tural college, as he has been prominently identified with Ag club workings, and was one of the men who helped put across the first Farmer's fair last year. He is a member of the Innocents, but that body, at least as an organization, will carefully refrain from endorsing any candidate for the office that has been heard in the past that they played politics. If Neff runs, it will be upon his own standing, and not as the candidate, either openly or secretly endorsed by the Innocents.

One Other Senior

The other senior whose name has been mentioned is Albert J. Covert of Lincoln. Covert is at present the commanding officer of the university cadets, with the rank of lieutenant colonel, Colonel Burnham being held on the border. Covert has participated in class debates, is a member of the student publication board, and belongs to several honorary fraternities.

In the junior class Ralph Sturm of Nelawka, Lloyd Tully of Alliance and Max Miller of Lincoln, have been

Friday night, to twenty couples, with Mrs. W. Dawson as chaperone.

Frank Barnett, '19, spent Saturday in Omaha.

Lulu Shade, '17, spent the summer at Twin Falls, Ida.

Grace Gibson is attending college at Ames, Ia., this fall.

Beta Theta Pi freshmen gave a house dance Saturday evening.

Charles Peterson, '19, spent the week end at his home in Omaha.

Art Chauner, '19, went on a visit to his parents in Osceola last Saturday.

Vance Sharp, '19, went to his home in Stromsburg Saturday. He returns today.

William McVicker, '19, spent his summer vacation on a farm near North Bend, Neb.

Betty Sturdevant, '20, has left school because of illness and returned to her home in Omaha.

Albert Greenly, '17, held a position with the Sidney Electrical Service company during the summer.

Robert Haskell, '13, will not enter school until next semester. He has a position at the First National bank.

The Tri Deltas this year have two transfers—Virginia Reynolds and Ruth Weeks, both from the University of Baker, Kas.

Miss Elizabeth Holden, daughter of Capt. and Mrs. Charles S. Holden of Worcester, Mass., and Ensign Arthur K. Davis, U. S. N., were married September 16 at the bride's summer cottage on Lake Lashaway. The groom is the son of Dean Ellery W. Davis of the arts and science college. He is a radio officer on the U. S. S. Baltimore, and was graduated from Annapolis in the class of 1915.

"urged to make the race by their friends," to quote the usual political "line." They have all been more or less identified with school activities of various sorts, and are popular with their classmates. One or two or all of them may make announcements in a day or two.

The sophomores are not so well organized as the other classes, but the race there may prove interesting. Carl Harnsberger is a member of the student publication board, was business manager of the Students' Handbook, and holds the same position on the University Directory, which will be published next month. What opposition may develop to his candidacy is still pretty well hidden.

Freshmen Problem

The freshmen class presents a peculiar problem, in that none of the students who may enter the race will have a record on which to base an argument for or against their election. One or two of the football men may come out for the job.

The old frat-barb issue that used to be raised in university elections has been so dead for the past several years that it barely deserves mention. It will not appear in this election.

PARAMOUNT PICTURES

Paramount is Built on Human Nature; Others Rest on Human Whim

Anything to get the public, say the others; anything to hold the public, says Paramount.

"Hitch your wagon to a star" was good advice until Paramount came along and changed it to read:

"Hitch your wagon to a hundred stars."

The exhibitor who is in business for today, tomorrow, next year and for ten years must not gamble—his business must be built staunchly on human nature as it is, and not as some theorist says it is.

One star may make friends fast, but it takes a hundred stars to make fast friends.

The Paramount idea is right, is sound, is lasting. The success of the greatest talking machine company in the world proves it. The success of the greatest vaudeville enterprise in the world proves it. The satisfaction of hundreds of thousands of Paramount patrons proves it.

Visit the Magnet and be convinced of their superiority.

F. E. Denny, '06, who received his Ph. D. in botany in the University of Chicago last year, has been appointed plant physiologist in the bureau of chemistry in the United States department of agriculture. Dr. Denny will be connected with the study of certain botanical aspects of the citrus fruit industry in California.

Miss Louise Dobbs of Beatrice, has gone to Boulder, Colo., where she will attend the University of Colorado. Miss Dobbs took her freshman work at the University of Nebraska two years ago. She was prominent in dramatic work. Last year she attended the University of Iowa.
