vivify the teaching and study of Latin and much of this is placed before the students. Dr. Hunter spends many hours each day in personal conference with people at work in the laboratory or in the Latin department office adjacent. All students in the course are preparing a catalogue of "helps" to assist them in future teaching. A number of teachers of German are taking the course and expect to utilize many points in their language. They work very enthusiastically.

Members of the class present model lessons in first and second year Latin. A most interesting feature of the course was a demonstration July 14, by Donald L. Drummand of the method of presenting Latin used by an English professor under whom he had studied in India.

CHAPTERS FROM U. OF
N. TRADITIONS
UNIVERSITY WEEK

One of Nebraska's youngest traditions, but one which bids fair to become among the most permanent is University Week.

During the week of spring vacation university programs designed to show to the state, university student life and what it accomplishes, are arranged in various high schools of the state. Among the numbers given in the past have been concerts by the University Cadet Band, and by the Glee Club, plays by the Dramatic Club, and the German Dramatic Club, debates by the University debating teams and illustrated lectures by Professors Condra and Persinger. The ticket sale and entertainment of the university troupis is usually in the hands of the high school visited.

The idea of University Week came to Nebraska from Minnesota and Wisconsin, where extensive university lyceum programs are organized. The first week at Nebraska was in the spring of 1915, when Seward, Osceola and David City were visited. The first manager of the Week was Homer G. Hewitt, Law '17.

Last spring with D. T. Lane, Law '16, as manager, five cities, Seward, David City, North Bend, Schuyler and Fremont were on the circuit. The programs both years were highly successful both financially and otherwise.

The manager for next year is R. J. Saunders, '16, and plans are already under way to make next year's program the best ever.

University Week is an opportunity for both university and high school. It is one of the products of the modern tendency, felt especially in the west, to bring the University in the closest possible contact with the people. It shows student life as it really is and what it really accomplishes. The high school students in the cities visited get an opportunity to learn what students are actually doing at the University and are influenced to attend the University themselves.

University Week deserves the active co-operation of all University students and of all high school teachers of the state.
