have a decided educational value. Different environment has served to give them different notions from those held by college students. The falsity or correctness of their views will become apparent when voiced in such an organization as the Open Forum.

As to any unwholesome effects that might come from discussions of the kind contemplated we can only say that college students should have a training and maturity which will enable them to discriminate between the good and the bad, the true and the false.

Wholehearted enthusiasm coupled with proper management should combine to make the Open Forum club a profitable organization.—Ex.

EXCHANGES Freshman Discipline

Freshmen are beginning to be initiated into the rites of the infant clan. Worthy agitation has been started to prevent their making dates for football games.

Freshmen mean well enough in making dates for football games, but the trouble is that they have been feasted and courted for a week and it is only natural that they should begin to consider themselves competent to manage their own social affairs. This of course is an unwarranted assertion as any upperclassman will readily admit. Freshmen need someone to hold them down in the matter of making dates. If it were not for such activity as this anti-date propaganda, freshmen would be making dates for the nightshirt parade. So the fatherly upperclassmen, who never, never take a date to a football game, have to warn their freshmen to lead the simple life.—Ex.

Politics Again

Now cometh your class politician with glad hand extended. He wears a smile reaching from ear to ear and his words are pleasant. Your studies interest him and he too would take them if it wasn't for something else that was required. Your ideas on weather, football prospects, woman's suffrage, preparedness are the same. And as he turns down another street, he hopes that you can give him your vote at the class election.—Ex.

A Good Example

As an example of what ought to be more common on the campus, the north wall of Spooner Library might be cited. Virginia creeper has been run up between the windows and now students entering the campus on Oread Avenue pass not a bleak, ugly wall but one half-hidden with heavy foliage. Such a wall is productive of tradition. It has a touch of mellowness which breaks down the severity so prevalent on our campus and enriches the picture which we carry away of Mount Oread.

Training these creepers over other buildings on the campus is one way we can repair the atrocities which have been committed her in the name of architecture.—Ex.

Getting a Start

It is a serious fact that the reputation a man makes and the standard he sets in the first six weeks of the first year usually serve as an index to his standing in the entire college course. Rumors have been rife that some of the professors in our Alma Mater do not even grade a student's papers nor listen to his recitations, but just go to the office and look up his record for the first six weeks, and give him the average they find there. Of course, that's rot, but the fact remains that if a student does well at first, he usually gets along well in the course, and if he does poorly, his grade on the course is low.

So let's "crack to it."—Ex.

The United States government has undertaken a thorough investigation of the Missouri Pacific wreck at La Platte Friday in which three men were killed and a dozen wounded.

'MOVIES' IN THE CHURCHES

Called Silent Sermons and Have Become Exceedingly Popular in Numerous Sections.

Hundreds of churches throughout the country are now equipped with all the machinery used for giving moving picture shows. The church movie, which has aptly been called the silent sermon, is proving a great success in attracting large congregations.

A great variety of special films have been prepared suitable for such use, and a clergyman in selecting a subject to his taste finds a surprising variety to choose from. There are films suitable for sermons on all the commandments, as well as many of the most familiar texts in the Bible. Several of the firms making a specialty of such films issue regular catalogues to assist clergymen in selecting silent sermons.

In scores of churches the projecting machines are part of the church furniture. The rigid laws laid down by the fire departments apply as well to churches as to theaters and the machines must be set up in fireproof metallic rooms. The electric wiring is arranged so that the sermon may be turned on conveniently in the main church auditorium or the lecture or chapter rooms.

The screens and the rest of the equipment are of the usual standard type. Many of the film houses which supply churches have small theaters or exhibition rooms where a clergyman may have a trial exhibition of a silent sermon before definitely ordering it.

The film sermons are rented out at a regular rate, according to their length and the nature of the production. In producing these silent sermons a regular church service is followed, consisting of the singing of hymns, prayers and reading of the lesson. The films are carefully timed to fit into the place assigned them. Some of the catalogues of silent sermons suggest church services to accompany them, giving the numbers of appropriate hymns and Scriptural lessons.

The Polymuriel Garment.

Some ladies in New York are at work just now hunting for the philosopher's stone. They claim to believe that a "polymuriel" garment in feminine dress can be designed that will suitably clothe every type of figure, every age, for every occasion, every day, from getting up to going to bed, from the period when the girl first comes out of the nursery till she goes to her grave.

The philosopher never found the mythical stone that could turn everything to gold. Clothes problems, like the poor, will be with us always. There are ways and means of eliminating some of the problems, and it is possible to reduce all fractions except the "vulgar fractions" of mathematics to their lowest terms.

But it is a foolish waste of time and energy to hunt for the impossible. And it is impossible to find one style of dress suitable for everybody.

Nobody who is fastidious wishes to wear one costume from early morning till late at night. There is a positive psychological benefit in the bath and change of toilet that separate the working hours of the day from the hours of relaxation. Not even two (or a collection of) "polymuriels" that could be worn alternately would solve our clothes needs. Suitable clothes for street and travel and business are not suitable for indoor wear.—Belle Armstrong Whitney, in Good Health.

Need Fair Notice.

It is said Marconi has invented a device which will enable one to see through a brick wall and detect what is going on within them. We hope the inventor will give fair notice of putting this invention on the market. The poker games will need time to hide in the basements and caves.—Houston Post.

Spanish Language.

The Spanish language is not a difficult one to learn. On the other hand, it is one of the easiest in the world. By steady application, combining conversation with book study, one should be able to get a pretty fair command of the Spanish in a year's time.
