MISSOURI VALLEY TRIUMPHS OVER THE PACIFIC COAST

NEBRASKA SCORES 17 WHILE OREGON AGGIES MAKE 7

Enemy's Touchdown Was a Fluke—Teamwork of Cornhuskers a Big Feature

(Special Telegram to The Daily Nebraskan.)

Portland, Ore., Oct. 2.—Strangers in a strange land, Nebraska University's football team this afternoon outplayed the eleven representing the Oregon agricultural college, and won the greatest intersectional football game of the year, 17 to 7, before a crowd of more than 6,000 people, including a few hundred alumni of Nebraska University and former citizens of the state by the Big Muddy.

The several hundred Nebraskans, sitting together, surrounded by a crowd that was pulling for the Pacific coast team to down its former coach, are happy tonight. For their team, their boys, played a magnificent game of football. A defense that was impregnable, and an offense that had the punch to win two touchdowns and really earn a third from the great Aggie team was unfolded before them.

But the coast need not be ashamed of its champions. They were met by a better team, but the pupils of Coach Pinal played a great game, nor did they cease to give their best until the whistle blew for the end of the battle.

Nebraska's Teamwork

Nebraska's teamwork was the outstanding feature of the game. Working shoulder to shoulder with the precision of a machine, swinging together in interference for the runner with the ball, closing in to meet and check the advance of their opponents, Coach Stewart's team played as men fighting for as well as with each other.

And yet there were stars. Captain Tim Corey, playing in a strange position, delivered the goods as he had never done before. And he it was who, by his sure and steady toe, made the victory certain. Corey kicked both goals after touchdown, and in the final period of play booted a field goal from placement from the thirty-yard line that assured the victory should another fluke give the Aggies an opportunity to make a second touchdown.

Lorin Caley, the smallest man in the backfield, was a star. Squirring his way through and around the opposition, he made both of the Cornhusker touchdowns and had actually crossed the goal for a third, only to let the ball slip out of his grasp. Caley's fumble was costly for Conn, the Aggie fullback, snatched up the pigskin and ran the entire length of the field for the only Oregon score. Caley's splendid play was marred again near the end of the game, when he fumbled a punt in the middle of the field, and an opponent snatched it up for a race to the Nebraska line. Caley pursued and down him perilously near the goal, but the Nebraska line proved equal to the emergency, held for downs, and the ball was punted out of danger.

A Welcome For The Team When It Returns

After having traveled half way across the continent, and out on an unknown field before more than six thousand hostile spectators, Nebraska's football team beat the Oregon agricultural college Saturday afternoon. They played their game, and played it well.

The benefit that the University of Nebraska will reap from the trip will be great in many respects. It has put the school on the map, permanently. The trip and the game has been watched by thousands all over the country.

The team has won a splendid victory, and deserves a victor's welcome. Cannot every loyal Nebraskan join in welcoming the team and the band when they return?

The pledge "For Nebraska, we will," was kept. Let us show our appreciation.

"LAWS" HELP CITY LEGAL AID BUREAU

SEVEN FIRMS FORMED FOR WORK ON REAL CASES

Senior Students Puzzle Over Odd Tangle Presented to Authorities

Senior law students are exercising their talents in handling cases carried to the Lincoln municipal free legal aid department, which is operated in conjunction with the city legal department, with offices at the city hall.

Since Dean William G. Hastings of the college of law agreed to the plan, fourteen senior "laws" have been assigned to the legal aid work, for which part school credit will be given. Seven "firms" have thus been formed. One "firm" holds the office each afternoon, not only receiving callers, but looking up law references governing the case and if necessary arguing the case, generally in justice court.

The Law Firms

The law "firms" formed thus far are:

Curtis O. Lyda and John Loder. Cecil Laverty and Irwin Albert Mellon.

Hugh Williams and H. T. Pressly. Virgil Skipton and Ralph Canady. Everett Carr and Staton.

Anders Christian Debel and Walter Raacke.

Walter Radke and Leonard Titus Fleetwood.

Parker Wickstrom and T. Metcalfe.

The last named firm has not yet been assigned office days, but expects to open operations during November.

Williams & Pressly conducted the department under direction of Sterling F. Metz, assistant city attorney, Thursday afternoon. Mr. Williams said:

"We have not yet received applications where recovery of large sums of money are sought, but we are bending every effort to cling to the ethics of our profession and do worthy work on those cases thus far brought in. Williams & Pressly relinquished the

WANT 70 CO-EDS TO BE MERMAIDS THIS SEMESTER

If seventy University girls buy tickets for the swimming class to be held in the Lincoln high school pool, the season will be assured. The tickets, which include ten swimming lessons, will be sold for $1.50. Two classes will be held—one at 7:30 to 9:30 Thursday night, and the other 9:30 to 11:30 Saturday morning.

Every girl must have a medical examination before purchasing a ticket and all swimming suits must be inspected for fast color. A new grey cotton suit that has been found to be of fast color may be purchased at Armstrong's. The sooner the requirements are met, the earlier swimming will commence. All who are interested should read the poster in the girls' gymnasium.

The district debates on the abandonment of the Monroe Doctrine begin in January.

CHANGING PLANS FOR NEW BUILDINGS

E. B. Jackson, Architect, Consults with Faculty on Revising Plans

E. B. Jackson, of the firm of Coolidge & Hodgdon, University architects, was in Lincoln Saturday conferring with the board of regents, faculty members and the construction department in regard to the plans for the new Social Science and Teachers' College high school buildings.

