

PREFER TO BE WAITERS

Waiting on table is more popular than any other kind of work this fall among men students who work for all or part of their expenses in the University of Wisconsin, according to the student employment bureau. Over 150 students asked for positions as waiters during registration week. Requests for odd jobs cover almost every kind of work, while a large number are willing to do any kind of work.—Exchange.

75 TEACHERS AT WORK IN HIGH SCHOOL

teachers' college high school is one of the first laboratories of this kind established in this country. The plan, however, of having intending teachers try out in a school of this kind is now in vogue in almost every state university on the continent.

In City Schools

In addition to these seniors, who are thus going through an apprenticeship in teaching, about fifty sophomores and juniors are undergoing a similar apprenticeship in the city schools under the careful supervision of Superintendent Hunter and the principals of the various ward schools of Lincoln. These candidates are preparing themselves for teaching in the grades of the public schools and have great need of doing their practice under the direction of skillful teachers in the grade schools. In these schools they make a careful study of the course of instruction and general plan of organization as found in the Lincoln schools which are among the best in the country. During the year two hundred and fifty prospective teachers will thus supplement their theoretical training with this of a practical nature.

THORNE BROWNE, '07, ISSUES BULLETIN

Explains Land Transfers in Nebraska in Tenth Bulletin of the State Series

The tenth bulletin of the Nebraska history and political science series, explaining "The New Torrens Land Transfer Act of Nebraska," which was enacted by the legislature in 1885, has recently been issued by Thorne H. Browne, '07, who was formerly assistant director of the Nebraska legislative reference bureau and who is now secretary of the Nebraska state railway commission. The pamphlet, which covers sixty pages, was published under the direction of the Nebraska legislative reference bureau, Addison E. Sheldon, director.

It is believed that this pamphlet will prove a valuable guide to the taxpayers and land owners of Nebraska and result in improvement of the present law, as well as an ultimate large social saving of both time and money in the transfer of titles to Nebraska land. Mr. Browne has rendered a valuable service to the people of the state by condensing the main features of the law into popular language.

About 5,000 copies will be sent to attorneys, libraries, newspapers and exchanges throughout the state. A copy may be had by asking at the reference bureau.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB MEETING

The home economics club met Tuesday evening in Faculty hall with about sixty old and new members present.

Miss Alice Loomis, heads of the department of home economics, talked on "The Purpose of the Club." Kate Helzer, '18, told the new girls of last year's work and May Youngson, '17, explained what the club expects to do this year. Helen Possner, '18, gave a violin solo and Edith Ord, '17, a vocal solo. A general mixer and "get acquainted" time followed the program and refreshments were served.

The officers of the club for this year are May Youngson, '17, president; Kate Helzer, '18, vice-president; May Sheetz, treasurer. The secretary will be chosen from the freshmen at the first official meeting to be held the first Wednesday in October. The staff for the first home economics annual will also be appointed at the next meeting.

BRIEF BITS OF NEWS

Heard in Dramatics

Miss Howell (in discussion of Lochinvar)—"Class, how would Lochinvar come today?"

Bright student—"In a Ford."
Miss Howell—"Oh, no! That could not be for the poem says 'He swam the Eske river for Ford there was none.'"

Dr. R. G. Clapp spent a part of his summer at Estes Park, Col., where he has a cottage.

C. W. Watson of the farm management department, leaves for Cozad, Monday, to conduct a farmers' short course.

Boyd L. Rist, ex-'16, who is now in the extension service, will leave for Gage county today, where he will do some work for this department.

Prof. S. B. Gass, associate professor of the department of rhetoric, spent the first part of the summer in Chicago and the latter part in Colorado.

The address which was to have been delivered Tuesday morning by Chancellor Fulmer of the Nebraska Wesleyan university, will be given October 10.

University business women's club will give an informal reception Thursday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock at Faculty hall in the Temple. Cocoa will be served. All students are invited.

The University chorus has begun work on the Halloween cantata "Saint John's Eye." The soloists for this will be chosen from members of chorus. The cantata will be given about Halloween time.

Dr. W. D. Mathew, an associate of Professor Osborn, visited the University early in the summer, spending a week in the study of the unusual vertebrate fossils which have been gathered together in the University museum.

The new soccer football arrived yesterday accompanied by twelve new strapped-handle hockey sticks. The first attempts at the soccer football were postponed from Wednesday until Friday because of the delay in getting the working material here.

Iota Sigma Phi, the honorary chemical sorority, held its first meeting of the season Tuesday night. A large amount of work was done, plans being made for the work to be done the entire semester. This sorority was founded at the University of Washington in 1911. It became a national organization last spring with five active chapters, the University of Nebraska being second. They are at the universities of Washington, Leland Stanford, California, Southern California and Nebraska.

Prof. Henry F. Osborn of Columbia university, director of the American museum of natural history, and paleontologist for the United States geological survey, spent some time examining, measuring and sketching the choice specimens in the Morrill geological collection of the state museum. In company with Prof. E. H. Barbour and Harold Cook he drove by auto through the collecting grounds of Nebraska and Wyoming, which have been described at various times by the Nebraska geological survey. Some four hundred miles were made by auto throughout the famous Pliocene beds of Nebraska.

STUDENTS STILL REGISTER IN ARTS COLLEGE FOR MUSIC

Students are still registering for applied music. These late registrations are due to imperfect understanding of the conditions under which musical credit can be obtained under the new arrangements. Any arts and sciences student may take the work in theory and harmony on exactly the same basis as any other University subject and may obtain two hours a semester and a total of eight hours of credit in applied music. Students who major in music are permitted five hours of credit for instrumental music a semester, but all students who receive credit for music must satisfy the entrance requirements as outlined in the supplement to the annual catalogue of the school of fine arts issued this year.

Fall "Dress-Up" Time is Here

There's more reason than ever this Fall for putting your trust in a store like this—a safe place to buy dependable clothes.

We bought our Fall stocks early (in some instances almost a year ago) and got early deliveries of select merchandise before recent price advances went into effect. Therefore we not only have full stocks of dependable clothing and furnishings, but we can give you the same good values on practically everything that we gave a year ago.

Stop and see the new Fall styles whenever you can, whether you're ready to buy or not. There are lots of things you'll be interested in, and you are always welcome at
