ORGANIZATION OF FRESHMEN STARTS

BIG RALLY FOR THE ENTIRE CLASS ON TUESDAY

GIRLS WILL MEET IN TEMPLE

Chancellor Avery Will Speak to the Men—Dean Graham Urges that the Girls Also Take Part—Other Features

Next Tuesday is the appointed day for beginning Freshmen organization. After several consultations and arguments the committee in charge has arranged for a big Freshmen Rally at 11 o'clock. The girls will meet in the Temple theatre, and the boys in Memorial hall.

All Freshmen are not only invited to attend these meetings, but are also urged, so that it is almost compulsory. The general purpose of coming together is for the organization of the new men and women. The Olympics and class elections are coming on, and it is highly important that the different members of the class get acquainted with each other.

Prominent Speakers

Chancellor Samuel Avery, Dr. Geo. Condra, Captain Dick Rutherford and a few other Campus "stars" will speak at the mens' meeting. The committee has also prepared a few other features which give promise of making this Rally very entertaining.

The girls' convocation is being arranged and planned by the Black Masque, an organization of Senior girls. Their program will be announced in a later issue.

Politicians Busy

A reporter from the Nebraskan has it straight from the committee of Freshmen that the candidates for the office of president of the class will be on the platform during the Rally to give the voters an opportunity to acquire some first impressions. Not only has the Freshman class of this year increased its numbers, but there also seems to be a super-abundance of political Caesars. With the elections not far distant, great activity in this line is predicted for the next few weeks.

Dean Graham Wants Girls Present

In an interview with Miss Mary Graham, Dean of Women, last night she requested the Nebraskan to urge the girls to be present.

"I am afraid that you will over-emphasize the boy side of it and will not impress sufficiently the importance of this meeting upon the girls. Their organization in class is just as important as the men and we want them all to be at the Temple next Tuesday at 11 o'clock. In fact, if you are not pretty careful we are going to have more girls out than you do boys."

The committee arranging the program for the men has taken this as a challenge and they are going to exert every effort not to be outdone.

Rutherford Wants Green Caps

"I am strong for this movement—to organize the Freshmen, and the sooner we get at it the better. I want to see every one of those Freshmen wearing his green cap. Let's have all those caps out on the Campus."

MRS. RAYMOND GIVES RECITAL

Future Convocations Were Announced—Numerous Folk Songs to Be Presented

Many attended Convocation yesterday, when an organ recital was given by Mrs. Carrie E. Raymond, director of University Chorus work. It is very seldom that Mrs. Raymond consents to furnish the entire program and had it been more widely advertised, the audience would have been much larger.

Announcements were made of future convocations, consisting of furries of interesting musical programs. A new line of work will be taken up in which the symphony concerts of last year give place to a series of overtures, chronologically arranged, leading up to the symphonic poems and finally to the symphony.

The Chorus will also present a number of folk song programs.

Union Society Reception

Union Literary Society will hold a reception Friday at 8 o'clock in Union Hall, third floor of the Temple. Everyone is invited, especially first-year students.

CHORUS REGISTRATION OPEN

Features Extensively in Convocation for the Year—An Opportunity Here Presented

Registration for the Chorus will be left open a short time longer. It has been definitely decided that the University Chorus shall play an important part in the musical convocation programs planned for this year. An extensive study of the folk songs of all nations will be commenced at once and as many programs as possible given.

This is the first time such a course has been offered, and all students interested in music should avail themselves of this opportunity to broaden their musical education. An outline of the programs will be printed in the Nebraskan.

PUNISHMENT FOR ARCHIBALD

Violated the Neutrality Law—Representatives of Foreign Nations Ordered Home

Washington, Sept. 22.—These results were probable from the publication today from London of letters carried by Captain James F. P. Archibald, American correspondent.

1—Punishment of Archibald for alleged violation of neutrality or "conspiracy."

2—Return to Germany of Captain Fritz von Papen, German military attache.

3—Return to Austria of Austrian Consul General Nuber, of New York.

4—Return to Austria of Austrian Consul Schwegel, St. Louis.

5—Investigation and possible action against the editor of a Hungarian newspaper in New York.

6—No action against German Ambassador Bernstorff.

Ambassador Bernstorff's letter of introduction for Archibald stating that Archibald wished "once more to return to Germany and Austria after having promoted our interests here in such a zealous and successful manner," was regarded by officials as evidence of Archibald's violation of neutrality.

BRUNER CHOSEN GREATEST CITIZEN

HEAD OF THE DEPARTMENT OF ENTOMOLOGY PICKED

A FRIEND OF THE FARMERS

He Served the University Twenty-Seven Years—Author of Many Books and Papers on Insects and Birds

Last summer when an especially appointed committee was wrestling with the vexing problem of naming the greatest living Nebraskan, the public gaze was turned once more to the University of Nebraska, for the choice of that committee was none other than our own Prof. Lawrence Bruner, head of the Department of Entomology. Judging from the endless discussions which arise from trying to pick the greatest living statesman, the greatest scientist, or the greatest American, we should say that this was another Gordian knot. But he committee didn't seem to think so. It took only three ballots for the committee to solve this problem. Of course, there were those that thought that our friend, William Jennings Bryan, should have had the honor. For fear of incurring the animosity of either side, we will simply say that Nebraska has an unlimited supply of really great men that can compare favorably with any in Uncle Samuel's dominions.

