ENTHUSIASTIC ABOUT FRIDAY IN OMAHA

NOT LESS THAN 1,000 WILL GO, DECLARES PARRISH

Omaha Preparing a Reception That Will Win the Hearts of the University Students

After E. V. Parrish, manager of the Omaha Commercial club, had consulted department heads of the university yesterday and learned the plans they had for the Omaha trip and the number of students who expected to go, he confidently expressed the opinion that not less than 1,000 would be entertained in the metropolis on Friday. Mr. Parrish is enthusiastic about the possibilities for both Omaha and the students enjoying the day, and he hopes that the event will become an annual one to be enjoyed by both the university and Omaha.

Inquiries made by the different department heads revealed that 750 students have absolutely determined to make the trip, rain or shine, hit or miss. That the fever will spread until at least 1,000 and possibly more go up, is expected by faculty men who met with Mr. Parrish and talked the matter over.

Every Moment Full

The trip has been planned so that every moment will be filled to the brim. At the special request of the engineers, no excursions will be arranged for them. The engineers have gone to Omaha before on inspection tours, and they are going to make this trip a joy holiday, in which not less than 100 will participate. They declare that they will make the going and coming trip with the rest on the special, and they are going to feast at the made-in-Nebraska buffet supper and enjoy the entertainment that will follow it, but during the major part of the morning and afternoon they are going to find their own amusement.

In the rest of the departments, however, the teachers have found a genuine desire to partake in the sight-seeing end of the expedition, and every faculty representative at the conference was loaded with a definite itinerary of the places his students wanted to visit. These were turned over to Mr. Parrish, and the trips will be arranged for.

The plan in brief is to begin with the departure from Lincoln, the whole crew together, in the train or trains that will leave the Burlington station at 7:40 o'clock in the morning. The arrival at Omaha will be made about 9 o'clock. Then the students will move to the Omaha auditorium, escorted by the regiment of Omaha high school cadets, one of the crack high school regiments in the country, and in which many students now in the university have drilled.

Special Excursions

From 9:15 until 12 o'clock, the special excursions will be held. The different departments and classes will follow a definitely arranged schedule, each group to be personally conducted by an alumnus, who has the love of the university at heart, and will love the university students who are in Omaha that day.

Among the departments which submitted proposed itineraries to Mr. Parrish were the chemistry department, pharmacy classes, home economics, journalism, art, law, engineers, farm management, geography

A. E. SHELDON WRITES ON STATE CONSTITUTION

Director A. E. Sheldon, of the legislative reference bureau, has written a brief abstract, dealing with information on the present Nebraska state constitution, what its principal defects are, how it compares with other state constitutions, what efforts have been made to amend it and what reasons can be given for calling a state constitutional amendment. A number of requests to the reference bureau for information on this subject led him to prepare this article.

FUN FEATURES LEAKING OUT

Omaha Not Saying Much, but the "Entertainment de Luxe" Will Be Great

The Omaha boosters are not saying much about the "entertainment de luxe" that will be given the students after the great feast at the auditorium Friday afternoon. But Lincoln men who have attended Ak-Sar-Benn entertainments, and teachers who have attended teachers' associations, and students who have come from Omaha and who know what the metropolis can do, are counting upon the entertainment to be the crowning feature of that perfect day that Mrs. Bond sings about so sweetly, and that the ukelelists butcher on a summer eve.

It has leaked out that there will be Omaha's best orchestra to play the most entrancing music, and some have even whispered that the music will be most properly utilized. Then there is billed to appear the famous Galatea, who will admit of no rival in aesthetic dancing save the great Pavlova herself. But it would not be wise to reveal too much of the planned entertainment—the surprise is going to be the best part of it all.

THE FOOD WILL BE FEATURE OF TRIP

Nebraska-Grown, Omaha-Made Products for Every Palate on Friday's Menu

When Mr. Parrish was asked what would be on the menu for the students at the big Nebraska-grown, Omaha-made buffet supper to be served at the Omaha auditorium at 5:30, he frankly confessed that there wouldn't be a thing that would not be there, and that ended it. Omaha's industries are so large, and the resources of the state are so varied, that it was found almost impossible to show any discrimination and to prevent any firm from helping in the donation for the food that will be chewed by the 32,000 teeth of the students—supposing all have visited the dentist recently, and have a full set of biters.

The packing houses of South Omaha have provided meats to suit every palate for the sandwiches and are aided and abetted by the creameries, which have provided cheese. Fruits from the fruit men, vegetables from the big hucksters, every drink imaginable except malt, spiritous or vinous, for the students have said that they want the finest coffees, the most soothing teas, the coolest, freshest milk, the most palatable buttermilks, and all other drinks that the Nebraska dry worker finds most pleasing.

It will all be there, and more, too.

