Even though there were numerous functions on the University schedule for the evening of the Iowa game the "mixer" was a real success. Have you ever seen one that was not a success? The alumni have been heard to remark that they had only one regret in regard to the mixer question—and that is, that they had nothing like it in their day.

There is no man the rally crowd is more anxious to see and hear than Coach Stiehm. Who was the diplomat who induced the "Monarch" to appear?

The University cadets will now spend a part of the school year in learning, theoretically, how to play the game. Really now, is war not a big game?

The congestion at the "all University" function bears out the argument of the Awgwan and also makes clear why the University Commercial Club is "looking into" the "Union House" question. It is self-evident that the University needs nothing more than it does a building in which there is a room more than large enough to entertain a mixer crowd such as we have at our mixers. Now that we are enlarging our campus and arranging for new buildings, why not put this all essential necessity in the lime light?

The team must be given a clean slate for the 1915 football season.

FOOTBALL'S GRAND OLD MAN.

Jack Best, Aged Trainer of the Cornhuskers, in interesting interview.

"I could tell you nothing about myself, except that I have a bad cold," modestly beamed Jack Best, the 71-year-old trainer of the Nebraska football team, as he was cornered by a Daily Nebraskan reporter in the "gym."

"Yes, I have been here since '89, and this is the twenty-sixth team that I have attended to. Do I think that the team this year is the best we have ever had? Well, in some respects. We have an awfully good team this year, as good as any in the country, but I believe that it is not the first time.

What do I think Nebraska could do against Harvard or Cornell? Well, I think that we could give them an almighty hard rub, alright. Oh, of course, we will clean up everybody whom we will play down on the coast, if we go. You see—" here the old trainer stopped to examine an ankle that would not behave itself.

The ankle was disposed of satisfactorily, and he turned around to continue the conversation. "I really don't see what else I can tell you. I should think that you newspaper people should know all about me by this time instead of coming down here to interview me every other day." He grinned happily. "You fellows are not going to write my biography, are you?"

What do I think of the game next Saturday. Well, you don't want to be too sure of anything like that. We might beat them, and again we might not.

"Oh, yes; Nebraska always ranks high in football, although they did not use to have such good equipment as they have now. I remember when I trained the first football team that they played in overalls and undershirts. Many more men go out for football, too, nowadays than they did in those times. Yes, I intend to stay with the team as long as I can.

"In the spring, I train the smaller fry, as, for instance, the basketball players, wrestlers, and track team. I intend to be right on the dot next year again. Oh, I am only 71 now, and I would be a pretty good man if it wasn't for my back. You see, I hurt it falling down the steps about fifteen years ago. Then, too, I am bothered a bit by rheumatism.

"Oh, no, I could not think of going to the rally tomorrow. No, no, nothing doing! They'd be sure to call on me to make a speech, and I—er—nothing stirring! Nix on that! That time when we beat Minnesota they hauled me out and carried me all over, and I had to speak. Besides, I have an awful cold. I know you can hardly hear me now. B-r-r-r-r; no speech for me," and Jack made a ludicrously sacred face.

"I believe that the reason we have such a good team is because the men all stick together so. That is the first requirement of a championship team. We have a fine equipment, but what we need badly is a training table." Here he was interrupted by another player whose foot was in need of the experienced and deft hand that had for a quarter of a century performed just that task.

"As I have said, we have a great team. But I think that we ought to have better support. We have won so much that the students take it as a matter of course and neglect to give us their best support and boosting. But I tell you there is nothing that I love so well as to hear "The Scarlet and the Cream." It sends the blood rushing through my veins when I hear that song, and I feel younger, stronger and happier." And the gray-haired old trainer stood up and waived his hand. He forgot his rheumatism and the old fire came back to his eyes.

"Are you going?" he asked as he settled back in his chair. "Will you go by Guy Reed's office? Yes? Well, will you drop in and ask him to send me some tape? Yes? One inch and one inch and a half. Got that? All right, thanks very much, and drop in again some time. Good-bye."—John Cz.