Prof. Bruner was born at Catasqua, Pa., March 2, 1856. But to be real earnest why not call him a full-fledged Nebraskan, for, having heard of what a wonderful state Nebraska was destined to be, he came here when he was only two months old. He received his collegiate education at the University of Nebraska. In 1880, he was made assistant in the United States Entomological Commission; field agent of the Department of Agriculture in 1888, and from 1890-1900, entomologist of the Nebraska Agricultural Experiment Station. He has now served the University of Nebraska twenty-seven years. In 1897-1898, he was on leave of absence in Argentina, having been called there to stop the grasshopper plague.

Prof. Bruner is unassuming and studious. At the time he was notified by the chairman of the committee as

DIRECTORY OUT SOON

Being Edited by the University Y. M. C. A.—Co-Operation of Students Necessary

The University Directory, composed of students, faculty members, organizations, etc., is being edited as heretofore, by the University Y. M. C. A. The work is well under way, and the edition will be placed on sale Monday, October 11, at the latest.

Fraternities and sororities have been mailed a letter with blanks and return envelopes to make certain of an early and accurate list of their members and pledges.

Co-operation on the part of individual students and organizations is necessary to insure an efficient publication, hence it is hoped that all concerned will comply with the requests for such co-operation made through this paper.

An opportunity will be given next Monday to those who registered late or whose address was incomplete to give us this lacking information. Blank notebooks will be placed on the campus in which these changes may be recorded personally by those concerned.

DEAN FORDYCE IN MINNESOTA

Enjoyed a Fishing Trip on the Lakes—Taught at the University of Kansas

Dean Fordyce enjoyed a two weeks' fishing trip among the Minnesota lakes just previous to the opening of the fall term of school. He refuses to give an estimate of the size or number of fish caught, probably because of the enormity of both.

The first part of the summer he spent teaching in the summer school at the University of Nebraska, going at the close of the session to the University of Kansas, where he gave a course in Educational Measurements throughout the second term of the summer quarter.

their selection for the greatest living Nebraskan, he was faithfully at work in his laboratory. No one appreciates his work more than the farmers, not of this country alone, but of the entire continent. He is the author of "Introduction to the Study of Entomology," "Destructive Locusts of Argentina, 1898," "Locusts of Paraguay, 1906," together with many works and papers on insects and birds.

ABBOTT BACK IN SUIT YESTERDAY

BUT CHAMBERLAIN DID NOT APPEAR; COMES TODAY

BULLDOGS HAVE AMBITIONS

Drake, Like South Dakota, Sees Light—Lively Practice Session on Nebraska Field—Huskers Strong at Wings

Only the Varsity squad held forth on Nebraska field yesterday afternoon. The entire practice time, save for a few preliminary sieges at tackling, was put into signal drill. In the Varsity line, "Mother" Abbott, late returned went through his guard maneuvers in old-time style.

The backfield was minus the presence of Chamberlain, whose appearance was postponed until today. Gardiner filled the right half position throughout the signal drill.

Coach Stiehm is beginning active preparations for receiving the Drake Bulldogs a week from tomorrow. It is a long time since the Cornhusker eleven has succeeded in scheduling a really practice game for opening the season's festivities.

It is the ambition of the valley school to beat Nebraska, and in the case of a small school like Drake, the earlier the game comes in the season, the better the chance to realize their ambition. This season, Coach Griffith seems to stand a better chance of accomplishing this feat that Husker supporters like to admit. With practically all of his old material back, and a wealth of material from the 1914 freshmen—more than a match for the Bulldog regulars last fall—the Drake coach commenced preparations for the reckoning 'way last spring, and has kept it up ever since.

Coach Stiehm spent some time yesterday in trying out new formations which will be the basis of attack during the campaign. With Johnny Cook at quarter, Rutherford and Gardiner at halves, Otoupalik at full, Hablersleben at center, Abbott and Donegan at guards, Shields and Corey at tackles, and Rasmussen and Riddell at ends, the Varsity ran through the formations in creditable style. The shift of Shields to tackle has proven a surprise. The former guard is playing with a skill and pep which he did not show last fall, and he has proven eminently successful at both breaking through on the defense and lugging the ball in the attack.

At the wing positions—whoever may finally occupy them—Nebraska will be stronger than she has been since the days of "Rabbit" Chauner and Lofgren. Chamberlain is the last word at defensive end, while any of the four huskies trying for the places—Riddell, Balis, Rasmussen and Hoadley, are capable of holding their positions against all comers.

Girls' Tennis

Arrangements have been made with Mr. Guy Reed by which girls may use one of the University tennis courts, or two, if no game is in progress. Arrange for hours on the bulletin board in the Armory. Four may play each hour. Plans are being made for a tournament, announcement of which will be made later.
