SECRET PRACTICE THIS WEEK

HOOSIERS CAN TAKE HUSKERS'
MEASURE BELIEVED

YESTERDAYS PRACTICE SLOW

Huskers Lack Punch—Speed May be
Mainstay Against Notre Dame—
Ragged Playing Prominent in Yesterday's Practice

"Jumbo" Stiehm wore a wrinkle in his forehead yesterday afternoon which no amount of work on the part of the Huskers could smoothen out.

That's why he is going to have secret practice all this week.

That wrinkle stood for a great big doubt in the tall Teuton's mind as to whether the Husker machine would be able to handle the Catholics next Saturday afternoon.

In yesterday's practice which was given over to signal drill the Huskers showed very conclusively that they lacked the punch and smoothness which mid-season playing must have in order to buck up against such a proposition as the Huskers have to face next Saturday.

The playing was slow and ragged, a great deal of muffing and incomplete forward passing was going on and even the regular plays were badly mixed at times.

Against a team like the Notre Dame boys who average from six to ten pounds more than the Huskers the straight line plunging may prove of small avail. If the heavy Catholic line holds, the Huskers will have to make up in speed what they lack in weight. This necessary speed didn't show itself in yesterday's practice and "Jumbo" Stiehm is working like a Dutchman behind closed gates this week trying to bring the Huskers into trim to lick the easterners when they arrive.

The mighty guide may have something up his sleeve which he is preparing to pull on the Hoosiers but if he has, it will stay there until he can make practical use of it. Stiehm never says much but from what can be guessed by the look in his eye, the Notre Dame huskies are going to be a pretty rough hill for the Nebraska "Stiehm" roller to level down.

Lineman Shaw Gone

On the eve of the first big football battle of the year the Cornhuskers find themselves without the services of one of their trusted linemen, E. A. Shaw, who has been playing right tackle, probably will not participate in the remaining games of the Nebraska schedule because of the death of his father, who was killed in the Union Pacific wreck of last Saturday.

Shaw is a sophomore and has been playing a brilliant game, the coaches having put him in as a regular while Paul Shields was shifted to a guard. The loss of Shaw probably means that Shields will go back to tackle, leaving it to four or five men to fight for the open place. Kositzky, Donnegan, Ballis and Dale are likely candidates for the place. Ballis is an experienced man and only lack of beef keeps him out of the regular lineup. Dale is a man of wonderful physique but lacks experience. Donnegan is another heavy man without the training. Kositzky is not exceptionally heavy but should put up a good fight for the job.

ARTICLE IN DEMAND

Request Received From the University of Cairo—Dr. England of School of Commerce the Author

The Quarterly Journal of Economics issued last August contained an article entitled "Promotion as the Cause of Crisis," by Dr. Minnie Throop England of the School of Commerce. A summary of the article appeared in Moody's Magazine for October, and requests for copies have recently been made by several foreign universities including the University of Cairo, Egypt. Dr. England has written a number of papers on this subject and is a recognized authority.

SOME EUROPEAN WAR NEWS

Full Development of Great Balkan
Struggle May Result in Shortening Conflict

New York.—The blackest week Great Britain has faced since the beginning of the war is causing the circulation of rumors in Berlin that tentative peace proposals are under consideration. These reports are denied in London, where a belief is expressed in high financial circles that Germany will soon be suing for peace because of the danger of a monetary collapse.

Though it is impossible to say what basis there may be for renewed peace talk, nevertheless the entrance of Bulgaria into the war and the opening of the Teutons' Balkan campaign are unquestionably factors which may well shorten the war. A profound and fundamental change has been caused by the Balkan developments in Great Britain's relationship toward the war and toward her allies. As long as the neutrality of the Balkan states prevented a German advance into Turkey, Great Britain's imperial possessions were secure and the British government could adopt an unalterable attitude toward peace desires that might arise in Paris, Perograd or Rome.

Not infrequently it has been asserted in England that even though the other members of the quadruple entente withdrew from the conflict, Great Britain would continue to fight alone until the Teutonic powers had surrendered unconditionally. While the British fleet prevented Germany from dispatching an overseas expedition to strike at the British empire and while the Balkans' barrier blocked an overland blow at Egypt, Mesopotamia, southern Persia and India Great Brit-

FINE ARTS AT CONVOCATION

Third One of "Know the University
Series" Will be Held in Library
Dr. Fling the Speaker

The third of the "Know the University" convocations will be held today in Art Hall, in the Library building, where Dr. F. M. Fling will speak on "Cultural Improvements."

Most of the students know the library as a place of reference books and study tables. Dr. Fling will make them acquainted with the Fine Arts Departments.

Seats go Quickly

The sale of seats for the Notre Dame game Saturday has exceeded all expectations and all records of Nebraska. The reserved seats put on sale yesterday were sold out before 5 o'clock but another allotment went on sale this morning. Evidently standing room will be valuable. The general admission is a student ticket or $1.50 which admits to the west-end stands unless the demand is too great. The more desirable seats are fifty cents or a dollar extra. Those who were unable to get their reserved seats yesterday should secure them early today.

