increase Over That of Last Year

After four days of hard work and worry on the part of both students and faculty, registration has at last been completed. Freshmen as well as upper-classmen are glad that their trials have come to an end. Everyone is glad to have a chance to rest their weary feet before classes begin.

The number of students this year reaches the number of 2,320. This includes the College of Medicine at Omaha. It is an increase of 164 over last year's registration.

Clinton E. Fehlman, who has been in government educational work in the Philippine Islands, is again in Lincoln.

MUSEUM GETS CORD BEDSTEAD

Came from State of Connecticut—Filipino Relics Are Expected in a Short Time.

During the summer the State Historical Society Museum added several relics to their already large collection. One, a cord bedstead of great age, is of more than ordinary interest.

The frame would scarcely make a favorable comparison to the more less portentous ones of today. Instead of a spring cords are strung crossways from side to side. That the people of today would find it difficult to accustom themselves to luxuries of this kind goes without saying. This relic came from Connecticut.

Dr. Gillmore expects a great shipment of Filipino relics in a short time. Some of them are already en route. This will give the museum quite an oriental appearance.

ENGINEERS' PAPER PUBLISHED EARLY

"BLUE PRINT" DISTRIBUTED DURING REGISTRATION WEEK

DEAN STOUT WRITES ARTICLE

Publication has a Very Pleasing Appearance—Fifty Pages of This Magazine Are Devoted to the Interests of Engineers

The first issue of the Nebraska Blue Print for the ensuing year is now being circulated. It follows the general form of previous issues, being of magazine size and containing about fifty pages devoted to the interests of the engineering society and students.

Dean O. V. P. Stout, of the College of Engineering, begins the text matter with some very helpful suggestions to the Freshman Engineer. A number of articles pertaining to various fields of engineering follow, some of them being illustrated. In this section the engineering exhibit at the State Fair is also summarized.

The editorial page bears a request that all engineers do their part in making the Engineering society a real help.

The previous work of the new faculty members of the College of Engineering is mentioned, and 1915 football receives its share of attention.

The pleasing appearance of the publication shows careful work by the staff, made up of the following engineering students: V. C. George, '16, editor-in-chief; I. K. Frost, '16, business manager; H. F. Holtz, '17, assistant business manager; H. F. Nelson, '16, circulation manager; E. W. Kadlecck, '18, assistant circulation manager. The departments are represented by: F. W. Norris, '16, Electrical; R. M. Parkinson, '16, Civil; F. J. Leschinsky, '16, Mechanical, and J. G. Thompson, '15, Agricultural Engineering.

Commercial Clubs Plans 1916 Pageant

The Lincoln Commercial club is going to advertise the 1916 pageant from now on by having the pageant symbol, designed by Professor Alexander, made into a cut to be used on all its stationery.

The pageant next year will treat of the history and traditions of Omaha, "The Gate City," and will lay particular stress on the early Omaha Indian life. The design is made up of a small circle in the center of which is a broad likeness of the capitol building. Surrounding the center is a circle of Indian tepees, and radiating from the interstices are eagle plumes to form a completed circle.

Ford Bates, of Springfield, track, sprinter.

Roy Ankeny, of Seward, track, broad jump.

Almost any man can be made over into a fairly acceptable husband by patching up his digestion, letting out a seam in his pocketbook, taking a tuck in his vanity, smoothing the wrinkles out of his disposition and putting a little passementerie on his manners.

HARVARD PROFESSOR VISITS NEBRASKA

IS A FORMER OMAHA MAN—NOW WITH PEABODY MUSEUM

HERE ON RESEARCH SURVEY

Will Travel in the Countries of Abyssinia and Egypt—A Leader in the Field of Archaeological Explorations

Dr. Fred H. Sterns of Peabody Museum, Harvard University, was in conference with A. E. Sheldon, Secretary of the Nebraska Academy of Sciences, on the publication of a bulletin of the Academy giving results of some of his researches on the Nebraska Ethnological Survey.

Dr. Stearns is an Omaha man, having originally come from that city where he became greatly interested in archaeological work by his association with Mr. Robert H. Gilder. After graduation from Oberlin College, Ohio, he became an assistant in Harvard University, doing archaeological collecting. He has been spending the past summer investigating evidences of prehistoric people in Nebraska and Kansas along the Missouri river, and has made a number of interesting finds.

Upon his return to Harvard, Dr. Sterns expects to prepare for an exploration in Abyssinia. He will first go to Egypt, where he expects to study the Arabic and other native languages. After he has mastered these to some degree, he will proceed to Abyssinia to collect archaeological material. Should, however, the tribal war and the famine which is now raging in that country still continue, Dr. Sterns will remain in Egypt and do research work there instead. Dr. Sterns will be gone a year and his trip will probably prove not only interesting, but also be spiced with Oriental adventures.

Dr. Sterns is a quiet, unassuming man, one whom no one would accuse of being one of the leaders in the field of archaeological explorations. Yet he has already done more in this particular line than any other man in America today.

A. H. Webb of Salina, Kan., a former student at the University and now Senior in the College of Medicine at Omaha, spent Friday in Lincoln.

GLAD TO REACH HOME AGAIN

Professor Virtue Speaks Will of Chicago—Gave Two Courses There This Summer

Professor George O. Virtue, of the Economics department, has just returned from his work in the University of Chicago, where he gave two courses in Economics in the Graduate college.

He expressed a very good opinion of that institution. This summer they had a banner enrollment of 4,400 students. The University seems to be a melting pot for students and teachers from all quarters. He says there is a religious spirit there which gives a character and tone to the campus life which is entirely lacking here. However, Professor Virtue states that he is very glad to be back.
