At Last! The Outline of the Single Tax

On the front page of this issue is an outline of the proposed Single Tax and an attempted explanation of each part. This is not the work of any one person, but the result of the deliberations of the Innocents society, together with the representatives of each of the concerned activities. It is the result of what they have learned in their various departments.

We will not submit any argument on the proposition today. We merely ask that you study the plan carefully. Cut it out of the paper and carry it with you. Become familiar with it, so that when it is discussed, either orally or in writing, you will understand what is being said.

Beginning tomorrow, all the possible reasons why this plan should be adopted will be published. We ask all those who have ideas on the matter to write them for the Forum. We do not intend to limit the discussion in the paper to any one side. The recent Forum letters opposing the Tax will be taken up, as will any more that may come in. But remember, nothing can be published unless we know who the author is.

There will be no attempt to rush this matter through without a hearing. All will be given a chance to be heard. But this does not imply that the argument will be continued indefinitely. One week should permit the most thorough discussion possible.

Consequently, some time next week, petitions requesting the regents to adopt this measure will be circulated on all parts of the campus. All students will be asked to sign. After these have been circulated, the students will have done all in their power, and the matter will rest in the hands of the men higher up.

Watch the progress of the discussion carefully. When the petition is presented to you, be prepared to act according to what you deem to be the best interests of Nebraska.

UNIVERSITY NOTICES

The senior class will hold a meeting tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock in Law 102.

The Home Economics club will meet at 7:30 o'clock this evening at 1210 O street. The program will consist of talks concerning "baby week."

Chorus rehearsal today at 5 o'clock in Art hall.

Don't forget about the articles that go on sale March 2, 3 and 4 at all the leading stores of the city. Friday morning all kinds of clothing and supplies will be put on the counters for the general public to buy and leave for the Belgians. Get busy and help a little in the great work that is being done by the Commission for Relief in Belgium.

The Student Should Know—

THE STUDENT ACTIVITIES OFFICE

Do you know where the Student Activities office is?

It is in the basement of the Administration building, with an entrance at the southwest corner?

Do you know what the Student Activities office is?

It is the student headquarters for campus activities. The business managers of The Daily Nebraskan, the Cornhusker and the Awgwan, along with the university employment bureau, are to be found here.

The books for the cafeteria, the athletic board and all student organizations and publications are kept here, open to inspection at any time, by any officer of the organization or activity.

The office is in charge of T. A. Williams, Agent of Student Activities, and under his care it has grown rapidly since its establishment in September, 1914.

Perplexed students will find Mr. Williams ready at all times to give information, advice and counsel, and to aid them in the administration and execution of their official duties.

SOUTH AMERICA VIEWS U. S. WITH SUSPICION

So Declares Professor Persinger to World Outlook Seminar

Professor Persinger gave his illustrated lecture on South America last night in the Y. M. C. A. room in the Temple to an interested audience. The talk was fully illustrated with slides made by Professor Persinger.

The time was divided between Brazil, Argentina, Chile and Peru. In speaking of the relations of the South American states and the United States Professor Persinger declared that with the exception of a very few of the upper class, the great body of South Americans held all actions of the United States in suspicion. All the leading newspapers of the southern continent, almost without exception, view the encroachment of North American interests with hostility.

The class distinctions between the mass of poor Indians and the Spanish upper class was strikingly shown by word and picture. Squalor and expensive luxury are the two extremes in wealth.

In discussing commercial relations, the speaker declared that the English and Germans control the bulk of the banking and shipping interests, with the United States more in evidence in industries connected with the development of electricity and water works.

In all the discussion, Professor Persinger kept in view the relations of the South Americans to each other and to the United States.

ROSCOE POUND MADE HARVARD LAW DEAN

sulted in Professor Pound accepting the dean's chair when it was offered the third time.

The new Harvard dean has made a brilliant record as a scholar. In Nebraska he took but one year of law, all the rest he secured by outside study. Roscoe Pound was and is a keen student of botany; he was assistant to the late Dean Bessey in this science, and helped write a book on Nebraska botany that took high rank in the scientific world. Dean Pound is one of the hundred best botanists in this country.

He has been at the Harvard school since 1910, being successively Story professor of law, Carter professor of jurisprudence, and now dean. Dean Pound is another of Dr. Louise Pound of the university faculty.

There will be a joint meeting of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. cabinets tonight at 7:15 o'clock in the Y. W. C. A. room of the Temple.