Williams Vesper Speaker

Prof. T. F. A. Williams of the Sociology Department will speak on the social problems of Lincoln at the Y. W. C. A. Vesper service today. Mrs. Williams has been connected for several years with the school board and with social work here.

ain might well consider herself able to fight alone. Under these conditions the British empire could continue the war more economically by itself than in company.

But, no longer is the British empire outside the area of possible Teutonic aggression. If Great Britain alone among the allies were left in the war, the Austro-Germans could concentrate all their strength and drive through the Balkans into Turkey. Thereafter a vital blow might be struck at the British empire by land. For this reason, Great Britain henceforth must rely on her allies far more than previously. This fact will tend to equalize the influence of each member of the quadruple entente when the question of peace comes up for discussion. Whenever France, Russia and Italy want peace, it would be very dangerous for the British empire to hold out alone.

DELEGATES RETURN

C. T. Spier and E. S. Young Have
Been East to the Delta Upsilon
Convention

Clarence T. Spier, '16, and Earl S. Young, '16, returned Monday from New York where they attended the eighty-first convention of the Delta Upsilon fraternity, at Ithaca.

During their trip of two weeks they stopped at Buffalo, Niagara, New York, Philadelphia, and Washington. They saw the last game of the world series and also some eastern football games—Cornell vs. Williams and Chicago vs. Indiana. Indiana used the new "deaf and dumb" signals. The boys are confident that the Cornhuskers could beat Chicago easily.

ENGRAVING IS TO BE LESS

Individual Pictures for the Cornhusker Reduced One-Third—
Other Special Rates

Owing to an exceptionally favorable contract with the engravers, the business management of the 1916 Cornhusker has been able to reduce the engraving charge on the Senior and Junior individual pictures from the $1.50 which it has formerly been, to $1.00.

This is considerably more than is saved on the engraving but the management feels that the "total Cornhusker cost" to the upper classmen particularly has been too high. Their purpose therefore is to make reductions wherever possible.

This will make the entire cost of one dozen pictures, the engraving, and its insertion in the Annual, but $2.50, which is fifty cents less than the cost of the dozen pictures alone would be were it not for the special Cornhusker rate which is obtained from Mr. Alva Townsend, photographer.

Arrangement has also been made with Mr. Townsend whereby any one who has their sitting between now and Thanksgiving will be guaranteed the pictures in plenty of time for Christmas. Owing to the holiday rush and the special rate which has been made on this work, he is unable to guarantee Christmas delivery for sittings taken after Thanksgiving.

This same arrangement also holds for the individual sorority pictures. Thus, all Seniors, Juniors, and sororities may go for their sitting within the next few weeks, obtain this exceptionally low rate, and have them to use for Christmas.

DIRECTORY TO BE OUT THURSDAY

ISSUED UNDER THE DIRECTION OF Y. M. C. A.

CAN BE BOUGHT ON CAMPUS

The Work is Bigger and Better Than Before—Contains Everything of Interest to the Student—
Price Twenty Cents

Students will find many of their wants supplied and many of their questions answered with the 1915-1916 issue of the University Directory, which is to be on sale on the Campus Thursday morning at 8:00 o'clock.

The University Directory has been issued under the direction of the Y. M. C. A. for the past several years. It needs no introduction to the older students, but to the new students a word regarding its contents should be of help.

City and Farm Campus telephone numbers are given. Fraternity and sorority telephone numbers with addresses are given. The names of the officers of the different student organizations are given where possible. A list of the faculty members are given. The student body with address, phone numbers, sorority or fraternity affiliation, are given. The work in this respect was to some extent handicapped by incomplete addresses and the changing of addresses, but this has been minimized so far as possible. The directory also contains a list of names of students registering in the Temple High School. In addition to the information given in the directory last year, a portion of the book is given over to the Dental College students. An attempt was also made to group the students by towns, as shown by their registration cards. The editors were under the impression that this might be of some assistance to the students. The sororities and fraternities are given a representation in the book with a complete list of members and pledges.

The editors are indebted to several suggestions by different students which if incorporated in the work would be of great value, but these suggestions were received too late to be used this year. The suggestions will be kept on file together with any new ones that may come up, and it is quite possible that if the sales of the book are up to expectations next Thursday, that more changes and improvements will be made next year.

The price of the book this year will be twenty cents, with a limited number of leather copies at a higher price. An increase over last year's price has been necessary in order to meet expenses as a great deal more work has been done this year than last.

Economic Seminar Met

The Economics Seminar met last Friday at 5 o'clock with a large attendance when Prof. J. E. LeRossignol lectured on "Causes of the War." "Economics of the War," is the subject for the semester. The student members and members of the faculty will give papers on the different phases.

Betha Ehlers, '15, is teaching at her home in Scribner.