SENIORS PICNIC AT CRETE TUESDAY

ENJOY OLD FASHIONED GAMES IN PICNIC GROVE

Chancellor and Mrs. Avery Provide Tempting Lunch and Even the Captives Got There

The senior picnic at Horky's park near Crete yesterday was the most enjoyable holiday of the year, declared the upperclassmen who returned, tired and happy, last night. Nearly every member of the class was there, by the grace of the juniors, who kindly released their captives in time to get a late morning train to the picnic grounds.

Old-fashioned games, like drop-the-handkerchief, farmer-in-the-dell, and similar ones were played, and it was very evident that the senior children were happy in playing them. Then there was baseball, and fishing, and boating, and dancing—everything in fact to make a perfect day.

Chancellor and Mrs. Avery as usual had prepared the best possible kind of a picnic lunch, and there was everything that one could want to put in one's tummy. When the seniors who had taken part in the fun on the Temple roof reached the grounds and told of their exciting adventures, and were hero-worshipped, it added the final touch that was needed.

EIGHT ALUMNI CLASSES PLAN REUNION STUNTS

More to Be Heard from for Alumni Homecoming

Representatives of twelve alumni classes of the university met at the alumni office Monday night to plan for the entertainment of the alumni who will return to the university during the first week in June when the annual homecoming will be held. The classes of '98, '02, '03, '06, '08, '10, '13 and '15 reported that they had stunts already prepared for the stunt night festivities, and would compete for the bronze cup that will be presented to the class which gives the best sketch.

E. B. Sawyer, '98, moved, and the motion was carried, that on next Monday night, May 22, all classes be asked to submit manuscripts for stunts that they will give. The reports will be presented by a delegation from the class that will give the stunt.

STUDENT COUNCILS IN OTHER SCHOOLS

In yesterday's edition we published a table of the results of the experience of other schools in the matter of the student council. We will be unable to publish this again. It contains matter of importance in deciding whether the council is desirable at Nebraska. We urge all students, therefore, to secure copies of yesterday's Nebraskan, and keep them for future reference.

FORMER NEBRASKAN ON LELAND STANFORD FACULTY

Prof. Alvin Saunders Johnston, '97, formerly professor of economics at Cornell university, will be at Leland Stanford university this year. Professor Johnston's successor at Cornell is Prof. H. J. Davenport, professor of economics at the University of Missouri, and principal of the Lincoln high school about fifteen years ago. This year, Professor Johnston has been on leave of absence to act as one of the editors of "The New Republic."

READ THE NEBRASKAN FOR THE OFFICIAL NEWS

The Daily Nebraskan is the official guide, counsellor and friend of the students who will make the Omaha trip, and the program that it will publish in the Omaha edition will be followed exactly. The Omaha boosters have asked the students to be guided only by the directions contained in The Nebraskan, and not to take orders or directions from any other source. The souvenir edition will contain the program as it will be, and it will be official.

WILL PUBLISH A SUMMER NEBRASKAN

PUBLICATION BOARD DECIDES ON TRI-WEEKLY PAPER

Axel R. Swenson to Act as Both Editor and Business Manager of the Sheet

A summer Daily Nebraskan, first to be published in the history of the university will be issued free of charge to the summer school students this year, according to a decision just made by the student publication board. The paper will be published three times a week, on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, and will be of the same size as the present paper, as planned at present.

Axel R. Swenson of Oakland, a junior in the university, will have charge of the publication of the paper, acting as both editor and business manager. Mr. Swenson has been appointed to this place by the publication board, and intends to get out the first edition of the summer paper June 5, it is thought. On account of the difference in type of articles that the summer paper will probably carry, and the fact that it will be issued but three times a week, it is not thought that the combined business and editorial duties will be too much for one man.

The advertisements are expected to pay for the cost of the publication, so that it will not be necessary to charge the students for subscriptions. The publication of a summer daily is expected to do much toward unifying the spirit of those who attend the summer school session, and to help instill in them the Nebraska university spirit.

ALUMNI ANXIOUS TO EXTEND GLAD HAND

Want to Display the Love for Their Alma Mater on Friday

Among those most keenly interested in the Omaha trip, aside from the students who are going (and be it said, those who for one reason or another feel that they simply can't go), are the Omaha alumni, the gray-beards and the bald-pates, and even the feminine graduates who used to roam through U hall, and occupy the campus benches of a fine spring morning.

The alumni are heart and soul behind the trip, and they are planning a reception so enthusiastic that the students will never forget that Omaha is full of the spirit of fellowship with the college world of Lincoln, and that the university will find her strongest friends in the big city on the "Big Muddy."

Dr. Irving S. Cutter, the recently elected dean of the medical college at Omaha, is the present head of the alumni association who is boosting the trip and preparing to receive the students, Vincent Haskill is chairman of the alumni committee that is organizing the alumni for the reception. "Bill" Kavan and John Cutright, who have been away so short a time that they still seem a part of the student body, are active in boosting the trip. Yale Holland, Frank Buitta and others of their ilk, well known for the whole-hearted good nature and enthusiasm, are active in planning for the trip from the Omaha end.
