Corporal Had Good Reasons for Declining Elevation Which Most Soldiers Would Welcome.

Some soldier was Corporal A. Lincoln Brown, and he belonged to some regiment, too, for at the time we speak of he was in the Ninth cavalry.

Nobody remembers how it happened now, but there was some mix-up, and there was no money in the treasury for the disposal of the army, and for five solid months soldiers hadn't seen what a dollar bill looked like. The army paymasters were just laying around and waiting for something to happen.

Lieut. Col. John H. Gardner, now retired and recruiting officer for the San Francisco district, was a first lieutenant of the Ninth cavalry at that time. In common with all the officers of his command he was getting along financially during the period of non-payment of troops by borrowing money each month from banks. Lieutenant Gardner was in command of a troop. In common with all the troop commanders he had to loan all his men money regularly so that they could buy tobacco, and pay for their laundry and all that sort of a thing, and one of Gardner's heaviest debtors in the troop was Corporal A. Lincoln Brown.

There was a vacancy in a sergeancy in Gardner's troop. The lieutenant studied over the list of men he had who were fitted to be sergeants and finally he chose Brown as the best of the lot. He had Brown called before him.

"Corporal," he said, "I'm going to give you that vacant sergeancy."

Normally when a corporal in the army is told something like that at least a grin of appreciation can be counted on. Corporal Brown, however, looked frightened first and then gloomy. "Beggin' de troop commander's pardon, sah," he said, "but you ain't got nothin' against me, has you?"

"Why, of course not," replied Lieutenant Gardner. "Why do you ask a fool question like that when I just told you I was going to have you promoted? Don't you want to be promoted?"

"Ah should say not, sah," said Corporal Jones vehemently. "Ah done owes you fo'ty dollars now, sah, when Ah is wearin' two stripes on mah sleeve an' Ah ain't got no show fo' to collect even a corporal's pay, sah. Ah ain't desirous of assumin' de responsibility of tryin' to collect a sergeant's pay, sah. Ah done got all de wo'k toe do Ah can perform now, sah."—San Francisco Chronicle.

Sulphur in New Zealand.

Sulphur deposits are found on White Island, in the Bay of Plenty on the coast of the North Island of New Zealand, about thirty miles from the mainland. This island, which covers about 600 acres, attains a height of 900 feet on one side and opens to the sea on the other. Its topography indicates an old crater, and the boiling lake on the island, which is one of the awe-inspiring sights of New Zealand, is a further evidence of volcanism. After the New Zealand Sulphur company had spent $100,000 in preparation for mining sulphur in this locality, a volcanic disturbance wrecked the camp and killed ten men.

Nitro-Cotton.

Nitro-cotton, that produces such a powerful powder, also produces a beautiful imitation of amber. Claim is made that if one buys a meerscham pipe with an amber piece six inches long at what seems to be an unusually low price, one may rely upon it being collodion—a solution of guncotton in ether. The cloudy effect which some smokers like is produced by a large amount of camphor in the solution. Nitro-cotton also produces a fine substitute for tortoise shell.

The Idea.

"Why do some magistrates make tipsy men look at themselves in a glass?"

"To give them an opportunity for sober reflection."

His Views.

"Would you like some views of the hotel to send to your friends?"
 "Sir," said the disgruntled guest, "I presume it will be better for me to keep my views to myself."

Start Y. M. C. A. Subscription

Seventy men met at the Temple, Saturday morning, for breakfast before starting the annual Y. M. C. A. subscription campaign to raise $1,500 for the support of the University Y. M. C. A.

Each man had a list of twelve university men to canvass and all started out with lots of "pep" enthusiastic for the campaign. Some of the men have reported and indications are that the subscriptions will run higher than ever before.

Mrs. I. J. Montgomery was a visitor at the Alpha Phi house Saturday.

The following were guests at the Kappa Alpha Theta house the last of this week: Mrs. C. D. Hanston, of Tekamah; the Misses Florence and Alice Miller and Miss Margaret Dodge of Fremont; Miss Elizabeth Beecher of Hastings, and Ruth Bundenbaugh, '15, of South Sioux City.
