NEBRASKA STARS ON ALL-WESTERN

both find places on the first teams in the majority of selections. Corey, Shaw and Moser are also given recognition.

"Official" All-Western Later

The "official" All-Western team is yet to come. It is selected by E. C. Patterson and will appear shortly in Collier's Weekly. Next to Patterson's selection, Eckersall's is generally recognized as official. On the Tribune critic's eleven, Chamberlain is the only Nebraskan awarded a position on the first team, while Rutherford and Abbott are placed on the second eleven.

Following are the all-Western line-ups announced by four Chicago newspapers Sunday:

KANSAS PLANNING REVENGE

Making Preparations to Retrieve Football Defeat by Double Victory in Debate

Kansas is planning to retrieve her downfall on the gridiron by taking both ends of the debate between the two universities December 10th. Deprived of the sweet fruits of victory when the Cornhusker football team invaded Lawrence, they have become all the more determined to out-argue their ancient rivals in the first meeting since 1904.

The two Nebraska teams, under the coaching of Prof. M. M. Fogg, are at the point of perfecting two arguments said to be destined to maintain Nebraska's prestige on the rostrum as well as the gridiron. The negative squad, composed of Charles E. Schofield, '17, Lincoln; Guy C. Chambers, Law, '16, Sidney; Harold J. Schwab, '16, Law '18, McCook, and Robert B. Waring, Law '17, Geneva, feel confident that they have lined up an array of logic that even the foremost foe of preparedness, Mr. Bryan, could listen to with advantage.

The affirmative team, made up of Samuel C. Zimmerman, Law '16, Lincoln; Everett C. Carr, Law '17, Beaver City; Axel R. Swenson, '17, Oakland, and Joseph L. Polk, Law '16, Louisville, have fortified themselves with a miniature "armament" which is promised to sweep away the pleadings of their opponents.

Tickets for the debate here—Friday night, December 10, in the Temple—will be placed on sale December 1 at Porter's and at the Temple. A reduction of admission price has been made by the business management to 35 and 25 cents.
