KANSAS SHOWING VERY GOOD FORM

HUSKERS WILL HAVE HARD BATTLE WITH JAYHAWKERS

STIEHM BOLSTERS UP LINE

Nebraska Wesleyan Next Saturday—Huskers Working Into Shape for Kansas—Hard Scrimmage Work Yesterday

The Huskers met at the M street park yesterday afternoon, where they tore each other's scalplocks for a couple of hours and dirtied up their pants a good deal.

The second team men pitted their strength against that of the regulars and held them down in real gridiron style, each side scoring three touchdowns.

Since the Huskers have suppressed the roar of the ambitious Ames Aggies, they are free to turn their attention to the coming scrap with the Jayhawk.

The Kansas that was a child in the matured hands of the Huskers last year has grown and developed with the passage of time until fans from the Jayhawk state are beginning to hope that they have something that will check the advance of the invincible Huskers.

With a team doing 20 per cent better work than last year and a line heavy enough to prevent any big gains on straight line plunges on the Huskers' part, Kansas will probably be able to worry the Nebraska machine some.

The Huskers showed too much confidence and not enough hard work in the game with Ames and any such recklessness when they meet up with the Jayhawkers might prove fatal. Stiehm is working on the line this week and giving his men a chance to heal up between now a week from Saturday.

Next Saturday, Nebraska Wesleyan will come down and try to score on the "Stiehm" roller.

Miss Essie Jones, '16, of Minden, is assistant at the Farm.

ACCIDENTALLY ELECTROCUTED

George Hartsough, University Graduate Meets with Fatal Accident in South America

George Hartsough, a former resident of Minden, a graduate of the University of Nebraska and regarded as an engineer of exceptional promise, was accidentally electrocuted ten days ago in South America. Details have not been received in Nebraska, save that the accident occurred while Mr. Hartsough was at work as an electrical engineer.

Word was forwarded to Minden by the young man's recently wedded wife, who was formerly Miss Mona Clearman, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Clearman, prominent merchant of Minden. The mother, Mrs. George Hartsough, resides at Minden. A sister, Mrs. Roscoe Plater of Bertrand, is the only other surviving member of the family. Mrs. B. F. Reynolds of Hastings is an aunt.

VEREIN HOLDS INITIATION

Meeting Held at Home of Prof. Fossler—Club Affords Opportunity for German Conversation

Der Deutsche Geselligs Verein held a meeting last Thursday at 8 o'clock at the home of Prof. Laurence Fossler. Prof. J. E. A. Alexis was in charge of the initiation of the new members which took place that night. Afterwards refreshments were served and Prof. Fossler spoke.

The purpose of the club is to furnish an opportunity for German conversation and to bring its members into closer relationship. The Verein has at present 27 members. The membership is limited to 30 members, who are recommended by some of the faculty and who must be doing good work in the higher German classes. At the meetings, business carried on entirely in German, after which, a program is always given. As a rule the meetings are held at the homes of the different members.

At the first meeting the following officers were elected:

Gerhard Naber, '17, president.
Nannie Samuelson, '16, vice president.
Ida G. Wilson, '16, secretary.
Caryl Spaulding, '16, treasurer.

NEXT AWGWAN WEDNESDAY

Home-Coming Number Has Many Special Features—Issue to Cost Management More than Usual

That the "home-coming" number of the Awgwan will be out Wednesday is the latest word from the Awgwan office. Owing to special work by the artists and an unusual effort to have a good issue in honor of the "home-coming" game it will be a few days late.

The last number was one of blood and battle and contained many gruesome pictures, but this one will counterbalance any bad effects caused by the "war" issue. It will contain a large number of interesting features in keeping with the "home-coming" event, which will cost the management twice as much as usual.

Contributor to Corpus Juris

Judge C. S. Lobingier, who lectured before the law students last week, is the contributor of the Spanish words and phrases in the Corpus Juris.

Young Hartsough was sent to Peru, South America last August by the Cerio De Pasco Mining company. He was considered one of the most efficient employes of that concern. He was educated in the Minden schools, graduating from the high school of that city. He graduated from the electrical engineering department of the state university. About a year ago he married his boyhood sweetheart, Miss Mona Clearman, who is also a graduate of the University of Nebraska. Both were prominent in university circles while attending school in Lincoln.

The body will be taken to Minden for burial, and according to advices received at that place the funeral party will not arrive until about November 20. A report from Minden last night said that Mrs. Hartsough, mother of the young man, and Miss Hartsough, will meet the widow in the Panama canal zone and will return with her and the remains of her husband.

