ORGANIZED FRESHMEN

An effort is being made to make a strong organization out of the Freshman Class. Those in charge of the movement realize that if we are to have a student body with the proper spirit and with the power to do things, we must commence their education along these lines while they are still in the embryonic stage. This theory lies along the plane of the old maxim, "You can't teach an old dog new tricks." While we realize that this saying is not exactly correct in its application to upper classmen, still we do believe that if the working efficiency of the student body is to be raised materially we must start at the bottom.

The problem of raising school spirit standards in Nebraska is one which should receive the serious attention of every Nebraskan. We have been seriously criticised in this regard and we must admit that there are some grounds for it.

School spirit and class "pep" as we see it at a first glance seems to be the waving of pennants, a unison yell and a fight for victory on the athletic field. This is a form of the so-called college patriotism and it is highly necessary and beneficial, but back of this, it seems to us, that there are other forms of the same thing which demand the highest attention. It has been said that it is in these other forms that we are deficient.

For these reasons we wish to place our stamp of approval on the movement to make a better organization out of the Freshman Class. We want to see others join in the campaign and help push the movement through to success. Of course, we realize that the union of the Freshmen will not accomplish everything, but it is a step in the right direction, and the Daily Nebraskan wants to help.

BRIGHT LIGHTS AHEAD

Rushing closed yesterday, and from smiles and hand shakes, we judge that all the fraternities were satisfied. The fact that there was a decided absence of mud-slinging and blackmailing this season appears particularly inspiring to us and gives us the glimmer of a hope that the day is not far distant when rushing, spiking and pledging will be conducted under methods and practices which approach the code of civilization.

There were a few unfortunate instances this year, where we are led to believe that the methods used were not exactly what one might expect from an organization of college bred and highly educated gentlemen, but for the most part the campaign was free from distasteful actions.

OBJECT OF PLEDGE BUTTON

Regardless of what pledge button you wear, you still have your own record and reputation to make at Nebraska. Don't get the erroneous idea that you have acquired the position of a monarch, where you may rest with ease on a throne and allow your fraternity to place the grapes and other fruit at your feet.

When you rub shoulders with your classmates on the campus or in the class rooms, they meet you as man to man, not for the particular badge you may happen to wear. It isn't the fraternity pin that makes you what you are at Nebraska; you stand on your own merits.

We have seen Freshmen step out from the fraternity house, chest expanded, and a new frat decoration on their coat lapel. The world seemed bright and cheery; all the avenues of prosperity and success seemed to be pointed through a funnel in their direction. They were intoxicated with the idea that they had joined a fraternity and the world was theirs. Some of the dear brethren lingered with us for a year and a half and some of them less than two months.

A fraternity pin, if treated properly, is a powerful influence for good in a man, but on the other hand if regarded as the medal of past accomplishments and a guarantee for present and future laurels, it will work a wrong upon the man, from which it will not be easy to recover.

Girls' Club Party

The annual Girls' club party in honor of the Freshman girls will be held in the Temple Saturday afternoon, September 25, at 2:00 o'clock. Everyone is invited and urged to come. The program will consist of a pageant representing girl life at the University. Refreshments will be served.

University Literary Reception

Union Literary Society will hold a reception Friday at 8 o'clock in Union Hall, third floor of the Temple. Everyone is invited, especially first-year students.

HITS BY BILLY SUNDAY

Everybody who knows you says: "If that man is on his way to heaven, I believe I'll take to the woods."

A man who thinks more of his pigs than he does of his wife and babies is the devil's idea of what a husband and father should be.

Holding a dollar within an inch of man's nose will make him stone blind to everything that is good.

You can bring heaven and hell together when you bring whisky and Jesus Christ together.

Their are fellows who have held their hands in their pockets so long they can't get them out in time to put money in the collection basket.

The Lord may have to pile a coffin on your back before He can get you to bend.

The man who is engaged in the business of damning other people's children has nobody to blame but himself if his own are lost.

Being baptized, sprinkled or immersed every ten minutes won't keep you out of hell.

The Scribes and Pharisees who crucified the Lord were the best theologians in the country. On that line they could not only split hairs with anybody, but they could quarter them and then whittle each quarter to a point.

It is a thousand times better to blunder toward God in the worst kind of a way than it is to do nothing at all.

He made a few crackers and sardines enough to feed 5,000 people.
