Entered at the postoffice at Lincoln, Nebraska, as second-class mail matter, under the act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

TUESDAY, JANUARY 11, 1916

Coach Stiehm is now the representative of a neighboring school and we wish him well. Even though he had difficulties previous to his resignation, we must all remember that football was placed in the limelight at Nebraska greatly through the efforts of the man who is now connected with another school.

Mr. Stewart is a new man and will have new men to work with but from his past record we can indeed feel that he will keep Nebraska on the football map or even make her a brighter star in the football heavens. Due to the fact that Mr. Stewart has played, has been a captain, and has coached in a successful manner, prominent teams, we may feel that he is a man competent to step into the position vacated by his predecessor.

"Dick" Rutherford will be with Nebraska as an all year man and the students are pleased because of his release by Indiana. He knows the methods used so successfully during the past few years and these methods together with those to be proposed by Mr. Stewart should make an eleven of winners next year.

Given an opportunity, such as is offered the students of the University of Nebraska for seeing works of art, few cultured people would miss it. Will you?

REPORTER GETS NEWS EARLY

detailed news of the trip, human interest stories, speeches, details, what they call 'mail stuff.' Here were some of the biggest journalists in America detailed to get it and waiting to get to Christiana to mail it, knowing they would all start on the same boat. And here was a fellow leaving for New York in an hour on a fast boat with all this news and the pictures to prove it. Four movie men and forty-two journalists were sold out and their stuff practically worthless. For the ship their stuff sails on will be held at Kirkwall and when it gets to New York Bierman will have been there at least ten days. Were the newspaper men mad? Say, they buzzed around. It tickled us to death because the newspaper men, partly because they had no delegates on the ship of sufficient importance to overawe them, had adopted a high and mighty critical attitude and it tickled us to see them get left.

A Big Scoop

"They admitted it was the biggest scoop in newspaper history save alone that occasion when the New York World met Roosevelt in Egypt and chartering a liner beat all other New York papers three days with his African trip. But they are a keen bunch and a ray of hope came to them when by some accident the Stockholm was delayed an hour, the 'gate' closed and they were tied up until dawn. They raced around trying to get out of the difficulty. They soon found out how he had turned the trick, but the lieutenant had left us permanently and the captain was ashore. They fumed and paced the deck and waited till the captain returned. When he did, it was with the order from the harbor-master that no craft could move at night. This not only prevented him, but also from getting their stuff on the same boat, so their last hope was gone, and they cursed like fiends, while the rest of us laughed."