DR. WARD SPOKE IN MUSIC HALL

"CHALLENGE OF SOCIALISM TO CHRISTIANITY," HIS SUBJECT

SPEAKS CONVOCATION TODAY

Christianity and Socialism Have Same Aim but Different Methods—The Government Must Serve the Masses

CONVOCATION
Today at 11 A. M.
DR. HARRY F. WARD
—on—
"The Challenge of Labor to Culture"
Memorial Hall

"It is time the government became the positive instrument of common good. It is high time we did take hold of our industrial system and make it accord with our ideals and not bow down to it," declared Harry F. Ward, secretary of the Social Service Federation of the Methodist church, in a public address last night in Music hall, Temple, on the subject of "The Challenge of Socialism to Christianity."

Politically, socialism was pictured as a movement for organization where the individual loses his identity in the mass; Christianity, on the other hand, was pictured as a movement for the development of the individual. In their purposes both socialism and

Christianity are in accord but they differ in the method by which they seek to accomplish their common purpose, namely, the safe-guarding of the rights of the individual. No one doubts that when a small group of people put their hands upon the necessities of life and secure an exclusive monopoly but that the individual begins at once to lose his rights. Socialism desires to increase collective ownership in order to free the community. Unless Christianity will set

Vesper Service Today

The vesper service today at 5 o'clock in the Y. W. C. A. rooms will consist of a talk by Miss Oolooah Burner on "Life Investments," and a song by Mrs. Evangeline Long-Pope. Dean Mary Graham will preside. Every girl who heard Miss Burner Sunday afternoon realizes that it is a privilege not to be overlooked.

From the Nebraska State Journal:

When a young man is arrested for speeding one of the first things he worries about is how to keep "dad" from hearing about it. He knows that if the stories reach the parental ears the auto probably will stay in the garage for some time to come. Last week a Lincoln boy solved the difficulty. Being a senior in the university, he was able to dictate terms to a Freshman in his fraternity. Accordingly the first year man's name went on the register in place of the other. The Freshman could do nothing but give his consent. Anyway, the Senior told him, his father lived hundreds of miles away and would never see the story in the papers. The next morning the senior appeared, paid his fine, and went away happy. And father is none the wiser.

"GHOSTS," A FAMILY DRAMA

Over Half the Seats in the House Had Been Sold Monday Evening—On Sale at College Book Store

It was December, 1881. Ibsen had completed what many considered to be his greatest play. The press without exception hurled bitter epithets upon the work of the great Danish poet. Ibsen had dared to stand alone. He had a new idea, and because he dared to push forward this idea he became famous.

The world said Ibsen was daring, preposterous, outrageous, anything to heap "coals of fire on his head." Ibsen, himself, said, "It may well be that the play is in several respects rather daring. But it seemed to me that the time had come for moving some of the boundary posts. And this was an undertaking for which a man of the older generation, like myself, was better fitted than many younger authors who might desire to do something of the kind. I was prepared for a storm, but such storms one must not shrink from encountering. That would be cowardice."

When the storm began to clear, the world realized that a new idea had been expressed by the wonderfully imagery of the artist. With a sureness of touch born of years of experience, he portrayed five wonderful characters. They deal not so much with the vague ideal as the intense real. Seizing upon the great and delicate problem of the sacred insolubility of the marriage bond, he paints a rare picture of the results of unfaithfulness and the awfulness of "the sins of the fathers."

On Wednesday night, "Ghosts" is to be presented again at the Temple. In reviewing the play last Friday, Prof. Verner of Wesleyan said: "Every man and woman in Lincoln should see this tremendous play." So firmly does he believe this that he secured pledges from nearly 100 of his students to come and see it. Over half the seats in the house had been sold Monday evening. There are still many choice seats, which may be obtained at the College Book Store.

THE CORNHUSKER PICTURES

Management Urges that All Juniors and Seniors Have Pictures Taken Before Thanksgiving

Every Junior and Senior should make a special effort to have their Cornhusker pictures taken within the next few weeks.

Mr. Townsend has guaranteed that he will deliver any pictures taken by Thanksgiving before Christmas and has made a special Cornhusker rate of $1.50 per dozen for plain card mounts. The engraving charge is only $1 this year, so that the total cost of the dozen pictures and the insertion of your picture in the Cornhusker will be $2.50.

In order to maintain uniformity in the book, only pictures of the same size and tone will be accepted, and placed in their proper places in the class sections. For this reason it is highly desirable that everyone go to Mr. Townsend for their pictures.
