60 CANDIDATES FOR BASKETBALL

ties with "Nick" Hartman settling the example.

Although the variety will have some hard agencies to fill this winter, some promising candidates turned out for the initial practice. "Dutch" Flanagan, formerly an Omaha high school star, "Porky" Flynn, and "Johnnie" Collins have general supervision of the Cornhusker basketball team this year, and rooters will watch his work with interest. On the coast Dr. Stewart had even better success in developing strong basketball five than he did in producing champion football machines. His system of coaching, formulated during years of experience, lays the same stress upon details as does his tutoring of the football team.

CIVILIAN SOLIDERS MAKE BRAVE BAYONET CHARGE ON LIBRARY

While the hostile force approached from the north, those who were studying in the library seemed oblivious to the threatened invasion.

A great many volleys were fired at the library wall, but the attacking force did not bring to bear English literature assignments or other heavy artillery. At a late hour the attack had not been resumed and this sector of the campus theater of war was somewhat tame.
