Adams County Farmers Must Increase Dairy Facilities.

Hastings.—An investigation on the part of the chamber of commerce of conditions looking forward to the establishment of a milk condensory here developed the fact that Adams county cows are barely producing enough milk to supply home consumption. Unless farmers of surrounding territory can be induced to invest in at least 1,000 cows the project will be dropped.

Selecting Next Year's Seed Corn.

West Point.—Cornhusking is about finished throughout this section of the state. Very little new corn is being marketed, what is being sold being disposed of solely for feeding purposes to local feeders. The old corn now on hand is being held by the farmers very carefully, much of it being picked over and seed corn for next year selected. Numbers of renters are finding difficulty in raising their rent money from the proceeds of the corn crop for this year, and are depending largely on the oats and wheat raised to enable them to meet their obligations on January 1.

Drainage Ditch for Richardson.

Stella.—Plans are being completed for the forming of a drainage district in Richardson county with a view to straightening the channel of Muddy creek, and preventing its overflow on to surrounding farm lands. A ditch has been completed in Nemaha county as far as the Richardson line and those interested in the project propose to continue this ditch for the protection of their farms.

To Regulate Barber Shops.

Lincoln.—In spite of a written protest to the commission by fifteen barber shop proprietors, the city council has passed the "barber shop" ordinance providing for the sanitary regulation of Lincoln shops. The ordinance was passed without a word of debate, all the commissioners voting in its favor.

Bold Holdup on Highway.

Scottsbluff.—A bold holdup was staged in a public highway between Morrill and Henry, in the west part of the county, when a man stopped a woman on a well traveled highway, robbed her and disappeared. The woman had drawn some money from the bank and was returning to her home.

New Church to Be Built.

Beatrice.—Having secured subscriptions aggregating $35,000 for the erection of a new church edifice, the building committee of the German Lutheran church of Hanover township will ask for bids at once. It is planned to begin active work on the building next spring.

Fire Damages Church.

Lexington.—The boiler room in the Methodist Episcopal church here was considerably damaged, when a pile of kindling near the furnace caught fire and was blazing merrily before discovered. The fire was extinguished before any other part of the church was damaged.

Used Telephone in Revival.

Hastings.—"General alarms" were sounded over 400 miles of Adams county telephone wires through central operators, who called more than 1,000 subscribers on party lines, urging them to attend the great religious revival now sweeping the city and community.