Plans originally submitted by the architects called for more money than the legislative appropriation. Both of the proposed buildings must be cut down so that they will come within the appropriation. Mr. Jackson discussed advisable changes, and talked to members of the departments which will be housed in the new building, in the interests of reducing the size and cost.

From the Social Science building it has already been necessary to cut out two of the departments, philosophy and rhetoric. These will probably find new quarters in an Arts hall, to come later.

SIGMA CHI WILL KEEP ITS CHARTER

DEAN ENGBERG WIRES NATIONAL OFFICERS NOT TO COME

Is Convinced Chapter Has Right Men Enrolled—Some Students Suspended

Believing that the present personnel of Nebraska chapter of Sigma Chi was not sufficiently involved in recent troubles with civil authorities to warrant the taking of drastic action, Dean Carl C. Engberg wired the national officers of the fraternity Saturday, recommending to them that no further action be taken.

The decision of the executive dean means that the local chapter will not lose its charter, as was feared for a time.

When first notified of the situation, Dean Engberg considered sending for representatives of the national organization, which had threatened two years ago, upon the occasion of another unpleasant occurrence in the local chapter, to remove its charter in the event of any further trouble. Investigation showed the dean, however, that the present members of the fraternity were not responsible for the recent thefts, and that none of the old members who had become involved in the first difficulty were in school.

Those connected with the recent trouble were suspended from school. One of them, the dean said, was not a member of the fraternity, and others were not registered in school at the present time.

A Different Sort

The present members of Sigma Chi are a different sort altogether, according to Dean Engberg, and do not deserve to suffer for the acts of others who are now no longer in the University. Those who deserved punishment had it meted out to them, and with this action the present trouble is at an end.

The telegram sent by Dean Engberg to the national officers follows:

"Wrote yesterday to Mr. Miller concerning Sigma Chi situation. When the boys learned this they told me everything. The six men responsible for misdeeds mentioned are no longer connected with the University. As those remaining are an entirely new set, I recommend that nothing further be done."

DEAN LEWIS SPEAKS FOR MR. HUGHES

PENNSYLVANIA LAW SCHOOL DEAN HERE SATURDAY

Only 18 Heard Him Talk—Declares Wilson Lacks Courage to Take Definite Stand

Before an audience of eighteen, William Draper Lewis, dean of the law college of the University of Pennsylvania, and a prominent progressive, urged the election of Charles E. Hughes to the presidency of the United States. Dean Lewis spoke under the auspices of the University Hughes and Fairbanks club, at the Temple Saturday night.

Dean Lewis declared his conviction to be that Mr. Wilson lacked the one thing required of an executive, the courage to face a difficult situation. The president is marked by his inability to face a situation requiring positive executive action, Dean Lewis declared.

He supported his view with citations from the president's course with Mexico, and the Lusitania affair. Speaking of the latter, Dean Lewis said that the German ambassador was placed here for the purpose of informing the German government of the character of the man at the head of the United States. He must have told his superiors that Mr. Wilson was not the kind of a man who meant what he said, Dean Lewis asserted.

Questions for Lewis

At the close of his talk, which was delivered informally to the audience, Dean Lewis invited questions. Then several of his auditors propounded to him the things suggested in Lincoln by two other members of the progressive party, who had been here to urge the election of Mr. Wilson.

Dean Lewis was asked to explain Mr. Hughes' vote on the two-cent rail-road rate bill, of the equal pay for equal time for women bill, of his op-

NEW COURSE IN FARM MANAGEMENT AT STATE FARM

A new course in "farm management" has been organized under the supervision of Prof. H. C. Filley, head of the department of farm management at the state farm. The course is being sent out by the extension department and promises to be very popular.

The extension course, "Supervised Study," in Education 24, arranged by Dean Fordyce, is proving of great interest to the superintendents and teachers in the state.

JESSIE WELLS, CO-ED, CANNOT BE FOUND

University Girl Has Been Gone a Week—Police in Vain Search

Jessie Wells, 24, of Gering, Neb., who disappeared a week ago, had not been discovered late Saturday night, the Lincoln police declared.

Police Captain Hall, who had believed the girl was found at St. Elizabeth's hospital, discovered that the woman there was a Mrs. Jessie Wells, and not the missing girl. Miss Wells' twin sister, Theresa Wells, said the hospital patient is not her sister, according to the police.

The last definitely known of Miss Wells was when she left the library after studying with some friends last Monday evening. Her folks and the police have searched in vain for her since then, it is reported.

TWO SPEAKERS FOR SEMINAR ON SOCIAL AND POLITICAL QUESTIONS

At the seminar meeting today on social and political questions, Gwendolyn Hughes will speak on "Opportunities for Experienced Workers in Certain Industries in Lincoln." Miss Annis S. Chaikin will talk on "A Camp for Girl Delinquents." The meetings take place on Monday of each week and a program schedule has been made out for the whole semester.

Fraternity Scholarship On Steady Increase, Last Five Years

As a result of some misunderstanding as to the scholarship standing of fraternity and non-fraternity men at the University of Nebraska, the following statistics for the past five years, which show an increase on the part of the former and a decrease on the part of the latter have been obtained from Dean Engberg's office:
